The Jesse Welborn property, which adjoins the town site of Indianola, was purchased, last week, from Geo. Hocknell, who came into its possession some month's since, by Ex-Treasurer J. H. Goodrich, who has already platted an addition to the county-seat and placed lots on the market.

A sedate appearing gentleman, claiming to be "a scientific phrenologist," was in town, the fore part of the week, discovering unto the inquisitive and credulous McCookite his peculiar and particular penchant for wine, women and cards, or what-not. All for the simple sum of twenty-five cents.

The Scientific American, referred to in another column, under the heading of "Patents," is the very best publication in this country for those interested in science, engineering, mechanics, inventions, etc. A copy of the Scientific American may be seen at the office of this paper, where subscriptions will be received.

The suit brought by J. B. Jennings, Esq., against the City Water Works Co., which occupied the attention and time of Justice Bennett, almost all day Monday, resulted in a verdict for the company. Mr. Jennings gave notice that he would appeal the case. We will not harass our readers with the details of a case, with which they are doubtless already conversant.

An aged gentleman named Richardson, of Benkelman, had the misfortune to fall into the excavation in front of the Franklin building, Monday night, fortunately without serious injury. The lesson should not be forgotten. There has been too great carelessness in this regard in the past, and it has been more good fortune than ought else that some one has not been more seriously injured.

THE TRIBUNE has it from A. J. Pate that, in conjunction with C. J. Ryan of Grafton, this state, an old Illinois elevator man, he contemplates building an elevator at this station, at once, if satisfactory transportation rates can be secured, of which they entertain no serious question. Combining experience and ample means and business tact, the firm will make the best of this new field.

All members are earnestly requested to attend the December 6th meeting of the A. O. U. W., for the nomination of officers for 1887, and other business of importance.

Increasing interest and membership are features of the library association pleasing to announce. Every reader should put himself in the way of reaping the benefits thereof.

A very gratifying improvement is noticeable in the architecture of buildings now going up all over the city, over the older designs and buildings. It is a matter of pardonable pride.

The first of the week, J. M. Henderson bought W. O. Moody's papers on a tree claim, lying four miles north of the city, and adjoining the former's farm; the consideration being $760.

We take pleasure in making the announcement that the ladies of the Congregational church will spread a Christmas Dinner, this year. So make your arrangements accordingly. We will give particulars later.

A bible reading and song service of the Y. P. A. will be held at the Methodist church, next Sabbath evening, at 6 o'clock, mountain time. All members and friends of the association are invited to attend. Bring bibles and gospel hymns.

The young woman named Carl, of West McCook, whose illness was mentioned in our last issue, passed over the river of death, Friday, and was buried on the day following in Longview, by sorrowing parents and sympathizing friends.

A South McCook Mission Sabbath School of the Congregational church, will be organized next Sabbath, at 2 P. M., mountain time, at the house of Mrs. Rose, in South McCook. Christian workers are much needed and earnestly requested to be present.

We are requested by the Manager, Jonas Engel, to announce that, on account of failure to have the building finished, The Famous Clothing Co. were unable to open their store, December 1st, as advertised, and that it will be two or three weeks before the opening.

Always alert in the acquisition of real estate, A. J. Pate has purchased the J. A. Brewer half-section, located about nine miles southwest of the city. In the deal Mr. Brewer becomes the owner of Bonnie Scotland, the well-known Clydesdale shipped here from Illinois, some two years ago.

The meeting of the Y. P. A., last Friday evening, at the residence of Conductor William Coy, was largely attended by the young people of the city, and as largely enjoyed by them. THE TRIBUNE desires particularly to encourage the young people in continued and increased attendance upon and a hearty participation in these occasions. They have a large feature of pleasure of a healthful social character and are no less profitable.

A number of new dwelling houses are now in course of erection, with more contemplated and upon which estimates are being made: This week, work was commenced on W. W. Josselyn's residence in the northeastern part of the city, and the same is now progressing favorably. Its dimensions are, main building 26 feet square, with a 14x16 addition. It will occupy the corner lots directly west of R. R. Woods' property. F. D. Hess is the contractor. Also, on Frank H. Spearman's dwelling in the same locality, south of F. L. McCracken's residence. Mr. S.'s dwelling will be built after a design from "Shoppell's Modern Houses," with a frontage 28 1/2 feet and a like depth, will be two stories high, 9 and 8 feet, respectively, having a cellar 6 1/2 feet high. It will be a neat specimen of architecture, commodious and with the advantage of an excellent site. The contractor is J. W. Lewis of the association.

Card of Thanks.

We will our old friends of McCook and vicinity, who so generously and thoughtfully remembered us for Thanksgiving time of this good year of grace, 1886, please accept the heartiest thanks of MR. AND MRS. GEO. DUNGAN, Otis, Colo., Nov. 29, 1886.

On Wednesday of this week the ladies of the M. E. church forwarded to the manufacturers the last payment on the seats and furniture of the church, the payment of which they fearlessly assumed and faithfully performed, be it said to their credit, and in which they take conscious pride. All honor to the ladies.

J. F. Ganschow takes the lead in ladies' Fine Shoes. Try him.

RAPIDLY IMPROVING—On Tuesday, R. H. Williams' little daughter had so far recovered from the operation of tracheotomy recently performed on her by Drs. Kay and Davis, that it was found advisable to remove the tube from the little girl's trachea, and she is now doing remarkably well and may be declared out of danger. The operation was a delicate, hazardous one, scarcely ever resorted to even in extreme cases, and its result has been watched with great interest by this entire community, who will congratulate the family and surgeons upon what bids fair to be a favorable termination.

A full line of hardware, stoves and tinware at C. D. Palmer's.

Yesterday morning the fractious, high-spirited quadruped that supplies the motive power to Kendall's bread wagon, became altogether too feet and unmanageable, while being driven up West Dennison street, in the course of the customary bread delivery, and engaged in another go-as-you-please, neither interesting nor entertaining to the driver, Em. Kendall, who was thrown out of the vehicle and fortunately but slightly injured, while the wagon was inverted and otherwise misused during the short, but exciting chase. That steed's recent escapades doubtless fit it for the cumbersome dray wagon, where it will behave with greater safety to driver and profit to owner.

J. C. Allen & Co. are just receiving a car load of groceries, this week.

At a meeting of the members of the Congregational church, last Sunday morning, the resignation of the pastor, Rev. Joel S. Kelsey, tendered a short time since, was NOT accepted by a unanimous vote. We take excusable pleasure in this connection in stating that admiring friends have taken the matter of pastor's salary in hand, and that the required amount, (lacking a small sum, which will doubtless be covered through other agencies,) has been subscribed, and that Rev. Kelsey will remain in this field of labor, where his efforts give promise of such glad fruition. The congregation are to be congratulated. C. F. Babcock was also elected to the trusteeship made vacant by resignation of E. M. Brickey, who lately removed from our midst.

Don't fail to see that line of elegant heaters at W. C. LaTOURETTE & Co.'s.

From an announcement appearing elsewhere in this issue, our readers will learn of another enterprise to be added to the city's industries, in the co-partnership lately entered into between C. T. Brewer and E. S. Wilcox in the butcher and packing business. These gentlemen have secured the cellar under McMillen & Weeks' drug store for the packing branch of their business, which will be carried on as extensively during the winter as their present slaughter house accommodations and the disposal of "waste" will allow. They contemplate packing a thousand porkers, this season. Both members of the firm are shrewd and enterprising business men, with ample means to carry the project to a successful issue, and the flattering results can hardly be questioned.

J. C. Allen & Co. carry the renowned California Honey in stock.

Under the familiar caption, "He Was a Bank Cashier," yesterday's Tribune-Republican gives currency to a highly sensational and absolutely false and unreliable article involving a well-known character named G. R. Wynkoop, who spent some time in this locality months ago. It appears that a tin horn gambler named Collins and a faro dealer named Thompson engaged in a quarrel, in which Collins was severely stabbed, and that Wynkoop was witness to the affray, and was held in custody for that purpose. So far the account seems to be correct. Presently the crier reporter imagines he discovers a "brilliant mare's nest," in which Wynkoop is "a crooked cashier of the First National bank of this city, etc." Among the veracious (?) statements being that, a "former cashier of the bank, owing to some slight discrepancies, decided to locate in Canada."

We have not space to devote to the matter further than to suggest the unfortunate circumstance that the worthless trio did not succeed in the work of utter annihilation. However, every allusion made to the First National bank of this city is false in toto and without foundation in fact. A bandage of ice should allay that reporter's feverish imagination.

SOCIAL.

Last Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Woods entertained a circle of friends at their attractive home in the northeastern part of the city, in their usual felicitous manner. SUPERB QUARTERS.

Monday of this week, The Frees & Hocknell Lumber Co. moved into their new quarters in the brick structure just completed for their reception, on the site of their old and humbler quarters on South Main Avenue. We will not again enter into a lengthy description of the building, epitomizing into the incontrovertible statement, after a thorough inspection, that they have the most convenient, comfortable and the best equipped lumber office in Nebraska. The lower story is sub-divided into three compartments, each fully furnished with reference to its particular purpose, the rear one, from which the spacious, fire-proof vault is entered, being the private office of President Hocknell. The upper floor contains office rooms en suite, the rear ones being now occupied by Morlan & Cochran, for whom they were specially designed. The firm have furnished them handsomely and elegantly and can safely claim appointments unsurpassed in this part of the state. The entire building is heated by steam, it being perhaps the first and only steam heating apparatus in the Valley. It is a great economizer of fuel, needs little attention, works like a charm, and Mr. Hocknell is highly pleased therewith. C. H. Meeker put the same in. The building is the handy work of Contractor Collins. The company and city are to be congratulated in the completion of the Hocknell brick.
