OFFICIAL CITY & COUNTY PAPER.

HASTINGS is now a city of the first class.

FREE SUGAR goes to the spot. Do it some more.

TWENTY-FIVE states have adopted the Australian ballot system. It is about time to change the name to the American system.

THE national league of republican clubs will meet in annual session at Cincinnati the 21st. Nebraska is entitled to 19 delegates.

AN EXTRA session of the legislature is one of the things we can look forward to with such christian resignation as we can command.

LAST year Colorado grew $40,000,000 worth of crops. It will be appreciated what Nebraska can do in irrigation when it is known that the North Platte river alone is claimed to flow as much water in June as eight of Colorado's largest rivers whose waters are utilized for that purpose.

THE question of irrigation has come to stay in Western Nebraska. The community that first practically settles the matter by building a ditch, will be the wisest and will enjoy the blessings longest. McCook should endeavor to act wisely and promptly. It is a condition we confront, not a theory.

THE Denver News claims that only about half the lands subject to irrigation in Colorado are under cultivation; and yet those acres produced crops worth $40,000,000, more than the output of all her rich mines. Contemplate the possibilities of Western Nebraska, when the priceless waters of her wonderful rivers are spread over her fertile acres! Favored with a lower altitude, less liable to hail's devastation, with richer soil, more splendid results can be expected in Nebraska. This, together with her boundless and unapproachable grazing lands, will place Western Nebraska in an enviable position. Her farmers and stockmen will be prosperous and contented and happy.

NEBRASKA has made of Arbor Day a national day for tree planting in nearly every state in the union. This state has set the example that has been a wonderful impetus to the development and improvement of the western prairies and each year has made a record of tree planting that is a monument to the public good. This year should show no decrease in the observance of Arbor Day. The people of McCook should add to the record it has already made in tree planting. April 22nd is a date that this year does not fall too late for tree planting, but if any are ready let them plant them now and credit up the total on Arbor Day. A million trees a year planted and cared for will make in fifty years a state supplying its own timber for us, besides the comfort and cheer that comes from forests of trees where no trees grew before.

THE people of Nebraska have every reason for feeling encouraged over the prospects for a prosperous season. The outlook agriculturally has never been better, and a crop of unusual abundance may be looked for with confidence. Prices, too, are certain to be satisfactory. The world's store of corn is at a very low ebb, there is not enough wheat in sight to supply the wants of the grain consuming nations, beef is rapidly advancing in value, and the success of the administration in opening a way for the American hog in Europe can hardly fail to cause a sharp advance in the price of pork. It will take two or three seasons of plenty to glut the markets of the world with our products again, and in the meantime the western farmer ought to recover all his recent losses and lay by a snug balance for future needs. The turning point in the fortunes of the agriculturalists has evidently been reached.—State Journal.
