THE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION AT DANBURY.

In response to the call of President Stilgebauer, the teachers of Red Willow county held the Autumn meeting of their association at Danbury on Saturday, October 11th. The village on the Beaver distinguished itself by spreading a bountiful dinner in the hall and inviting all present to partake of its hospitality. From twelve o'clock until two, the good ladies of the town and surrounding country were kept closely occupied in dispensing necessaries and luxuries to the pedagogues and other guests, after which the meeting was called to order at the school house, President Stilgebauer in the chair. The room was tastefully decorated with house plants and was crowded to the door. The exercises began with music by an excellent choir of local musicians. Prof. Smith of Bartley invoked the divine blessing on the assembly and the meeting settled down to business.

Mr. E. E. Devoe of Lebanon opened the discussion with a brief account of his method of teaching United States' History, showing an interesting and practical plan for reviews.

Miss Ally Gale followed with "A Plea for the Spelling Book," taking the ground that the "New Education," with all its vast improvements over the old, was neglecting that very important branch—oral spelling. The speaker took the ground that the spelling school of the past generations accomplished a great work in this line which was not appreciated by modern teachers who suffered the pupils to pass out of their schools with various accomplishments but unable to spell common English words. Prof. Smith of Bartley rose to reply, assuming that since no business required oral spelling, pupils should not be required to practice so useless an art. Miss Gale cleverly defended her thesis.

Next on the programme appeared Miss Lillian Knotts of Indianola with a brilliant paper on "Primary Reading." Miss Knotts advocated the "Word Method" and her address well illustrated the improvements that are being made in the training of young children in our common schools.

Prof. Smith, the new principal of the Indianola schools, was the next in order on the programme, but he failed to respond.

Mrs. Tucker of Lincoln, whose institute work, last summer, created so favorable an impression in this county, had contributed a witty paper on "A Rainy Day in School," which was read in a pleasant and appreciative manner by Miss Hart of McCook.

Then Mr. J. H. Fowler of Gerver precinct presented a carefully prepared essay on "Current Events" which was well received. Mrs. Nettleton, the county superintendent, followed with an earnest, thoughtful address on "The Condition of Our District Schools" and was listened to with great interest. The superintendent's devotion to her work and well-known enthusiasm in all that pertains to her office were displayed in every phrase of her remarks. Prof. Smith of Bartley concluded the programme with a talk on physiology and made a strong plea for more and better work in hygiene.

The business of the association was then considered. Mr. Piper of Box Elder moved that the next meeting be held in January at McCook, seconded by Mr. Valentine who promised a hearty welcome from the citizens and city teachers. This motion carried unanimously and the meeting adjourned to the hall where a splendid supper was served by the tireless ladies of Danbury who wearied not in good work.

At 8 o'clock the school house was again crowded to the door and after music by the choir and a brief address by the president, Mr. Valentine talked to young men and women on "The Means of Intellectual Culture which Lie Close at Hand," and advocated the systematic reading of the patent insides of the county newspaper, Agricultural Column, Scientific Column, Foreign news and Home news. The speaker concluded with an urgent appeal to the teachers present to pursue the work of the State Reading Circle and to neglect no one of the many opportunities offered to obtain a liberal education.

At 9:30, one of the most successful meetings ever held in the county adjourned to meet in McCook early in January, 1891.

ASSOCIATION NOTES.

Danbury hospitality will be proverbial after this among Red Willow county teachers.

McCook sent the largest delegation: Mr. Valentine, Mr. Bayston, Miss Berry, Mrs. Brown, Miss Jensen, Miss Myers, Miss Hart, Miss Clark, Miss Gale and Miss Meserve.

Mr. Morley Piper of Box Elder made the longest journey to attend the meeting.

Hon. S. W. Stilgebauer and family won the friendship of all the visitors.

Indianola was represented by one delegate, Miss Lillian Knotts.

Prof. William Smith of Bartley is a faithful worker in all the meetings.

The McCook teachers returned, Sunday noon, tired but enthusiastic over their reception and treatment by their Danbury friends.

BANKSVILLE BUDGET.

The first killing frost of the season was October 13th, which got away with tomato vines. James Hill's children that were very sick are out of danger now.

Ed. Ackerman has pulled his freight for Hitchcock county, since our last writing.

Wm. Relph has been planting the Susie Loop tree claim, this week, to tree seeds.

J. W. West has returned from Blue Hill and reports fair crops there.

The writer has been experimenting with the sugar beet and finds that the sugar beet will stand the drought better than any other product of the farm, even better than sorghum.

The next question that gets into the subscribers head is what good will the election of W. A. McKeighan do the soldier or farmer? Don't forget that Hon. N. V. Harlan is the republican candidate for congress and he knows how to do the people good in representation. Don't forget it. ONSERVER.
