A NEW mineral deposit has been struck in West Galena, Ill., which is reported to be the greatest mining bonanza ever struck in that city.

"The colored men of this city are flocking to the party," said a New York democratic politician, recently. "Well," responded his opponent, "you'll need them, for your party requires a thundering lot of whitewash."

"The shah of Persia," says the London Truth, "appears to be a model fatherly sovereign. The ladies of Teheran recently sent a deputation to him to complain of the cafes, which are springing up there on all sides. They set forth that their husbands spent too much of their time there, and that the consequence was a decrease in the development of family life, and a blow to the happiness of the domestic hearth." The next day his Persian majesty ordered all the cafes in the kingdom to be closed."

POMPOUS BANKER—William, I'm going to the exchange. From there I go to the directors' meeting of the Gilded insurance company, after which I shall look in on my associates in the bull-beef syndicate, and then go home. If anybody calls you will know where to find me. Good-day! Cashier—All right, sir; good-day! [Aside.] I am going to Delmonico's. From there I go to the office again, after which I shall look in on the ticket office of some reliable scalper, and then go to Canada. If anybody calls you won't know where to find me.—Tid-Bits.

"LET me tell you a good little story about a young man down our way," said an Oxford gentleman the other day. "The hero of our story is a well known citizen of Minden. He was married not long ago and started on a western wedding trip. When the train stopped at Oxford for dinner a waiter rushed out and began pounding a gong. The young man from Minden, thinking it was intended for a chivari, rushed up to him and exclaimed: 'Hold on, there! How did you fellows down here get onto this racket? Stop her! I'll set 'em up for the boys.'"

"My dear," said a young Chicago wife to her husband after they had returned from their wedding tour and settled down to housekeeping, "in looking over this box of goods, I find your father's old family Bible and here is an entry under the head of births, which says: 'Albert W., born May 3, 1840.' Didn't you tell me you were 37 years old?" "Ah," replied Albert pleasantly, "that's a copy of the old version. It's full of mistakes. In my office down town I have a Bible of the new revision. I'll bring it home this evening."

A SAD accident recently happened in a church in Liverpool. The pews of the church had been varnished the week previous and were not yet entirely dry. The congregation did not know this. The clergyman came out of the vestry room and began the service by reading the sentence: "Rend your hearts and not your garments," etc., the congregation rising as he began. But, to the horror of everyone, they found themselves stuck fast to the seats; and, though they had just been told not to do so, many of them literally rent their garments in their efforts to get up.
