The McCook Tribune.

THE St. Paul Pioneer Press finds that this is really a campaign of intellect because so far no reputable newspaper has alluded to the "Ideas of November."

SENATOR PADDOCK, Tuesday, secured the passage by the senate of the house bill for the relief of settlers upon the old Camp Sheridan military reservation in Nebraska.

WEBSTER'S logic applied to these times when he said: "Liberty can not long endure in any country where the tendency of legislation is to concentrate wealth in the hands of a few."

MONDAY an unknown man walked into the office of Mayor Hewitt of New York City and laid down an envelope containing $12,000 for the yellow fever fund. "Just say it came from an American," he said, and disappeared.

THE Delaware republican convention passed a resolution declaring it to be the duty of the state to see that no soldier who fought for the union is buried in a pauper's grave. This will, of course, be denounced as another "attempt to capture the soldier vote."

FEDERAL officeholders in Nebraska need no longer lay awake nights worrying when they will be solicited to contribute to elect Grover Cleveland. The circular calling for contributions to the democratic campaign national fund is rapidly working this way.

THE Chinese question is in a good deal of a muddle owing to the conflict of opinion regarding the motive which induced China to reject the treaty. But the fact remains that the treaty has been rejected, and that the exclusion bill has passed both houses of congress.

ALTHOUGH this is a campaign of torches, brass bands and banners, there never was a presidential year when the country was flooded with so many tariff tracts. The man who does not inform himself on the tariff question with all this literature going a-begging has only himself to blame.

THE peremptory removal of Mr. Jackson, the superintendent of the railway mail service of the Second division, without notice and with no reason assigned, after forty years of service, is a very unfortunate thing on the eve of an election, in which the democratic candidate is supposed to represent civil service reform.

LEVI P. MORTON, like Grover Cleveland, has contributed money for a purpose during the present campaign. But while Mr. Cleveland's ten thousand dollars was sent to the national democratic committee, Mr. Morton's check for twelve thousand dollars goes to assist the yellow fever sufferers in Florida. It is indeed true: "Money talks."

MR. JACKSON, the husband of Helen Hunt, the poet and novelist, fairly adored his wife. He carried it so far as to remarry the other day, his bride being a niece of his late wife and of the same name, Helen Hunt. They have pitched their tent at Colorado Springs, near the grave of the gifted writer, who is superseded by another Helen Hunt Jackson.

THE perversity of men at last becomes the law of their existence. But in our day there is no reputation that will match that of obedient citizenship. He who defies a court of justice appeals away from the self respect of his times. The courts are merely ourselves, our own creations, our organic representatives to do justice. It is not pretended that they can do absolute justice, but the justice they do announce is the only justice society can stand upon.

THE third final great function of the Papal jubilee solemnities takes place Sunday, Sept. 30, when 50,000 ticket holders will witness the celebration of mass for the dead by the Pope in St. Peter's. The Pope will be carried into the church in the State chair, surrounded by the whole ornately-costumed Papal Court. He himself will be robed in red, which is the Papal mourning color. At the same hour, which is 9:30 in Rome, similar solemn masses for the dead will be celebrated in all the Catholic churches of the whole world.

CONGRESSMAN FORD makes probably the best suggestion that has yet been offered in regard to immigration reform. His plan is to require the immigrant to declare his intention of becoming an American citizen six months before leaving his native country, thus enabling the nearest American consul or agent to inquire into his character and ascertain whether he is a person who would make a desirable American citizen. In this way, and in this way alone, could the pauper and criminal classes be separated from the better class of immigrants.

THE Omaha Bee thus seconds the suggestion made in THE TRIBUNE, recently, regarding the disposition of state, county and municipal surplus funds. We hope to see the passage of a bill to this effect at the next session of the legislature. The Bee says: "Nebraska might well follow the example of Missouri, where state, county and city funds are deposited in those national banks which offer by public proposals the highest rate of interest. The interest on all such money should be placed to the credit of the people and not, as is customary to-day, swell the perquisites of a state, county or municipal treasurer."

THERE has been some inquiry among Republicans as to the state of the campaign in Ohio, and the question has been asked whether all is going on well. The Republican leaders in Ohio are entirely confident. Sherman is busy in the Senate, and never was stronger or more active and influential in that body; Foraker starts to day on a New York stump-speaking tour; McKinley has been in Georgia; Grosvenor has campaigned in Maine; Butterworth is booming in Connecticut and New Jersey; Foster has not been heard from on the stump. Ohio is comfortable, and the election is full six weeks off. If we had old style October elections the political temperature would be very high about these days. Under present arrangements our heated term is a month later than under the old conditions.

THE Old Roman gives evidence of having been hit hard by the reception the country gave to his brutal reference to the negro as a "very prolific animal" and he is endeavoring to make reparation in tally every time he gets up to make a speech lately. He claims to have been brought up with a young African and to have loved him very much, and to have always cherished an affection for the sun-kissed black man. But he is in danger of carrying his affection for the African too far. It isn't the darling lover of the African that we want in the white house, or as the heir thereto, but the man who will not swindle his dear friend of his vote whenever it is necessary to elect a democrat to congress or the presidential chair. It is justice and not love that the negro craves.

GENERAL HARRISON is vindicating his title to the honor he is wearing with such quiet dignity. Every day brings him nearer to the people's hearts. Every word from him adds to the respect and esteem in which he is held. There is that in the man which is compelling his foes to do him homage. His partisans can ray no higher tribute to his private character than the testimonials of political enemies. Under the fierce light which has befallen upon him since his nomination no spot or blemish has been disclosed. Through a long public career he has worn the white flower of a blameless life. American political history has a few parallels to the swift growth of General Harrison in popular estimation.

IRISHMEN have had their free trade experience. They have been eye witnesses of the ruinous results of the application of the English policy to Ireland, and many of them sufferers from it. They look back to the days when Ireland had twice the population she has today, when Irishmen were individually prosperous and happy and the nation enjoyed remarkable prosperity, then to the change that took place when England despoiled her of her factories and made her, as far as possible, what "God intended her to be, an agricultural country," last at the condition in which she is to day, and they want no legislation for this country patterned after the "English idea." And they are right.

It can hardly be necessary for me to say that I am heartily in sympathy with the declaration of the convention upon the subject of pensions to our soldiers and sailors. What they gave and what they suffered I had some opportunity to observe, and in a small measure to experience. They gave ungrudgingly; it was not a trade, but was an offering. The measure was heaped up, running over. What they achieved, only a distant generation can adequately tell.—Gen. Harrison.

GOVERNOR HILL is to visit Indiana in October to make several speeches for the Democrats. This shows to what straits the Administration people are driven when they appeal to the man President Cleveland has done his best to humiliate to come out into Hoosierdom and help hold up the Administration hands. Mr. Cleveland is beginning to realize that Indiana is going to vote for Harrison.

It is to be devoutly hoped that the unfortunate condition of affairs among the republicans of the 67th representative district may be harmoniously adjusted. The demands of the party are paramount to personal interest or spite. Let the electors of the district see to it that their rights are protected;—even to nominating a new candidate outside both disaffected parties.

MR. WHITNEY is not going to resign out of Mr. Cleveland's cabinet to relieve the administration of the odium of the Standard Oil trust. On the contrary, he has handed his check for $100,000 to the chairman of the democratic national committee to help to keep the wheel of reform rolling. It is money and not reputation that is wanted just now by the democratic party.

REPUBLICANS must not in their enthusiasm over their state and national tickets, lose sight of the fact that the next legislature elects a successor to Senator Manderson. The democrats everywhere are devoting their best energies in the hope of securing strength enough to elect McShane whose nomination for governor is simply a "blind." Look well to the legislative tickets!

I do not believe that a Republic can live and prosper whose wage-earners do not receive enough to make life comfortable; who do not have some upward avenues of hope open before them.—General Harrison.
