"German Syrup"

For Throat and Lungs
"I have been ill for Hemorrhage" about five years, "I have had the best Five Years," "medical advice," "and I took the first dose in some doubt. This resulted in a few hours easy sleep. There was no further hemorrhage till next day, when I had a slight attack which stopped almost immediately. By the third day all trace of blood had disappeared and I had recovered much strength. The fourth day I sat up in bed and ate my dinner, the first solid food for two months. Since that time I have gradually gotten better and am now able to move about the house. My death was daily expected and my recovery has been a great surprise to my friends and the doctor. There can be no doubt about the effect of German Syrup, as I had an attack just previous to its use. The only relief was after the first dose." J. R. LOUGHHEAD, Adelaide, Australia.

Before you buy anything ask two questions: "Do I really want it?" "Can I do without it?" HONESTLY ANSWERED. These questions may make you rich but they will never prevent you from buying SAPOLIO. Its uses are many and so are its friends; for where it is once used it is always used. To clean house without it is sheer folly, since it does the work twice as fast and twice as well.

Building Houses of Paper.
The utilization of paper in the arts of industry and construction presents a notable example in the recent erection of a new Hamburg hotel, in northern Germany, the structure being built entire of paper boards compressed to the hardness of wood. One advantage of special importance attributed to this novel description of building material is the circumstances that, by being impregnated with certain chemical solutions, it can be made absolutely fire proof; the same process of treatment also secures it against the attacks of destructive insects, and might thus specially recommend it for use in certain river valleys in the tropics, wood-eating ants having been known to demolish large frame buildings in less than a month. For some time past a firm at Dresden has successfully engaged in the manufacture of tool handles and shafts from compressed paper chemically prepared, the articles being not only very hard and firm, but possessing the quality of being non-conductors of heat. Another German firm is making pulleys of pasteboards pressed by hydraulic power, having an iron core and strong casing, and are supposed to take up less room, generate less friction, and are water proof.

Keeping Flowers.
A new method of preserving natural flowers has been discovered by an English lady, whose process is well worth considering, says Farm and Fireside. The flower buds were cut just as they were about to open and the ends of the stems covered with sealing wax. Each was then wrapped separately in paper and laid away in a box. When they were wanted she clipped the stems just above the wax and immersed them in water, to which a little nitre had been added; and, though the flowers had been gathered nearly a month before, on the morrow they opened with as much beauty and fragrance as if freshly plucked.

TEDDY'S KNOCKER-OUT.

Fifteen Dollars a Week, Besides Board and Glory for a Pugilist.

"I get $15 a week and me board, and that's as good as a tough like me can expect to do."

The speaker was a muscular young fellow of the rough-and-ready type. He was leaning against the bar of a saloon, toying with a glass of beer and puffing at a long black cigar. His business was a peculiar one. It was his task to present himself each night at a certain Sullivan-street resort known as Teddy's, and be ready to oblige any aspirant in the fistic line by putting on the gloves with him for four rounds. He was, in short, the representative of the management, and if he did not get the best of the bout, the house was compelled to pay the winner a dollar.

"I'm only 19," said the young man, "and some day I may meet some of the good ones. I have been in the business a year now. One night last winter I walked into Teddy's did up a Cockney what was doin' the honors for the house. I was hired on the spot, and the Cockney was fired. I've never been bested since I started, and Teddy says I'm better'n most of the ringers. Now, I don't like the work, except for the money it brings. Most of the men that meet me are plugs, and it makes me weary to punch 'em. Then when I do meet a pretty good one he usually tries to foul me. There's lots of hard customers come in, ye know, and they must do me up some way, an' fore I know it a feller drives his shoulder into me stomach or hits me under the chin with his head, I don't get a fair fight like I would in a ring, though Teddy looks out for me pretty well when the gang against him isn't too strong. Sometimes I get spiked, an' once a big fellow, about 300 pounds weight, rushed me through the ropes, and before I could jump out of the crowd someone had struck me with a brass knuckle behind the ear, an' I was within an ace of going out. I faced me man again, though, an' just got a knock-out blow in on him in time to save myself. I guess I'll stick ter the business a while longer. Countin' the board that Teddy gives it's worth 20 a week to me. That's better an' uneducated jay like me kin do in straight work, an' maybe next year I kin get a fight on with a big un. Then if I best him I kin go inter theatricals."

COURT PRESENTATIONS.

Money not Always the "Open Sesame" to Royal Courts.

Half of the American women, or perhaps all of them, who spend their money and energies in obtaining a presentation to royalty—at the point of the bayonet, so to speak—have but one idea in view. It is to say they have been at close quarters with the Queen of England, and breathed the same atmosphere for about two and one-half seconds as that pudgy but virtuous monarch. This is something to relate to one's relatives at home, perhaps. The cost of a presentation, as every one knows, ranges from hundreds to thousands of dollars, but of course, the good American like Mr. Montalini "dem'ds the expense," and is only too thankful if no divorce nor scandal prevents the Lord Chamberlain from ordering a taboo at that or any other royal function in the hereafter. Judging, however, by the names which have already been sent in by that exalted functionary, the over rich citizen of the United States does not always get there. The line, it seems, can be drawn, even at a Court presentation! Let us be grateful for so much, although it breaks a millionaire heart or two to find the Mighty Dollar is not sesame in a royal palace. It seldom happens that money fails as a key but at that precious Court of St. James there is a sort of Yale lock which defies it. And, after all is said and done, and the American society beauty has been stared at by haughty royalty, and has heard her name called in the halls of the elect, what then? Is it not very silly, very absurd, and about as childish as the performances at a fashionable dancing school class?—Boston Herald.

IT STOPPED THE METER.

A Spider's Web Does a Good Turn for a Business Man.

The superintendent of an electric-light station gives a strange instance of the stopping of a meter and the explanation of the trouble.

On examining the meter, which was of twenty-eight capacity, after a lapse of a month, in order to determine the quantity of current to be charged for; he hatfounded t the consumer, in the pressure of business, had placed a number of small boxes around the meter, concealing it from view.

As it was desirable not to disturb them, it was suggested and agreed to that the meter be allowed to run another month. At the end of the second month, the coast being clear, the meter was examined, and it was found that it recorded only five hours since the time of examination.

This looked suspicious, but there was no ground to believe that the meter had been tampered with. A very close inspection revealed the fact that a spider had spun its web around the fans so that they could not rotate under the action of the current.

It appears that the screws which held the cover to the top of the instrument had not been put in, and that the spider had taken advantage of the opening and established himself in the cozy quarters.

What is lacking is truth and confidence.

If there were absolute truth on the one hand and absolute confidence on the other, it wouldn't be necessary for the makers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy to back up a plain statement of fact by a $500 guarantee.

They say—"If we can't cure you (make it personal, please,) of catarrh in the head, in any form or stage, we'll pay you $500 for your trouble in making the trial."

"An advertising fake," you say.

Funny, isn't it, how some people prefer sickness to health when the remedy is positive and the guarantee absolute.

Wise men don't put money back of "fakes." And "faking" doesn't pay.
