It is gratifying intelligence to THE TRIBUNE that Messrs. Hatfield of the well known ranch of that name are giving this matter of irrigation some attention. Fifteen years ago Ed. Byrer sustained a fracture of his skull in an accident. A portion of bone was then removed. Davis and Jones of our city and Curfman of Indianola performed the difficult and infrequent operation known as trepanning. A small piece of bone, which was in contact with the brain, was removed from the membrane surrounding the brain. The patient has not had an attack since and the prospects are bright for his recovery.

PLANS FOR IRRIGATION.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—[Special]—Senator Paddock again visited the agricultural department this morning and urged upon the secretary of agriculture immediate action in reference to the experiments in western Nebraska in the sinking of wells for irrigation purposes.

The secretary promised to take immediate steps for the commencement of investigation, with the view of securing some practical results in this direction at the earliest possible day. He thinks he will be able to have the preliminary examination commence during the coming week.

A statement was read by the senator from Mr. J. W. Hopkins of Winchester, Chase county, supplementary to an application recently received upon the same subject, both of which were received by the secretary and greatly impressed him. The whole plan of operations, embracing the Dakotas, western Nebraska and Kansas, is substantially determined and preparations for commencing operations in each of these states will be immediately perfected.

THE GOSPEL OF TEMPERANCE

According to St. John of Kansas.— A Masterly and Eloquent Plea for the Amendment.

The magnificent outpouring of the people to hear Ex-Gov. St. John, Wednesday evening, was in the nature of an ovation to that vigorous old veteran in the temperance cause. The opera hall was filled to its utmost capacity and scores were unable to secure admission, much less seats or standing room. Delegations from Indianola, Benkelman, Stratton, Culbertson and other neighboring towns augmented the throng; and for over two hours the great prohibitionist held the wrapt attention of the finest audience ever assembled in the Menard.

Reviewing briefly the slavery question and its solution, the speaker soon launched out with irresistible vigor and logic and facts upon that ten-fold greater bondage—the liquor traffic. Then followed the most profoundly logical, able and convincing presentation of the prohibition question in all its phases ever delivered in Western Nebraska; and THE TRIBUNE believes that it has strict regard for the truth when it adds that votes were made for the amendment thereby.

The puny arguments of the opposition were punctured with consummate skill, and a few of their knight-errants came in for a measure of attention which the audience keenly appreciated.

The Governor closed with an appeal to the voters for support of the prohibition amendment, which was full of pathos and tender anecdote,—addressing the young men particularly,—the effect of which many a glistening eye attested.

FAIRY GROTTO.

A charming bit of music, dancing and costumery blended in "Fairy Grotto" to be sure, and delightfully rendered withal. THE TRIBUNE takes more than a lively local pride in reporting the splendid success of the performance of that bright operetta at the Menard, last night.

While the music was sprightly, the costumes pretty, the singing and declamation praiseworthy, at times the heights of artistic merit were reached. And it was all attractive and enjoyable, the applause being frequent and warm from the enthusiastic audience that filled the hall to its utmost capacity.

Space is lacking to give the extended notice deserved; and yet any mention would be insufficient without special reference to the fairy queen, Miss Ellington Wilson; the floral queen, Miss Anna Heard; Puck, the fairy queen's sprite, Master Walter Shaw; and to Miss Florence Lanham and Master Roy Smith. To the manner in which their several parts were rendered is largely due the excellence of the entertainment. And finally Mrs. C. M. Wilson and Mrs. Frank Brown are to be heartily congratulated upon the success which has crowned their painstaking efforts in the preparation of the operetta.

GRAND REPUBLICAN RALLY.

There will be a grand Republican rally in Menard's hall in McCook, in the evening of Saturday, October 25th at 7:30 o'clock, central time. Judge O. P. Mason, and Hon. L. D. Richards, our next Governor, and Hon. T. J. Majors, our next Lieut. Governor, will address the meeting. As the Hon. W. A. McKeighan and other Democratic and Independent speakers will be in McCook in the afternoon they will be granted a division of time at this evening meeting and are cordially invited to participate in the debates. The Republican speakers will be in McCook in the afternoon and will not decline an invitation to debate the issues at the Democratic and Independent meeting.

Owing to Short Crops.

The board of educational lands and funds met, Monday, and adopted the following as a relief measure for western farmers whose crops failed them the past year:

WHEREAS, There are at present a great number of leases delinquent in payment of semi-annual interest, and

WHEREAS, It would be a hardship to force the payment at this time, therefore be it

RESOLVED, that the commissioner of public lands and buildings be and is hereby instructed to delay the preparation of the list for the forfeiture of all delinquent school land leases until the further order of this board.

For the Amendment.

On Thursday evening next at the Pickens school house in Valley Grange precinct, Rev. Mather of the Methodist church will speak for the prohibitory amendment, at the hour of 7:30. The reverend gentleman will deliver an address worthy a large audience, and the temperance friends of Valley Grange should turn out en masse.

TAKING FIRMER HOLD.

The irrigation idea is taking firmer hold on the public mind as the feasibility and utility of it is made known. Many are thoroughly alive to its desirability and importance and are anxious to see a move made, even though it be experimental in character.

The general government's aid has been invoked and an appropriation has been made for the purpose of sinking experimental artesian wells in Western Nebraska. As the number of wells to be sunk and the locations for the same are not yet determined, the efforts being made by our citizens to have one of the experimental wells put down in this vicinity are timely, and it is to be fondly hoped that they will be successful.

There are many good and sufficient reasons why McCook should be selected as one of the places and these will doubtless be urged with the usual vigor and eloquence.

Enterprising citizens in various parts of Western Nebraska have already organized companies, and the waters of the numerous streams will be utilized the coming season for irrigating purposes. And it is safe to prophecy that in a few years every inch of running water in this section will be in demand. There are, however, large bodies of land which cannot be reached by the streams, because of situation, and limited supply as well. And the holders of such lands—and they are the major portion—will look forward to the result of the experiments projected by the government with the greatest interest.

If, happily, it shall be demonstrated that artesian waters can be secured in sufficient volume, the beneficent results to this bailiwick will be of the most encouraging character—the prospect will be most entrancing. Speed the good work.

Excursion to the Black Hills, Oct. 28.

October 28th, the B. & M. R. R., Burlington Route, will sell round trip tickets to Custer, S. D., good for return within 15 days, at half rate. The line has just been completed to Custer, and is being rapidly constructed beyond there to Hill City and Deadwood.

J. FRANCIS.

TO FILL VACANCY.

Mr. C. W. Hodgkin, of North Valley precinct, has been selected to fill the vacancy on the county republican ticket made by the resignation of Mr. Geo. W. Bartlett, nominee for commissioner in the third district, whose business calls him to Denver. Mr. Hodgkin, THE TRIBUNE is pleased to announce, is in every respect a worthy successor to Mr. Bartlett, and is a competent to discharge the duties of the office. We bespeak for him the generous support so cordially accorded him whom he succeeds.

The McCook Democrat Sold.

It is stated on authority that Wahlquist Bros. of the Hastings Democrat have sold the McCook Democrat to Barnes Bros. of the Indianola Times, and that the transfer will be made on November 1st. The Democrat will then lose its identity in the Red Willow County Times and its political complexion will undergo as radical a change into Republicanism.

Bernheimer, wishes to announce that he is now located in the rear of The First National Bank, with a new stock of latest and most fashionable fall and winter suitings, and is prepared to give the public correct and satisfactory results in all branches of the merchant tailoring business. He invites a trial and guarantees satisfaction.

On the first publication of the Red Willow County Times at Indianola will be discontinued, and the plant will be moved to McCook and consolidated with the Democrat outfit in the issue of the Times, from this place, with the Barnes Bros. as publishers.

On next Thursday evening, United States Senator Manderson will speak in this city on the political issues now agitating the people of Nebraska. The senator will interest and instruct you all. Let the opera hall be crowded to greet him.

LETTER FROM COL. T. E. McCRACKEN

EDITOR TRIBUNE—

The dyspepsia clings to me with such a tenacious grip, that I have neither life nor ambition enough left to write an occasional letter for THE TRIBUNE. But the republicans in the 51st Congress did so much effectual work under such exasperating difficulties that I want to make honorable mention of the same. No one except a looker-on can fully understand or appreciate the methods adopted by the democrats—who pose as the great constitutional party—to impede, hinder, and block up every channel possible looking to important legislation; hence they have received and merit the appellation of obstructionists.

Mills of Texas, one of the great apostles of modern democracy, declared just before this Congress convened that no legislation by the republicans could or should be passed to a law except by the will and grace of the minority. Notwithstanding this assertion and the persistent effort to put in practice, the republicans and the country have every reason to be proud of the record which has been made by the republican members of the congress which recently closed its first session. It has been a fruitful and eventful session and the record of work performed or well advanced is proof of the fact that the long session has been well employed in spite of the prodigious waste of time caused by filibustering in the House and interminable talkers in the Senate.

In order for the majority to do business, it was necessary in the beginning to change the rules and this was an important achievement. The struggle over the issue extended into February and was continued in various forms all through the sessions whenever the minority saw its opportunity; but it is worth all the time and trouble it cost and even the bad blood and outrageous abuse of which it was the occasion. Without this initial triumph the session would have been a comparative failure, being subject to such measures as could pass by unanimous consent or by grace of the democratic minority.

The victory of the republicans under the inspiration and leadership of Speaker Reed and followed up so vigorously and successfully in its administration is a victory for all time and makes the House of Representatives once more a business body with a power united to responsibility. Had the example been followed by the Senate and a check allowed for the now unlimited debate in that body, the record of work accomplished as satisfactory as it is, would have been considerably greater.

When the Senate again convenes it will be likely to amend its rules, the demand in that body for something like the previous question was never so strong as it is now. Either the tariff or the silver bill alone would have been a pretty fair work for one session, but the amount of other legislation accomplished has been unusually large notwithstanding the determined efforts of the obstructionists. Democratic papers and democratic stump speakers are complaining of the large appropriations for public buildings and the extravagant use of the people's money; but as a matter of fact, the appropriations for public buildings amounted to $3,000,000 less at the recent session of congress than at the last session of the Democratic House.

The amendment to cover into the Treasury the $55,000,000 fund for the redemption of bank notes was supported by nearly all the democrats in congress. As the Secretary of the Treasury has spent nearly twice that amount in buying bonds, it is evident that the democratic change—that this fund was covered into the Treasury to avoid a deficiency—is ridiculous. Secretary Windom has paid out $240,000,000 in buying bonds not yet due and issued a call for more; and yet the democrats talk of bankruptcy, of a bankrupt treasury! This republican congress had to appropriate $31,000,000 to make up deficiencies created by the Democratic House. When these are taken out and the appropriations for disabled veterans—which a democratic congress, although in power since '82, have failed to make—and for the increase of the navy and for fortifications, the aggregate of the appropriations are actually less than when the democrats controlled the House. And yet democratic orators are howling extravagantly.

The Federal elections law, that passed the lower House and should have passed the Senate and now been the law of the land, was desperately fought by the obstructionists, and for what reasons? They say it will be impolitic, renew and bring again a war of races in the South. Suppose it does bring on a race war, will that be anything new in that section if the darkey attempts to vote the republican ticket? I say that such a law as the Lodge bill that passed the house is not only politic but absolutely necessary for these reasons: The men who were in the saddle from 1861 to 1865 hold all the reins of political power down South now, and they will not relinquish their hold until compelled to. In many places in the South the colored men are not permitted to vote, and many places where they are, the vote is not counted unless it be cast for a democrat. Northern white citizens living south are told that no objections will be made as to their choice for presidential candidates but they should support the state and county tickets—democratic of course—thereby assuming a full list of democratic congressmen.

There is no such thing as love of country or the old flag in that section. State rights and adoration for Jeff Davis, intense hatred for yankees, and abuse of all who are not democrats is their political stock in trade. When the Federal elections bill is passed and becomes the law, as it will, and goes into practical operation it will be the entering wedge to split the solid political South and enable men regardless of color to exercise their political rights and be a blessing to all parties. The Second district of Nebraska is now represented by a faithful pains-taking servant, one that is influential in his committees where all legislative work is mapped out and who is always in his seat, keeping run of business and ready to answer to roll call. Let the republicans of this district see to it that no disgrace is brought to them, but that a republican good and true is returned to the 53d Congress. T. E. McCRACKEN.
