Handwriting.

We have a right-handed writing to be written with a centrifugal motion, in one direction, across the page from left to right, a writing which taxes the weak muscles of the hands, and which takes four or five times as long as is necessary for the representation of a word, as is shown by stenographers, who write as fast as a person can speak. In view of the increase of writer's cramp due to the extraordinary amount of other boy yells out! "I say, gumboats, writing to be done by bookkeepers, bookwriters, teachers and savants, it was suggested that a new method of writing should be intelligently discussed and one inaugurated that should be less elaborate, less taxing upon the small and weak muscles of the hand; a handwriting in which the letters can be formed as in phonography, disconnected, not requiring such precise and complicated notions to make them legible, and which can be written from above downward, from right to left or left to right, as one may choose.

Remedy for Hydrophobia.

People of Ufa, Russia, have a cure for hydrophobia of their own. They give to bitten men and beasts a powder made from a field plant known on the Volga as drok, of which Gemata Tinctoria is the scientific name. This powder is taken on an empty stomach for three days, and one dose on the ninth day. Salt and salty food spoil the effect of the drug. A well-known family of land owners used the medicine for over forty years, and saved over four hundred men, women and children affected with hydrophobia.

Nebraska's Rapid Growth.

Nebraska happily escaped those civil and anti-bellum strifes that stained the soil of "bleeding Kansas" so red with blood that, like the hand of Macbeth, it might "the multitudinous seas incarnadine, making the green one red." The history of the sister state has been one of peace and prosperity, and her annals contain no such records of violence and crime as in earlier days gave an unenviable notoriety to the land for which pro-slavery and anti-slavery men contended. Though next to the baby state, Colorado, in point of age, having only been admitted to the Union in 1867, Nebraska has already out-stripped in population many of the older states, and if the next census returns don't require seven figures to show the number of her inhabitants she will be as disappointed as was St. Louis when Chicago took a big jump ahead of her and crossed the half million

After all, however, the greatness of a state or city does not consist in the number of her residents but in her enterprise and intelligence, and Nebraska stands this test also. She claims as thrifty and brainy a population as any state possesses, and some recent evidences of popular feeling upon certain important issues of the day tend to support this view. New ideas have been heartily welcomed and merit has received its due. This will help to explain why Athlophoros, which has been so successful as a cure for rheumatism and neuralgia in more Eastern States, is now meeting with such favor as it makes its way Westward over the prairies.

Miles Finlan, of Tuckersville, Neb., says: "After using two bottles of Athlophoros I was enabled to rise from my bed, to which I had been confined for four months. I have not had an attack since, and it is the longest relief I have found from that dread disease, rheumatism, for nineteen years. I still have two bottles left that I keep in case I should be again attacked."

From Long Pine, Brown county, Neb. came good news in a letter from Mrs. M. A. Morford, who says:

"Two bottles of Athlophoros have almost cured a lady here who was a great sufferer from rheumatism. She has been using the medicine for about two weeks and finds great improvement. She thinks it a most valuable remedy and is so pleased with it that she doesn't know how to express herself, but says that those who make it are angels for helping her so much. I have also recommended it to several other persons." "Some fourteen months ago," says A. Hayward, of Burlington, Ia., "I was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. I tried a dozen different kinds of medicine said to cure rheumatism, but to no purpose. Finally, I procured a bottle of Athlophoros. After using the bottle it did me so much good that I bought another, but did not have to use more than a third of the second bottle before I was entirely cured. From that time up to the present I have never had anything like rheumatic pains, and I thank Athlophoros for the Halted Sheridan.

Gen. Sheridan was once halted by G. M. Woodward, of Wisconsin, when the latter was a "high private" in the army of the Potomac and on picket duty. A man on horseback came along and he greeted him with the proper salutation: "Who goes there?" "A friend," was the reply. "Advance, friend, and give the countersign!' said the young private. "I am Gen. Sheridan," said the horseman. Woodward gave him to understand that he didn't care if he was Gen, Sheridan; that he wanted the countersign, and he brought his bayonet into close proximity to the General's person and demanded the proper answer. Sheridan smiled, gave it to him and, as he rode away, turned to remark: "Young man, there's a regiment of infantry coming just behind me. Don't molest 'em."

A Shoemaker Wins $15,000. New York Tribune, Feb. 16th.

Frederick Scharf, a shoemaker of No. 704 DeKalb avenue, Brooklyn, has suddenly found himself possessed of troops of friends. Men who formerly paid no attention to him, have been excedingly affable and anxious about his welfare. This change has been brought about by what he regards as a piece of exceptional good luck. A few days ago he received notice that a lottery ticket, of which he owned one-fifth part, had drawn the capital prize of $75,000, entitling him to $15,000. He expects to receive the money this week. Scharf is a poor, hardworking man with no family, who barely earned his own support by his trade, and who found his only luxury in drinking a social glass of beer with some friends. One of these, named Meyers, one day bantered him to buy a lottery ticket. Scharf at first refused, but Meyers told him that he had bought one-fifth of a ticket for $1, and urged Scharf to do the same. After some delay the shoemaker did so. One day last week the two men got a list of the lucky numbers, and Scharf's was among them. He proposes to give Meyers $1,000, and give a supper to his friends. What to do with the rest of the money he has not decided, although a multitude of advisers are seeking to give him wisdom.
