ANNOUNCEMENT.

In accordance with the wishes of my friends as well as of the leading business men of McCook, and also many of the delegates who opposed me in the Republican Convention, and who have since reconsidered the matter, I do hereby announce myself as an independent candidate for the office of Commissioner, in and for the Second Commissioner District in Red Willow county.

The entire republican state ticket, submission plank and all, will, like Eli, "get there" beyond a peradventure. Let the heathen rage and imagine vain things!

No one who appreciates a neat job, artistically performed, can fail of enjoying with keenest relish the superb manner in which the boys at the state convention, last week, raised "the old man's scalp."

Our honored townsman, G. L. Laws, received his nomination as secretary of state of this great commonwealth, not at the hands of the politicians, but as the free and honest expression of the wishes of the people. Coming thus, the honor is the more complimentary, and the more highly appreciated. "Vox populi" candidates are as scarce as the conventional hen's teeth, these days of political shysters and chicanery.

HON. JAS. LAIRD, our next congressman from the "big second," in his speech in Hastings after his nomination, said: "The only recompense I can offer for your brave adherence is that if elected I will stand for the soldier, believing it to be right. I will stand for the settler, believing it to be right. I will stand for the people, believing that to be right. And that in all things, unless my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth, and my right hand forget its cunning, I will stand for the 'under dog' in the fight, believing that to be the best interpretation of the great rule, 'Do unto others as you would that they should do unto you.'"

OVERWHELMED with terror at the very intimation of RECORD, from his chariot of the sun, comes down Editor G. S. Bishop, of the Indianola Courier, and upon his narrow bones in suppliance bent, begs for quarters, asking that the full, pure, penetrating light of heaven be not cast back into his past, with its humiliating, forbidding phantoms. We gladly accept the Courier's apologies and as willingly extend the desired clemency. THE TRIBUNE has ever entertained the kindest, tenderest solicitude for the editor of the Courier, perchance largely because of the knowledge that providence has not dealt too generously with him in some of the essential characteristics that combine to make the genus homo. But candidly, brother occupant of the tripod, propeller of the faber journalist, companion candidate for glory immortal, we have never seriously entertained the idea of stooping down to roll in the mire with you, much less to bite with you the dust of the sanguinary pit of pugilism. Perhaps by the time you have tinted your thatched abode (?) of wisdom you will understand the philosophy hereof. In conclusion there is nothing in this article of an impersonal nature, and our residence for immediate future is at the old stand on East Dennison street, in the beautiful city of McCook, satrapy of Red Willow.

Sketch of the next Governor.

Gen. John M. Thayer, who heads the republican ticket, came to Nebraska in 1854, settled in Omaha as a farmer. It was not long before he had to give up the plowshare for the sword, as in 1855 he commanded a party of volunteers to quell a disturbance among troublesome Indians at Fontanella, then the frontier. Subsequently he was at the head of the territorial militia, and as such did good work in restraining the Pawnee Indians from committing depredations against the whites. General Thayer was a member of the upper house of the territorial legislature from 1859 to 1860, and in the fall of the later year he was chosen a member of the constitutional convention. When the war broke out he informed the Secretary of War that Nebraska would furnish one regiment and immediately, under orders, proceeded to organize the same. On the completion of his labors he was appointed colonel of the First Nebraska, and proceeded with the regiment to St. Louis in the summer of 1861. Subsequently he went with his command to Pilot Knob and Sedalia, Mo. After short service with the Fremont expedition, to Springfield, Mo., the First Nebraska went by steamer to Fort Henry and participated with distinction at Donelson and Shiloh. Its colonel was then made brigadier general for gallant and meritorious service, and during the battles named he served as commander of the second brigade of Wallace's division. Afterward he went to Memphis and commanded a brigade of Iowa troops at the battle of Chickasaw Bayou, then he led in the battle of Arkansas Post, in which over 5,000 prisoners were taken. Gen. Thayer served with distinction all through the siege of Vicksburg; for gallant and meritorious service was made a major general of volunteers. He participated in the capture of Jackson, Miss., under General Sherman; he was in the army of Arkansas under Gen. Steele, and also took a prominent part in the battles of Prairie d'Ann, Moscow, Jenkin's Ferry and Saline river. Afterward he had command of the army of the Frontier, and while at Ft. Smith he defeated the rebel generals Cooper and Maxey. After short service in command at Helena, on the Mississippi river, he closed his military career on July, 1865, and returned to Omaha. On admission of the territory as a state in 1866, he was elected United States Senator, and served one term. In 1875 he was appointed governor of Wyoming and served one year. General Thayer was born in Bellingham, Norfolk Co., Mass., and is now in the prime of life. No Nebraska has been more prominent in public affairs than he, and none been more faithful to every trust.—Ashland Gazette.

THE actions of the Russian General Kaubars in Sofia must be exceedingly irritating to the Bulgarians. These people of late years have made great progress, and are beginning to taste the benefits which flow from independent government. They have shown themselves brave in battle and capable of appreciating the advantages of governing themselves. If left alone they bid fair to become a compact, progressive little nation, which will grow under the impulse of the national spirit, of recent years so high. It would be a pity if the European powers permit Russia to set the blight of her protectorate upon this country.—Kansas City Times.

MR. POWDERLY scored a great hit when he spoke of the mass of foreign born citizens and their children who know nothing of American history nor of our constitution. It is brimful of suggestion to legislators and educators. It may serve to turn attention to a subject which has hitherto been neglected in this country. The American absorbs the spirit of our institutions. But the foreigner has got to be taught them. Hitherto this has not been done to any extent. It is not yet too late to be giving thorough lessons.—K. C. Times.

THERE are about one thousand Chinese in the city of Chicago. There are five Sabbath schools of Chinese pupils, with an average attendance of 225. One of these schools holds sessions five evenings in each week. Eighteen Chinese are members of "the Chinese Christian Association," and eight of these are preparing for missionary work. Several of them are preparing to return to their Chinese homes to engage in labor there. This is not a bad record.

THE democratic state convention meets at Hastings, to day. The state will soon be safe!
