WE learn that Risley of the Reveille has purchased the Akron Beetle, paying therefore $25. Our informant, however. does not aver that the money was paid eash in hand

EDITOR ROSEWATER has again reckoned sadly without his host, and in the sweet subsequently, when in search of gore galore, he will doubtless cross pens with another than the "genial Topics," whose recent excoriation, Edward will perhaps never forget nor forgive.

NEWSPAPERS come high up in Hitchcock county. The Stratton Gazette sold, the other day, we learn, to A. W. Suiter, for the munificent sum of $55, under a mortgage held against the concern by Suiter, taken to secure a labor debt. The retiring journalist, we are informed, will be short about $500, but his large experience will amply repay him for that small item of expense. Glory is immortal.
