THREE men in Seward county, while working in the harvest field, were stricken to the death by the excessive heat of last Thursday. The death rate, the county over, was unusually large.

FROM the score of 37 to 6, the Arapahoe boys, who went up to Denver, last week, to amuse that team, failed signally. It could scarcely appear "funny"—save perhaps to the spectators.

THE C. B. & Q. system is probably in better financial condition than any road in the west. The available cash surplus in the treasury of the corporation has assumed colossal proportions, $3,000,000. Aggressive, but cautious, they are in the van of advancement.

CONCLUDING from the "food for thought" given the Railway Commission at York, the boys are having considerably less than an excursion of pleasure. If they make an accurate note of the complaints at some such points, they will have to carry an extra car of stenographers.

THE Baltimore Sun, commenting on the frequent miscarriage of justice in criminal cases, says "that out of 3,377 murders perpetrated during the year 1884, the total number of murderers executed was but 313, and of this number 210 met their death by lynch law and only 103 by legal process.

A YOUNG woman, prim and slender, seated herself at one of the tables reserved for ladies in a Sixth Avenue oyster saloon, and after glancing over the bill of fare, said to the waiter: "You may bring me, er—a—Satanized crab, hot." The waiter tiptoed to the cook and whispered: "One deviled crab, hot as Satan."

ATLANTA, GA., has struck out on a new lead. The Union and Confederate soldiers have united to build a memorial monument in that city, upon which will rest statues of Grant and Lee, Sherman and Johnston. Upon the top a soldier in blue and a soldier in gray will clasp hands. The corner-stone of the monument has been laid. It will be 180 feet high, and the estimated cost is $100,000.

EITHER run a town with a vim or just sell out and leave it. One of two things must be done—run the town for all it is worth, get up steam and keep it up—or quit the whole thing, slide out and let nature take its course. Do you want trade? Bid for it. Do you want business to come to your town? Encourage those who do come. Do you want a prosperous town, where people can come who are disposed to make homes? Then bury from sight all spite work—work no more for a few individuals, but all work together for common prosperity and mutual benefit. Wake up, rub your eyes, roll up your sleeves and go to work. Don't work with fear and trembling, but take it for granted that blood will tell. Leave results to themselves, borrow no trouble, but all unite to make it the best kind of a city.—Ex.

LIKE General Grant, the first Napoleon died of cancer. In his case the cancer was in the stomach instead of the throat. It caused him much severer pain than Grant suffered. Toward the last he could not digest his food. He was tormented by a constant thirst. His pulse beat with a feverish quickness. He improved, grew worse, and had all the hope, depression and despair that marked Grant's illness. Unlike the American soldier, he did not retain his mental faculties to the last. The circumstances were different. Napoleon was a vanquished man, a prisoner, deserted by his wife and surrounded only by his military family. His last words referred to his son and the army. Grant not only suffered less, but his last hours were brightened by a thousand loving words and tributes from wife and children, old army comrades, his former foes and the most distinguished men of the world.
