COLD tea by any other name would probably have as many Senatorial admirers.

"Love God, pay pew rent and mind your own business," is Sam Jones' advice to the average man.

SIBERIAN cats are the newest agency in pets. A Siberian cat has a cold and searching voice, and is a valuable addition to the back yard orchestra.—Hartford Post.

ADVICES from Washington are to the effect that the administration offered the late General McClellan the post of minister to Russia, which he declined, and that on the day of his death Mr. Cleveland had determined to appoint him on the civil service commission at a salary of thirty-five hundred a year. The general was spared that humiliation at least.—Journal.

It is the opinion of the receiver of the firm of Grant & Ward and of the attorneys who prosecuted and convicted Ferdy, that Ward has concealed somewhere from one to one and a half millions of money stolen from General Grant and other victims of his confidence game. It has been developed from the books that Ward never made an entry of the money he got out of General Grant from time to time on one and another pretext, but salted it down for his privy purse.—State Journal.

VEGETARIANISM has spread and is spreading very rapidly in London. Ten years ago it was difficult to find an avowed vegetarian, but now more than two thousand persons refresh themselves at vegetarian restaurants. Within the last few weeks two new places have been opened, pledged to provide a vegetarian dinner of three courses for thirteen cents—a price which is, of course, a very tempting one in the metropolis particularly—and the number of dinners served has increased until now it has reached about eight hundred daily.

It is not gold or gods that makes a man wealthy. The best wealth is of the heart, enlightened mind, a loyal conscience and pure affections. He is wealthiest who has the largest stock of wisdom, virtue and love; whose heart beats with warm sympathy for his fellow man; who finds good in all seasons and all men. The generous man who pities the unfortunate poor man who orders well his life, the loving man who clings to his family and friends, the studious man who seeks instructions in all things, are the truly wealthy men.—Exchange.

THE women who look well in short hair are few in number and hard to find. The average female skull is not, when laid bare by the ruthless hand of the destroying barber, a thing of beauty nor a joy forever. The average female face divine, when shorn of its background of silken tresses, looks too often like an unripe and undeveloped carrot. The average female ear will not bear up under close inspection, although it may be large enough and vigorous enough to strike out independently and fearlessly from the head. The face of a woman loses its charm and becomes the mug of an underdone boy.—Chicago Mail.

SOME ladies and gentlemen of Pittsburg are organizing a society for the protection of married women, the chief object being the creation and maintenance of a fund for the prosecution of wife-beaters. Such an organization with a large membership roll would do good, indirectly as well as directly. The collection of a trifling admission fee from each member and the designation of an even smaller amount as dues would raise money enough to pay for counsel in many such cases, and the awakening of public opinion on the subject that would follow the announcement of the movement would tend to encourage the courts to make the sentences of convicted wife-beaters as severe as the law allows. It might even result in the passage of a law making the penalty severer.

THE reason why Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a favorite with so many people is because it can always be depended upon. Its prompt and effectual cures of coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough, have made it standard and those who have used it prefer it to any other. Sold by M. A. Spalding and A. J. Willey.
