The McCook Fribune.

By F. M. KIMMELL.

A RAY of hope is brightening upthe horizon of the Des Moines river lands settlers. Not alone the Iowa state authorities, but members of the cabinet are moving in behalf of the evicted settlers, who will eventually be restored to full and undisputed possession of their Doctors disagree not alone in diagnosing or attempting to cure diseases, but also as to the means for preventing them. Almost every article used by man for food, drink or raiment has been both recommended and condemned by differing medical schools, and frequently with no consideration for the varying natures and environment of men.

MRS. CLEVELAND was re-elected president of the alumni of Wells college at an annual meeting held in New York, Tuesday. This is a worthy tribute to a graduate of that institution who bore herself with most admirable composure in a position which made the largest possible demands upon her discretion, and whose popularity has suffered no decline with her retirement from public life.

IF IT is desired to have a man on the interstate commission of large experience and ample brains, Judge O. P. Mason of Lincoln is or in the west, for the place. The Judge is brusque, but able, honest and sturdy. If the president feels disposed to recognize Nebraska in a substantial way, an appointment as above will meet with reasonably wide favor throughout the commonwealth.

THE Washington Press (radical) ventures the opinion that the speaker of the Fifty-first congress will be Thomas B. Reed of Maine, the brilliant, sagacious, successful and acknowledged leader of the Republican forces in the house of representatives for the past four years. "Other gentiemen, of course, will be ranks only eleventh among the coal producvoted for with a view to securing them chairmanships of important committees, but the solid judgment of the house will be that Read's services justly entitle him to the speakership at the hands of the Republican party."

Any person who desires to protest against the allowance of such proof, or who knows of any substantial reason, under the law and the regulations of the Interior Department, why such sumption of it in vast quantities awaits only at the hands of the Republican party.'

THERE is nothing more generally demoralizing in its influence than the game of poker. All its tendencies are corrupting. Late hours, swindling, lying and stealing, are associated with it. Boys, don't allow yourself to come under its fascinating influence, because it will surely leave a taint upon your character if you do. Dice throwing and high-five are the first steps. Steer clear of them. Keep your hours, be careful how you spend money, improve your mind with study, and be industrious. The opportunities which our beloved country offers a boy are too good to be wast

THE rebuilding or changing of white house is a question discussed with every incoming administration. It does seem that the white house is not large enough for a family the size of President Harrison's. The public offices have so encrouched upon the white house territory that but five rooms remain for the president and family. It is a notorious fact that the inmates of the white house quit it very summarily on the advent of the malarial season. It has been suggested that the present white house be retained as the executive office, and let congress provide a suitable home producing classes of the state. In 1885 that organization was a doubtful experiment. Chiefly through the efforts of Mr. John Martin, who became governor in 1885, it has gradually won its way, until now the railroads and the people of the state are working together in the utmost harmony. The system now observed by the Kansas rail road commission is accounted among the very best and most satisfactory in the United States. State control of the local real road lines has been brought pretty. the local railroad lines has been brought pretty | Fifty per cent. of said stock to be paid in, at

THE refinery established at Watsonville, Cal., for the extraction of sugar from beets has proved a much greater success than was expected at the outset. Four thousand tons of sugar were produced last year, which was nearly double the amount of the previous year, and a new company, with a capital of five million dellars, has been formed to prosecute this industry on a more extensive scale. There is a growing interest being manifested in sugar beet culture, the farmers of Florida and some other southern states having become imbued with it, and a few years may find this industry developed to large proportions in the United States.

IT appears evident from the dispatches that there will be many thousands of people strand. ed in the Oklahoma country in a week or so, with no means of subsistance, and unable to get away without assistance. The situation will be serious, and the government ought to come to the rescue. The fact is it was a mistake to open so small a tract at first. Still if the entire Indian territory had been thrown open it would not have prevented much suffering, for the reason that when people rush in to take claims and do not take along means enough to get away, there is small chance of weight seems to be aptly illustrated in the breaking up of the oat meal trust. For some years it appears the affairs of the oat meal meal trust. For some int such matter to remain upon any lot owned trust went on swimmingly. The price of that product went up as the mills of the country consolidated under one management. The handsome profits of the business tempted men outside of the trust to go into the making of oatmeal for the purposes of being taken into the combination or being paid a royalty to close up shop. The result was that the trust has been weighed down by the heavy load of supporting more mills than the consumption of oat meal warranted. A break has followed. The trust has gone to pieces, and each mill is thrown on its own resources.

THE Indiana supreme court, as a trust, seems amply able to give itself the protection that it denies to the executive branch of the government. The late legislature passed two acts, one usurping the appointment of state officials, non-elective, by providing for their election by the legislature. This was to take the appointing power out of the hands of a republican executive. The supreme court unantity of the supreme court of the lith judicial district, in and for Red Willow county, Nebraska, on a judgment obtained in the District Court of the lith judicial district, in and for Red Willow county, Nebraska, on the lith day of March, 1889, in favor of S. J. Mattocks as Plaintiff, and against Nettie E. Parks and William H. Anderson, as Defendants, for the supreme court unantity of the suprementation of imously found this act perfectly straight and regular. The other act was for the appointrendering "opinions" on cases that came up in that court for decision. This was to get the same legislative sinch on the judicial power that the other act took on the executive power. But the court was as unanimous in deciding this act invalid as it was in an opposite decision in the other case.-Lin-

It is rumored that there will be a banquet prepared for the people of Box Elder and the surrounding country, an event which may be looked forward to with pleasure, by those who are acquainted with the ability of our people in this direction.

Many improvements have been made at Box Elder in the past year, and are still being made. Among others we notice many acres of sod are being turned over; a great variety of crops are being planted; orchards are being set out; with countless number of forest trees for wind breaks; houses are being built; and It takes lots of blowing to keep up the reputation of the country and the wind mills going, and I presume that is one reason why Neb., is

AN EASTERN TALE.

A king once summoned his three sons, And thus addressed the anxious ones: "Go forth, my sons, through all the earth And search for articles of worth; Then he who brings the choicest thing, Shall in my stead be crowned as king."

In one year's time again they meet, 'Twas hard to choose between the two, And kneel before the sovereign's feet: The monarch knew not what to do. And as with gracious outstretched hand, The third is standing calmly there; He welcomed home the youthful band, Now, with a half triumphant air And smile of confidence and hope, He natural eagerness expressed, To see the objects of their quest. He shows a cake of Ivory Soap, The first such lustrous pearls displays, So peerless in its purity,
That every tongue is loud in praise. That dirt, alarmed, takes wings to fly.
So white, the snow-flakes on their way The old king, as it meets his sight,

The next a diamond more pure, And larger than the Koh-i-noor,

Compared to them are dull and gray. Grasps it, and cries in wild delight: "No more confusion or dismay, No more cold meals on washing day. That shone with such a brilliant light, Subjects! my youngest son obey, The sunbeams, shamed, withdrew from The Ivory Soap has won the day."

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.
