From Monday's State Journal. Some weeks since a girl named Rosa Topping came to Lincoln and instituted inquiries through the local press concerning the whereabouts of her sister, Mrs. Lida Mitchell. Rosa was seventeen years of age. She gave the story of her life to a Journal representative as follows: Eight years ago, when she Quite extensive corn cribs are being was only nine years of age, her mother was taken ill and Rosa was sent to the home for the friendless, where she remained for four weeks. At the expiration of this time she was taken to raise by the Chambers family. She remained with her new found friends until last Born-Wednesday morning, to Mr. March, with the belief that they had and Mrs. T. J. Rowell, a daughter. All adopted her. In the meantime her mother died and her sister, Lida, who was a young lady, married Richard Mitchell, a B. & M. engineer. During the strike Mitchell left the employ of the company and removed from the city. Several weeks ago Rosa ascertained that Chambers had not adopted her and the Central hotel. Suitable reward for immediately left their home, and coming to Lincoln sought the protection of former friends of her family. On the 28th day of July Rosa ascertained, after almost despairing of ever finding her sister again, that she had left this city with her husband and gone to live on a farm near Red Cloud, and announced her intention of leaving the next day for that point. Since that time those in this city familiar with the circumstances of her diligent search while ere this realized her hopes of finding a home with her sister. That such is not the case, however, is attested by the ed at this office, yesterday: McCook, Neb., Aug. 9.-My Dear Sir.-

Miss Topping called at The Journal office yesterday morncing that she would go to Culbertson upon receipt of enough money to pay her fare. No Reunion This Year.

The matter of holding a reunion at McCook, this fall, has been carefully canvassed and it has been deemed best, under all the circumstances, to forego that pleasure until another year, when it is hoped to be able to hold a "rouser" that will make up for the one that the drought and failure of crops have made impracticable, this year. The papers throughout the McCook reunion district are requested to announce the ab ove decision of the committee.

The Laugh on Love.

By the spiriting away of the prospective bride, an interesting little episode in South Side social life was nipped in the bud, last Tuesday. It appears that "two souls with but a single thought" had quietly arranged to have their hearts 'beat as one," but the intended's relatives became aware of the young folks' plans and balked them by the abovementioned means. And for the present "bolts and bars" have the laugh on love.
