SHAMEFUL ABUSE

Heaped Upon a Noted Englishman for His Open Honesty.

Wm. Ed. ROBSON, M. D., L. R. C. S. I., M. K. Q. C. P. I., late of the Royal Navy, of England, has got into professional trouble for writing the following open letter to the editor of the London Family Doctor:

"I believe it to be the duty of every physician to make known any means or remedy whereby sickness can be prevented, and it is for this purpose I write to give my experience both here and abroad. I ask the publication of the statement that people may be warned before it is too late, to say to them that there is at hand a means by which they may be restored to perfect health. It is well known to the medical world, and indeed, to the laity, that a certain disease is making a terrible havoc; that next to consumption it is the most fatal, and that when fully developed there is nothing to be done for the sufferer."

"Physicians and scientists have long been trying to throw light upon the cause, and if possible, find in nature a medicine for this fatal malady. They have shown, absolutely, that the blood-purifying organs of vital importance, are the kidneys, and that when they once fail, the poison which they should take out of the blood is carried by the blood into every part of the body, developing disease."

"In my hospital practice in England, India and South America, and also while a surgeon in the Royal Navy of Great Britain, I gave a great deal of attention to the study of diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs, and found that not only was the cure of chronic Bright's Disease hopeless, but that kidney disease was remarkably prevalent; much more so than generally known, and was the cause of the majority of cases of sickness, and further, that the medical profession has no remedy which exerts any absolute control over these organs in disease."

"Some time ago when I had a case which resisted all regular treatment,—which is very limited,—complicated with the passing of stones from the kidneys, much against my will I permitted my patient to use Warner's safe cure, of which I had heard marvelous results. In his case the result was simply marvelous, as the attack was a severe one, and development very grave, for an analysis showed per cent. of albumen and granular tube casts."

"The action of the medicine was singular and incomprehensible to me. I had never seen anything like it. The patient recovered promptly, and is to-day a well and healthy man. This stimulated my inquiry into the merits of the remedy, and after analysis I found it to be of purely vegetable character, harmless to take under all circumstances."

"Casting aside all professional prejudices gave it a thorough trial, as I was anxious that my patients should be restored to health, no matter by what medicine. I prescribed it in a great variety of cases, Acute, Chronic, Bright's Disease, Congestion of the Kidneys, Catarrh of the Bladder, and in every instance did it speedily effect a cure."

"For this reason I deem it my duty to give to the world this statement regarding the value of Warner's safe cure. I make this statement on facts I am prepared to produce and substantiate. I appeal to physicians of large practice who know how common and deceptive diseases of the kidneys are, to lay aside professional prejudices, give their patients Warner's safe cure, restore them to perfect health, earn their gratitude, and thus be true physicians."

"I am satisfied that more than one-half of the deaths which occur in England are caused, primarily, by impaired action of the kidneys, and the consequent retention in the blood of the poisonous uric and kidney acid. Warner's safe cure causes the kidneys to expel this poison, checks the escape of albumen, relieves the inflammation and prevents illness from impaired and impoverished blood. Having had more than seventeen years' experience in my profession, I conscientiously and emphatically state that I have been able to give more relief and effect more cures by the use of Warner's safe cure than by all the other medicines ascertainable to the profession, the majority of which, I am sorry to say, are very uncertain in their action."

"Isn't that a straightforward, manly letter?"

"Indeed it is."

"Well, but do you know the author has been dreadfully persecuted for writing it?"

"How so? What has he done to merit it?"

"Done? He has spoken the truth 'out of school' and his fellow physicians, who want the public to think they have a monopoly in curing diseases, are terribly angry with him for admitting professional inability to reach such disorders."

"That letter created a wonderful sensation among the titled classes and the public. This jarred the doctors terribly. The College of Surgeons and Queen's College, from which institution he was graduated, asked for an explanation of his unprofessional conduct, and notified him that unless he made a retraction they would discipline him."

"The doctor replied that he allowed his patients to make use of Warner's safe cure only after all the regular methods had failed, and when he was satisfied that there was no possible hope for them. Upon their recovery, after having used Warner's safe cure, he was so much surprised that he wrote the above letter to the Family Doctor. He regretted that the faculties found fault with his action in the matter, but he could not conscientiously retract the facts as written to the Family Doctor."

"The faculties of both colleges replied that unless he retracted they should cut him off, which would naturally debar him from again practicing his profession, and also prevent his securing another appointment in the Royal Navy!"

"The illustrious doctor's dilemma is certainly an unpleasant one, emphasizing, as it does, both his own honesty, and the contemptible prejudice and bigotry of English medical men. The masses, however, having no sympathy with their nonsense, keep on using the remedy he so highly recommends and get well, while the rich and able depend upon the prejudiced doctors and die."

VALUABLE GOVERNMENT BOOKS

A Patent Attorney Talks About Some Much-Coveted Documents.

"An author who gets $5,000 from a single book usually considers himself pretty well paid, does he not?" queried a well-known patent attorney of a reporter. The latter hungrily murmured "Yes," and fell into a deep, four-dimensional reverie of a contemplated book of his own. "And you will acknowledge that most government publications are valued by the pound-junk-shop measurement?" inquired the attorney. "Yes? Well, there are ten books in the United States patent office for the absolute and unconditional possession of which I would cheerfully hand over my certified check for $50,000—$5,000 apiece. They are still in manuscript, and probably will not be printed—not right away."

The reporter woke up and listened. "Those books are the letter books containing the names and addresses of inventors, with the titles of inventions, whose cases have been rejected during the past ten years."

"To commence at the beginning, there has been an average of 28,000 cases filed in the patent office every year for the last ten years, and a yearly average of 18,000 patents granted. Last year there were 35,000 applications filed and 24,000 patents issued, an unusual number. On this showing something like 60 per cent. of the applications have gone to patent. So there have been during the last ten years about 100,000 rejected cases. These in part include cases defeated in interferences and applications allowed, but on which final fees have not been paid, because the inventions proved unworkable or for some similar reason. Of this latter class there were 3,500 in 1885."

"Now, good attorneys get fully 85 per cent. of their cases allowed and patented; hence there must be some reason for only 60 per cent. of the applications being allowed. The reason is this: Fully 8,000 inventors every year make out their cases and try to get them through the patent office. Not knowing the routine they almost invariably get involved in the meshes of red tape and procedure and fall by the way. The difficulty may be very slight, a mere formality, a defective drawing, an improper specification, a slight interference, or a few needed amendments, which a regular patent attorney could overcome in a half hour, but to the inventor proves an unsurmountable obstacle, his application is rejected, and he gives up in disgust or despair."

"Cases filed in the patent office go first to the twenty-eight principal examiners, according to the subject matter. If they are rejected for any reason two years are allowed in which to amend them or take other necessary action. If no action has been taken at the end of two years such cases are technically treated as abandoned and are sent to the draftsman's division where they are entered in the books of which I have made mention, and there remain. Fully fifty thousand of these rejected cases of ten years fall under these conditions. At a low estimate, twenty-five thousand of these rejected cases put in the hands of a competent attorney could be patented. A patent attorney's fees on such conditional cases would be about $50 per case—a gross sum of $1,250,000. Count out dead, defunct, disgusted, and dead-broke inventors, still an enormous number would get out patents if they knew how. But the trouble is just here—no one outside the patent office is allowed access to these file books. As I said before, if I could have the sole privilege of overhauling them, I would give $50,000 and then clear $500,000. Then, again, there are some fifteen thousand cases now lying in the examiners' rooms awaiting the two-year limit. These are still more valuable, as, if they are taken up before the time limit expires, the initial fees do not lapse, while in the other cases they would have to be repaid."

"This action of the office was not always thus. When M. D. Leggett was commissioner, for a period of about a year, attorneys were allowed access to all letter books, and provisions to that had been allowed access to the files of abandoned cases, but there was a constant scramble and not infrequently downright fights over them, and about 1875 the office made them secret."

Washington Post.

Give the Boy a Chance.

Teach your boy—if you would give him the larger chance the Creator intended he should have—either a trade or a business, and so give him the chance of his hands. Educate him liberally, richly if you can, but above all educate him practically. Keep him out of a profession if you can. There are only two or three professions left, and they are starving to death, the most of them. The law profession is marked for decay; the world is coming into the larger wisdom of less litigation and more arbitration. The medical profession is holding its empire by frailer and frailer hands, as the people are escaping more and more from the inherited ills and diseases transmitted through superstition and perpetuated by imagination and fear. Such things as dentistry, newspapers, etc., are not professions; they are skilled labor. Give the boy a chance. If he is to be a lawyer he may build the proud temple of a great reputation, but his son can not inherit it, and no one can live in it but himself. The great temples that the proud lawyers rear by day disappear in the night. They are fair and noble and imposing; but they are raised in a day and pass away in a day, and no one else can enter them. The mechanic erects the true palaces. Many others can live in them, and they stand for thousands of people to live in, and live on, after their builders are gone.—Des Moines (Iowa) Register.

Antiquity of Gambling.

I believe they played dominoes in Egypt 300 years ago for money, and I dare say the mercenaries of ancient Carthage shook dice for remuneration they had for their brutal services. Poker was known by another name, but I doubt not that Nebuchadnezzar's army anted up in their camp in the warm Assyrian night; and while Brutus was quarreling with Cassius in his tent the Roman soldiery were probably staking their prospective drachmas in his tent the Roman soldiery were probably staking their prospective drachmas at some game of chance. Still, in the nineteenth century, with civilization in full blast and a hundred religious creeds fighting for the regulation of people's morals, the three card monte performer scoops in the astute man of business and the bunco man lands the statesman and the poet just as of old.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The publisher of Baltimore, Md., Every Saturday, Mr. T. J. Wentworth, says his child aged six months, was suffering from a severe cold, and he gave it Red Star Cough Cure, which acted like a charm. No morphia.

Best Done in the Family.

The best society for the suppression of pernicious literature is the family. The best legislation that can be passed for the prevention of the sale of vile literature can be passed by father and mother in joint convention assembled. Daily teaching to love and study good and useful things will bring boys and girls to detest the opposite. These are the only means by which the sale of pernicious literature can ever be permanently and effectually suppressed. The passage of laws of the state and the watchfulness of the societies for the suppression of pernicious literature may do some good for the youth who have no parents to teach them, but to provide sound early training for them would do far more.—Philadelphia North American.

SOUTHWARD.

Hammond, Louisiana, and Jackson, Mississippi.

The tide of emigration has already turned southward, and thousands of people are asking the question, "Where can I locate South to the best advantage?" Every State has its peculiar attractions, but it is generally conceded that no locality in the South possesses so many advantages as HAMMOND, LOUISIANA. Here over 40 Northern families have located within the past year. The climate cannot be excelled. Water, clear and pure, only 52 miles north of New Orleans, on the main line of the Illinois Central Railroad, with direct market facilities to every important Northern market. Fruits and vegetables are grown with ease and great profit. Stock does well. A good school, beautiful church, public library, and in every sense a Northern town. An Inter-State Dairy-men's and Fruit Growers' Convention will be held at Jackson, Mississippi, February 16, 17 and 18. Northern and Southern lecturers and instructors of national reputation are upon the program. Mardi Gras Festival at New Orleans will take place Feb. 22. To accommodate all who desire to attend the Jackson Convention, visit Hammond and the New Orleans Mardi Gras, the Illinois Central Railroad will run a low rate excursion from all points on its Illinois and Iowa lines, arriving at Jackson at 4:10 p. m. Feb. 16. Tickets will be sold to New Orleans and return with stop over privileges at Jackson and Hammond. Parties residing at points off the line of the Illinois Central should ask their local ticket agents for round trip tickets to New Orleans and return, and be sure they are routed via the Illinois Central, in order to visit Jackson and Hammond. For excursion circulars, programs of Jackson convention and printed matter concerning Hammond, apply to the undersigned at Manchester, Iowa. J. F. MERRY, Gen'l West. Pass. Ag't.
