NEBRASKA STATE FAIR.

Just now everybody is wondering, and inquiring: "What of the coming Nebraska state fair?" If last year under the most adverse conditions ever experienced, or almost imaginable, the management worked up the best exposition in all respects ever before, what may be reasonably expected this year? This largely depends on the people, both as exhibitors and patrons. The board, looking the ground all over, has made commensurate provisions and will continue every effort to have the coming fair eclipse all predecessors, in fact, anything of the kind anywhere. We are approaching the great world's fair at Chicago, which promises to be the grandest exposition the world ever knew. The contest between the great producing states in the union will be earnest and sharp. Nebraska is one in the list of such states. She must be awake and alive to the occasion. Let our people comprehend the situation. Preparatory to the final contest let us be getting "our hands in" to the work. To this end the exhibits at the state fair at Lincoln in September next should be what it can and ought to present. See that the county collective exhibits especially, are in all respects characteristic of the products, resources and possibilities of the state. This done, and the way is opened for a triumphal presentation to the world at Chicago. It is hoped the leading, live workmen in each county, if they have not already done so, will at once organize and engage in good work. Do not wait until a late day and hour. Take time by the forelock and push things from now until the state fair opens, with a showing that will surprise ourselves even.

Nebraska Teachers at Toronto.

TORONTO, July 15th, 1891.
There are twelve thousand teachers present at the N. E. A. and large numbers still expected. It is a matter of state pride that the Nebraska special train is the largest that has come in. There are about two hundred Nebraska teachers in all and about one hundred are registered at the Elliott House, the Beaver and the Eagle embraced, with great show of cordiality. The welcoming addresses at the big rink, yesterday P. M., were received by an enthusiastic audience with rounds of applause. It was a grand inspiring meeting. Last night such speakers as Francis W. Parker of the Cook County Normal, on "The School of the Future," discussed by A. P. Mable of Mass., Inspector J. L. Hughes of Toronto, and Dr. G. Stanley Hall of Worcester, Mass., make one glad of his identification with the common school. Such sentences as these strike the key note of the times:—"The school of the future of the world is the common school." "When the history of the public school is written it will depict the grandest struggle for freedom that has ever been fought." E. G. N.

BANKSVILLE BUDGET.

Fine occasional weather.
An occasional shower.
C. E. Nelson is helping W. H. Benjamin harvest.
The farmers that have a rye crop are very busy harvesting.
C. E. Shaw of Hitchcock county was at Banksville, Wednesday.
Ed. Ackerman of the county of Hitchcock was at Banksville, Sunday.
A few pieces of wheat are fit to cut and all the grain is ripening very fast now.
Grains of gold are not picked up in Nebraska, but the supply of golden grain will be the greatest the west has ever seen. It is the wonder and delight of the oldest inhabitant. OBSERVER.

VAULT VOICES.

Harvest is the order of the day.
Corn looks well, though a trifle late.
Vailton has the fewest loafers of any section in the west.
Neighbor Sanderson is looking heavy and robust again.
Will Sprague and family of McCook spent the Sabbath here.
Mrs. Clements is taking strongly of making her Iowa trip this month.
Elder Norval will preach to our people next Sabbath. Let the house be crowded. Why not?
"By their fruits ye shall know them." Nebraska is willing to be sized-up on her wheat and corn crops.
The political cauldron boils very low at present. We find Mrs. C. L. Nettleton is encouraged for another term, and we honestly believe the present District Judge can carry this section solid. RALPH.
