Mrs. Dr. Hunt of the asylum medical staff, testified that there were over 1,009 patients in the institution, which is calculated to accommodate 600 at the outside, and the number of attendants was much too limited.

Evidence was introduced that patients were fed pigs' heads for an entire year. with potatoes for vegetables once a week. There was no service and patients fought for possession of the potatoes, with a result that the weak got none and that over fifty of the inmates became afflicted with scurvey. One of the medical staff testifies that in one ward there are thirty-eight violent patients, with only nine rooms, or an average of three in each room. It was absolutely necessary to have only one or two in some of the rooms, so that four of the persons were crowded into others. These rooms are 51x10 feet in size. The beds are two and a half feet wide, but in many cases two patients are forced to sleep in them. Under such circumstances, with insufficient attendance, patients would climb over the cots and fight, and the attendants would frequently be called six or eight times in a single night to go to patients who were attempting to commit murder or suicide. This state of affairs was reported to the county board again and again, but nothing was done to remedy it. Much other revolting testimony was brought in.
