THE NEW CABINET.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—President Harrison today sent to the senate the following nominations and they were confirmed:

Secretary of State—James G. Blaine, of Maine.

Secretary of the Treasury—William Windom of Minnesota.

Secretary of War—Redfield Proctor, of Vermont.

Secretary of the Navy—Benjamin F. Tracy, of New York.

Secretary of the Interior—John W. Noble, of Missouri.

Postmaster General—John Wanamaker, of Pennsylvania.

Attorney General—W. H. Miller, of Indiana.

Secretary of Agriculture—Jeremiah Rusk, of Wisconsin.

A. B. Hall, Nebraska's original Harrison man, is a candidate for the McCook land office.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland and Col. Lamont have arrived at New York, their future home, and the accident of '84 is now ready to take up life where he left off four years ago.

The new cabinet officers took the oath of office Wednesday and entered upon the discharge of their respective duties.

The change of office and of administration has again taken place without a jar.

President Harrison enters upon the duties of his great office with the profound respect and perfect confidence of all good citizens.

His record is clean and honorable in every respect, and all the signs in his horizon point to success.

The "White Cap" idiosyncrasy has broken out in a remote section of the state.

The attempt to transplant Hoosier methods of regulation on the practice cannot fail to result disastrously to the authors.

Nebraska railroad bridges are elegant and convenient means of involuntary suicide.

Now the little local railroads in Iowa are appealing for relief.

Like huge anacondas the big roads swallow all the business, and the weak lines are only running deeper into debt.

This is a phase of the railroad problem over which the Iowa state commission may well knit its brows.

Cleveland's enthusiasm for civil service reform became intense with the dying hours of official life.

He regards it "so firmly established and its value so fully demonstrated," that he seriously commends the ruin to his successor.

The few friends of the president have cause to regret the cruelty of his latter day professions.

The Haytian troubles seem to be approaching an end.

Legitimate has been successful lately in several engagements, and Hyppolite is on the run.

Many sensational stories have been put in circulation regarding these troubles, most of which are now denied, but that a change has come in affairs and that the insurgents have nearly reached the end of their rope is probably true.

Within a few weeks the cruel war will doubtless be over and the rightful ruler restored to his authority.

The Burlington road comes to Omaha's rescue with a grain tariff to Duluth equal to that charged for Chicago shipments.

The determination of the Chicago board of trade eligible to grade down Nebraska corn and discriminate against the products of the trans-Missouri region, should be promptly and vigorously resisted.

With St. Louis on the south and Duluth on the north the producers of the west are fairly independent of the greedy Hutchinsons of Chicago.

An appropriation of $5,000 was made by the Kansas Legislature to defray the expenses of an immigration commissioner to the Paris Exposition in 1889, and Emil Fisman of Marion has been appointed by the Governor to spend the money and do the work.

It will be the duty of the commissioner to make such a representation of the resources of the west as will increase foreign immigration to Kansas, and it is believed that a proper effort in this direction will prove highly beneficial to the state.

The dissolution of the 14th congress may be hailed with delight inasmuch as it rids the country at large of that national incubator, Senator Riddleberger.

This blackguard's exhibitions of himself even to the last day of the term have been the shame of the west, and it is with a sigh of relief that we reflect that annals of the coming session will not resemble those of the police court.

Unless Senator Harbour is known to be strictly temperate they should administer the pledge to him.

Senator Riddleberger terminated his Washington engagement Sunday night, with a star performance, not specifically announced on the programme.

He overtaxed his capacity for whisky, it seems, and the spectacle he made of himself brought round after round of enthusiastic applause from the galleries.

The parquette and dress circle didn't seem to appreciate his efforts to entertain, but it was rare fun for the upper spectators until two muscular sergeants at arms bore him away to secluded spot to cool his fevered brow.

In conversation with a brother senator on the Clayton murder in Arkansas, Senator Jones of that state is quoted as saying: "We intend to continue to carry elections at the south by what you in the north call fraud; but if we cannot carry them in the present manner we shall carry them in any method necessary, no matter what the cost."

And yet the same senator is the most ready in debate when these questions come up for consideration in the senate, to fling the "bloody shirt" at any republican who dares to say that elections ought to be carried on in the south honestly and fairly.

LARRABEE, governor of Iowa, has been acquitted by a jury opposed to him politically, of the charge of criminal libel.

The acquittal was the result of direct instructions from the presiding judge that the pamphlet, on which the action was brought, was privileged communication, it being simply a copy of papers on file in the governor's office.

The question of malice in the issuing of this pamphlet does not appear to have been under consideration, but it is to be presumed, in the absence of positive evidence, that malice was wanting.

The main interest in the trial was the question whether the document issued by the governor came under the head of privileged communications, and this has been settled, at least so far as the decision of the trial court goes.

What the supreme court may decide, should the case be taken up, is yet one of the things which is not known.

The inaugural ball was a success notwithstanding the earnest denunciations of the clergy.

Wealth and beauty were there and danced the evening and the morning hours away in honor of the new president.

The room or building in which the ball was held, the court of the new pension building, was large and airy, and thousands participated in the appropriate exercises of the occasion.

The hall was perfect in its decoration. Lights flashed from thousands of shaded flames, perfume scented the air, hunting decorated the walls and entwined the massive pilars, while delicious music filled the air with its seductive strains.

It was a night long to be remembered. Beauty, light, color, the flash of jewels and the charm of the delicate performances lightened the enjoyment.

The joyousness of youth and the satisfaction of age mingled together and all went merry as a marriage bell.

Long life to the inaugural ball.

GOING TO WASHINGTON.

HASTINGS, Neb., March 5.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—James Laird started for Washington this morning in company with Charles H. Paul and wife. He is worse than one month ago, but his presence in Washington is regarded as prudential for both personal and political reasons.

In case of an extra session he could be present to vote and thereby assist republicans with their small majority to organize the house.

Hon. James Laird, his private secretary, Paul, and wife, and Deputy Oil Inspector Jacobson and wife, passed through the city Sunday en route for Washington.

The bright weather of the past few days had a wonderfully invigorating effect upon Mr. Laird and his friends believe that only a short time will be necessary to restore him to his former health.—Lincoln Journal.

HON. JAMES LAIRD has reached Washington and is reported as having endured the trip much better than was expected he would.—State Journal.

DISAPPOINTED.

[From the Bartley Inter-Ocean.] Mr. Isaiah Pate, of Hitchcock county, came down last Sunday, expecting to be united to Miss Lula Teter at the residence of his old friend O. S. VanDorn.

After a number of friends had gathered and a Rev. called, it was found that the ceremony could not be performed as the license was procured in Hitchcock county.

After a pleasant time the couple left for Hitchcock county where they were soon made happy.

THE SULTAN.

A Sultan sat by Danube's tide And sore distressed aloud he cried; While like the waters to the sea His tears ran down both fast and free.

A passing stranger said: "My friend, Why do those tears so fast descend?" "Alas!" he sobbed, "I've lost all hope; I've lost my cake of IVORY SOAP.

No more in pride through town I'll go, With garments clean and white as snow;

But in disgrace must move about, By scornful fingers pointed out."

"Not so," the noble stranger cried; "I have a piece and will divide;"

And from his coat-lap pocket drew A cake and broke it fair in two.

Then rose in joy the Sultan gay, And made that man a Turkish Bey,

With servants kind and Viziers sage, And fifty wives to cheer his age.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the Ivory"; they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and Insist upon getting it.
