Vancouver (Wash. Ter.) Independent, Nov. 7. On the 17th of October this paper announced that lightning had struck in Vancouver, or the same thing, a streak of luck that made some excitement. In September M. C. Harell, a laborer on J. C. Proebstel's farm, bought one-twentieth of ticket No. 46,755 in the Louisiana State Lottery, and that number drew the big $300,000 prize on October 9th. J. C. Proebstel owns half of this Harell ticket, which entitles the holders to $15,000. The ticket was deposited for collection with Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express Company, at Portland, Oregon. The collection was promptly honored by the Louisiana State Lottery at New Orleans, and the money, gold coin, is now in Portland ready to be paid over upon proper receipt for it. Both the lucky men are honest grangers, and, as their heads are level, will know just where to put their unexpected wealth to do them the most good.

A Christmas Talk.

If I were to ask you to shut your eyes and try to fancy that Christmas stood before you, what would you see? Ah! not one, but many. Some of you would see, in your mind's eye, an old man with long, white, frosty beard and kindly face, his brave form draped in a sparkling robe of snow decked with icicles-old Father Christmas from top to toe. Some would see another sort of figure, - a round, roly-poly, jolly personage, dressed in furs from crown to sole, laughing in every feature of his plump, ruddy face, all aglow after driv-ing his Dunder and Blixen, and half hidden by his great sleigh-load of toys. Some of you, again, would see nothing but the toys, and your only thought, I shudder to say, would be, "Which of them are for me?" Some of you would see no fancied personage at all; but glorious winter without, and within doors a bright home, a glowing hearth, and all the family eager to welcome you from school for the happy holiday week. And a great many of you would scarcely close your eyes before the beautiful Christ-child would come and fill your soul with love and joy and gratitude; and your one next thought would be to give happiness to many, to make other hearts as glad as your own on the Perfect Day. -St. Nicholas.

Everybody familiar with Ayer's Almanac knows that it is much more than a mere vehicle for advertising the medicinal preparations of Dr. J. C. Aver & Co., of Lowell, Mass. It is really one of the most welcome and valued of anedge the receipt of a neatly-bound presentation volume of the Almanac for 1889, containing copies in English and nine other languages, also specimen pages of pamphlets in eleven additional tongues-in all twenty-one languages. From the preface to this interesting book, we learn that between thirteen and fourteen million almanacs are issued by this company annually, consuming about twenty-five miles of paper a day Surely, with all this and other advertising it should be inexcusable in any one not to know the superior merits of Ayer's Sarsaparilla and other standard remedies. Ayer's Almanac for 1889, in its usual attractive form, is now ready at the drug stores.

It is claimed that by a system of grinding the refuse into a uniform fineness, mixing it with the refuse gas tar from the gas-house, and compressing the substance into cakes, a fuel can be made in every way superior to soft coal for open fires. Sawdust rolls were common forty years ago in England and Scotland, and were considered far ahead of peat and grate fires. The cost of manufacturing this kind of fuel is merely nominal, and it is expected that it can be sold at a very much lower price than soft coal. The formation of a company to give the scheme practical effect is mooted.
