Sparks Again Overruled.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The secretary of the interior has revoked the order of Commissioner Sparks, of April 3, 1885, suspending final action upon entries upon public lands. The following is the secretary's letter to the commissioner:

Department of the Interior, Washington. To commissioner of the general land office, sir: On April 3, 1885, you issued the following order:

The practice of the suspension of the rules for final action in this office upon all entries of public land, except private cash entries, and such scrip locations as are not dependent upon acts of settlement and cultivations, is suspended in the following localities, viz: All west of the first guide meridian west, in Kansas; all west of 17 range west, in Nebraska; the whole of Colorado except land in the late Ute reservation; all Dakota, Idaho, Utah, Washington, New Mexico, Montana, Wyoming and Nevada, and that portion of Minnesota north of the indemnity limits of the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba railroad. In addition, final action in this office will be suspended under the act of June 3, 1878, and also all cases of desert land entries.

(Signed) W. A. J. SPARKS, Commissioner.

Whatever necessity may have existed at the time of its promulgation has ceased to be sufficient to longer continue an order suspending all action and involving in common condemnation of innocent and guilty, honest and dishonest. While I earnestly urge the exercise of the strictest vigilance to prevent, by all agencies within your power, the consummation of fraudulent or wrongful land claims, yet when the vigilance of all these agencies shows no substantial evidence of fraud or wrong, honest claims should not be delayed or their consideration refused on general report or rumors. The above order, as issued by you, is therefore revoked, and you will proceed in regular, orderly and lawful consideration and disposal of claims suspended by it. Very respectfully,

(Signed) L. Q. C. LAMAR.

That familiar and always despised character, the Irish informer, has received his death blow in the decision of the English home office to offer no more pardons to accomplices of criminals who may make confessions. This will be bad news for the unprincipled scoundrels who have infested Ireland and plied their trade in sending innocent men to the dungeon and the gallows. The practice of granting pardons to informers has been one of the worst features of Irish misrule for nearly a century. It went hand in hand with a coercion which caused the frequent outburst of revolution and revenge against the iron hand of castle tyranny. Now that coercion has been throttled forever by the genius of William E. Gladstone the occupation of the Irish informer would be gone even if the home office had not legislated him out of existence. No one will regret his departure from the scene of his infamous operations.

The train men on the Union Pacific have every reason to be satisfied with the result of their friendly conference with the managers. They presented their grievances, were afforded full opportunity to discuss them, and after several conferences, practically won their point by a compromise mutually satisfactory. There were no threats on either side, but a business like and conciliatory spirit on the part of the employes, which was met by an equally friendly spirit on the part of the company. Such a victory is worth more than appears on its face. It is a triumph of peaceful methods of settling labor disputes without a costly warfare and a struggle whose antagonisms last long after the conflict has ended.

The Macon Telegraph gives the democracy of the north some pretty plain talk in regard to the next presidential campaign. It says: "One thing should not be forgotten by the candidates for the Presidency in 1888, and that is that while the South is well-nigh solid, there is a large amount of what might be called don't care-a-damn-ness lying around loose. Attenuated imbecility, nicknamed reform, Mugwumpery mounted on spider-legged principles, and the personal pronoun wearing an eighteen-inch collar, have all conspired to make this people determined that the next convention shall bring forth a democrat who will resemble some of his ancestors more than he does the transient boarder."

S. H. Jones of Ashley, Ill., buys Chamberlain's Pain Balm by the half dozen bottles. He says it is a sure cure for neuralgia. It is also used for rheumatism and has cured many cases that had resisted all other treatment. Sold by M. A. Spalding and Willey & Walker.

In the bitterly sarcastic speech lately made in the Senate by Senator Ingalls of Kansas, he sizes up the mugwumps as follows:

"But there was a third sex—if that could be called a 'sex' which sex had none—resulting sometimes from cruel caprice of nature, at others from accident or malevolent design, possessing the vices of both and the virtue of neither, unable either to beget or to bear—possessing neither fecundity nor virility—endowed with the contempt of men and the derision of women—doomed to sterility, isolation and extinction. But they have two functions—they sing falsetto and are usually selected as the guardians of the seraglios of Oriental despots."

The people of Nebraska have cause to be proud of their growing, flourishing metropolis, Omaha. A city of such snap and vim would be a credit to a much older Commonwealth.
