The McCook Tribune.

Mr. Manning sick, Mr. Lamar sick, Mr. Garland sick, Mr. Randall sick, and the democratic party not very well itself.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND'S weak theatrical point is "The Mikako." He smiles to see the Lord High Executioner sharpen his snicker. Senator Edmunds also snickers.

THE Massachusetts liquor dealers have formed a protective association under the name of the "Knights of Liquor." A night of liquor generally means a night off.

WHAT the conscientious Christian world is going to say to the "two Sams" at Chicago about chewing gum is still wrapped in gloom. What is the use of reforming a cigarette smoker into a gum gaumer?

A DENVER paper on the prohibition movement in Georgia says: "It is like the roll of the surf; it is well nigh irresistible. All but twelve counties in that state have voted against the granting of liquor licenses. Georgia is a promising field for druggists."

SPARKS was revoked again last week. Lamar is a leisurely secretary of the old school, and has evidently settled it in his mind that he will revoke Sparks just about once a week. Sparks, it is said, is not feeling very frisky of late and contemplates commuting his office for a foreign consularship.

A LAW has been passed by the Italian parliament prohibiting the wearing of corsets by the ladies beyond a certain degree of pressure. If congress could be induced to pass a law of this kind, imagine the fury of the strife between the slaughter house and packing house democrats, over the appointment of a corset inspector for Nebraska. We trust that the law will not be passed for it would destroy the party in this state.—Journal.

A YOUNG married woman named Jennie Woods of Chicago, whose husband was away in New York, took a notion to see the elephant in the absence of her lord. So she got a young man to pilot her to an opium joint. She smoked, as an experiment, the unheard of number of ten successive pipes of the deadly drug. Then she died. The young man has evaporated. It is doubtful if a wife with no more sense than this one displayed was of much consequence to her husband, and the loss to society is not irreparable.—Journal.

THE hyphenated newspapers, common throughout the country, says the World, are now called upon to admit to their ranks a curious combination published at Red Gulch, Arizona. The original publication was the Red Gulch Dam. The rival newspaper was the Red Gulch Fool. The two have been consolidated under a hyphenated title, presenting a startling combination that calls for mild protests, even in Arizona, against such public profanity.

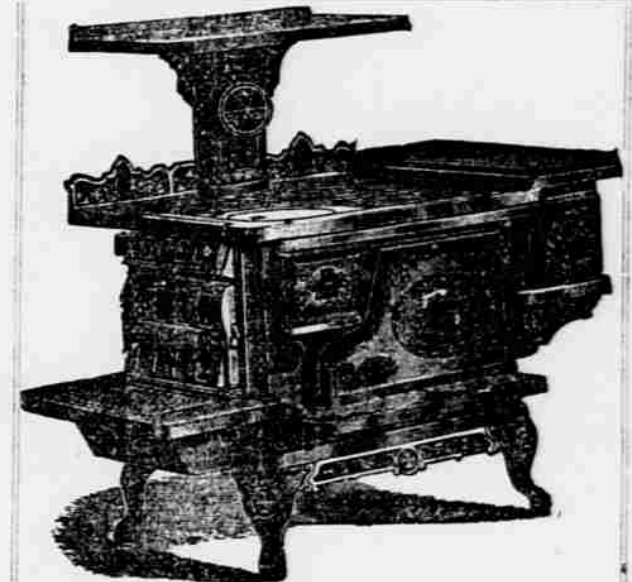

Anna Draper, of Hepburn, Iowa, briefly states her opinion of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. She says it is far superior to any medicine she ever used for croup. Sold by M. A. Spalding and Willey & Walker.
