FUNERAL OF GENERAL MCLELLAN

All That is Mortal of Gen. George B. McClellan Tenderly Consigned to the Grave.

New York dispatch: At 10 o'clock this morning the body of Gen. George B. Mc-Clellan was removed from the house of W. C. Prime in east Twenty-third street to Madison Square Presbyterian church. where the last funeral services were performed by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst. Although the morning broke dark and gloomy, with occasional bursts of rain, yethundreds of people gathered in the neighborhood of the church and Mr. Prime's house. Squads of police officers began to arrive early and were placed in position to preserved order. Two hundred and fifty men were eployed in lines extending from Mr. Prime's house to the church, two blocks away, while other officers guarded the church door and passages leading to them. No one was admitted within the doors of the Prime mansion, and only the pallbearers and immediate family were present when reverently and with tender hands the black cloth covered casket upon which rested a sheaf of wheat and a few immortelles was lifted and slowly borne to the street. On either hand were the pall-bearers, consisting of Gen. Hancock, Gen. Por-ter, Gen. W. B. Franklin, Gen. J. E. Johnson, Gen. Anson G. McCook, Gen. Mc-Mahon, S. L. Barlow, the Hon. W. C. Key-sey, Col. Edward H. Wright, Thatcher W. Adams, W. C. Prime, the Hon. A. S. Hewitt, J. T. Agnew, and W. S. Alsop. Behind the pall-bearers followed the family and family servants.

In this order the cortege left the house. and was met outside by the state commandery of the Loval Legion of the United States and the representatives of Meagher's Irish origade, which served under Gen. McClellan. Both these organizations preceded the body down Madison avenue, where, between open ranks, the funeral cortege passed into the church and up the isle, where stood the officiating clergyman. The church was without decorations or emblems of mourning, except a few flowers at the altar. The services were of the simplest description, not occupying half an hour. "Jesus, Lover of My Sonl," and "Mother, Dear Jerusalem," two of the hymns Gen. McClellan best liked were sung, and Dr. Parkhurst offered prayer and Dr. Whitaker read the fifteenth chapter of Corinthians. 'The final rights also were conducted in the simplest manner. When the service was ended the coffiin was placed on the shoulders of the undertaker's assistants who marched slowly terious" sudden death claims another vicdown the aisle to the door. The congregation remained standing till the pall-bearers and members of the bereaved family had left the building. Outside of the church the street was lined with peo-

The family and a delegation of neighbors from Orange and a committee of the Loya Legion took carriages and were driven to the Pennsylvania railroad depot, where a special train stood waiting to receive the party. The train steamed out of the depot for Trenton, where the burial took place.

As the funeral procession moved from the church to the depot it was received with respect by the people who hurried along the sidewalk. Hats were lifted and many a tear fell from the eyes of veterans who served under the dead general whose

"DROPPED DEAD."

The Fate that Overcame "Little Mac" and Five Other Governors.

Apropos of the sudden death of Gen. Geo. B. McClellan, we note that the New York Sun, points out the singular fact that Gove nor DeWitt Clinton, Governor Silas Wright, Governor William L. Marcy, Governor and Chief Justice Sanford E. Church, and Governor R. E. Fenton, all of New York state, dropped dead of heart disease, and under quite identical circumstanceseach of them dying while reading a letter except Marcy, who was perusing Cowper's poems

Hold your hand against the ribs on your left side, front,-the regular, steady beating of this great "force pump" of the system, run by an unknown and mysterious engineer, is awful in its impressiveness! Few persons like to count their own pulse-beats, and fewer persons still enjoy marking the "thub-thub" of their own heart.

"What if it should skip a beat!"

As a matter of fact the heart is the least susceptible to primary disease of any of our vital organs. It is, however, very much injured by certain long-continued congestions of the vital organs, like the kidneys, liver and stomach. Moreover, blood filled with uric acid produces a rheumatic tendency, and is very injurious to healthful heart action,-it often proves fatal, and, of course, the uric acid comes from impaired kidney action.

Roberts, the great English authority, says that heart disease is chiefly secondary to some more fatal malady in the blood or other vital organs. That is, it is not the original source of the fatal malady.

The work of the heart is to force blood into every part of the system. If the organs are sound it is an easy task. If they are at all diseased, it is a very, very hard task. Take as an illustration: The kidneys are very subject to congestion and yet, being deficient in the nerves of sensation, this congested condition is not indicated by pain. It may exist for years, unknown even to physicians, and if it does not result in complete destruction of the kidneys, the extra work which is forced upon the heart weakens it every year, and-a "mystim!

This is the true history of "heart disease,"-so called, which in reality is chiefly a secondary effect of Bright's disease of the The police maintained good order. kidneys, and indicates the universal need of that renowned specific Warner's safe cure.

> B. F. Larrabee, Esq., of Boston, who was by it so wonderfully cured of Bright's dis eass, in 1879, says that with its disappearance went the distressing heart disorder, which he then discovered was only secondary to the renal trouble.

There is a general impression that the medical profession is not at fault if it frankly admits that heart disease is , the body was on the way to its last resting cause of death. In other words, a cure of There may be no help for a broken down, wore out, apoplectic heart, but there is a help for the kidney disorder which in most cases is responsible for the heart trouble, and if its use put money and fame into the treasury of the profession instead of into the the hands of an independent investigator, every graduated doctor in the world would exclaim of it, as one, nobler and less prejudiced than his fellows once exclaimed: "It is a God-send to humanity!"

Mysterious Joke.

A joke is a mystery to some people. In certain court in this state on a time the proceedings were delayed by the failure of a witness named Sarah Mony to arrive. After waiting a long time for Sarah the court concluded to wait no longer, and, wishing to crack his little joke remarked, "This court will adjourn without Sarah-mony." Everybody laughed except one man, who sat in solemn meditation for five minutes, and then burst into a hearty guffaw, exclaiming, "I see it! I see it!" When he went home he tried to tell the joke to his wife. company. "There was a witness named Mary Mony who didn't come," said he, "and so the court said, 'We'll adjourn without Mary-Mony." "I don't see any point to that," said his wife. "I know it," said he, "I didn't at first; but you will in about five minutes."-[Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

AN OLD TIMER .- It will be seen from the advertisements elsewhere, that the American Agriculturist, now half a century old, has enlarged its sphere, so as to make a specialty of home matters. It accordingly, in the future, will be devoted to everything pertaining to the Hearth and Home, as well as to the Farm, Garden, and Housenold.

Catarrh in the Head

Originates in scrofulous taint in the blood. Hence the proper method by which to cure catarrh, is to purify the blood. Its many disagreeable symptoms, and the danger of developing into bronchitis or that terribly fatal disease, consumption, are entirely removed by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which cures catarrh by purifying the blood and also tones up the system and greatly improves the general health of those who take It. "I had been troubled by general debility, caused in member when, I had the catarrh in my head, It consisted of an excessive flow from my nose, ringing and bursting noises in my ears, and pains on the top of my head. The hawking and spitting were most excessive in the morning, when the back part of my tongue would be thick with a white fur, and there would be a bad taste in my mouth. My hearing was affected in my left car. Five years ago I began to use Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was helped right away;

Catarrh Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Martin Shields, a successful marketman of Chicago derived help from Hood's Sarsaparilla. He says: have been troubled with that distressing complaint, catarrh, and I want to say that I have been using Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I find it one of the best remtem is improving. My case is of such long standing edies I have ever taken. My trouble has lasted ten years, and never before could I get any relief, never. until I commenced to use Hood's Sarsaparilla. I would recommend its use to all suffering with that complaint. It is truly an excellent medicine."

"I took Hood's Sarsaparilla for dyspepsia, which I had for nine or ten years, suffering terribly with it. It has entirely cured me, and I recommend it to others who suffer with this disease."-MRS. A. NOR-TON, Chicopee, Mass.

Ward's First Sunday in Sing Sing.

Ferdinand Ward spent a quiet day at Sing Sing prison Sunday, Nov. 1st. He occupied a cell to himself and did not seem disposed to talk with anybody. When he marched with his gang to breakfast in the messroom he was the cynosure of all eyes, the convicts having become aware that he was a new arrival. He ate his hash and his two slices of bread and drank his coffee with apparent relish. After the breakfast he marched in line with the gang to the chapel. Services concluded, he then marched out and fell into the lock-step of the prisoners quite naturally. They passed out of the building, and he, with the others, picked up his bucket, slung it on his arm, and again resumed his place in line to go to the window and receive his day's rations. Principal Connaughton said Ward promised to be a good prisoner, and as long as he was he would get along nicely. His work will be to take a coarse file, rim up castings and fit them inte
