Said McKeighan in his acceptance speech at Holdrege: "I mean no disrespect to the defenseless dead when I tell you that I am no democrat."

Republican County Convention.

There will be a Republican County Convention for Red Willow county, Nebraska, held on Wednesday, September 14th, 1892, at one o'clock, P. M., central time, in the court house at Indianola, Nebraska, for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate each for the offices of representative, county attorney and county commissioner of the third district, and to transact such other business as may properly come before the convention.

The various precincts are entitled to representation as follows, (being one delegate at large, and one for each fifteen votes or fraction thereof cast for Judge Post in 1891.) Alliance... 2 Grant... 2 Beaver... 4 Indianola... 6 Bondville... 4 Lebanon... 4 Box Elder... 4 Missouri Ridge... 2 Coleman... 2 North Valley... 2 Danbury... 2 Perry... 4 Driftwood... 3 Red Willow... 3 East Valley... 4 Tyrone... 2 Fritsch... 2 Valley Grange... 3 Gerver... 2 Willow Grove... 24 Total... 80

It is recommended that the precinct primaries be called by the respective committees to be held on Monday, September 13th, 1892, at such hour as may be most convenient. F. M. KIMMELL, Secretary. M. N. SKIRKEY, Chairman. McCook, Nebraska, August 23d, 1892.

Prof. Totten, who prophesies the end of the world in the near future, has probably just heard that an ex-Confederate colonel is running for Congress in Kansas.

The correspondence between Secretary J. W. Foster and the Canadian authorities relative to the retaliation matter shows that we still have a secretary of state that knows his business.

The dispatches announce the death of George William Curtis at his home on Staten Island, Wednesday morning, at the age of 68 years. He had not yet reached the time of life when nature ordinarily places the seal of decay upon the physical or mental faculties, and under the usual conditions which regulate the tenure of human existence, he might have been permitted to enjoy nearly an additional decade of useful activity. But as it was, it was his privilege to round out a career of remarkable influence and to leave to the world a brilliant and honored memory.

This is not a bad time to recall what Prince Bismark said about American protection in his speech before the reichstag ten years ago: "The success of the United States in material development is the most illustrious of modern times. The American nation has not only successfully borne and suppressed the most gigantic and expensive war of all history, but immediately afterward it disbanded its army, found employment for all its soldiers and marines, paid off most of its debt, gave labor and homes to all the unemployed of Europe as fast as they could arrive within its territory, and still by a system of taxation so indirect as not to be perceived, much less felt. Because it is my deliberate judgment that the prosperity of America is due to its system of protective laws, I urge that Germany has now reached that point where it is necessary to imitate the tariff system of the United States".—Journal.

Most of the great acts of heroism, says the Chicago Herald, are performed in the presence and under the inspiration of applauding multitudes. Not so the deed of Farmer Adams, who saved the train load of passengers, Friday night, near Enon Valley, Pa., on the Fort Wayne railroad. Some miscreants piled ties on the track, intending to wreck and loot the passenger train. Farmer Adams removed the ties one by one, while the robbers shot at him time after time from ambush. Wounded twice, once in the head and once in the leg, he did not desist until the last tie had been thrown from the track. Then he sank exhausted to the ground and the train rushed by in the darkness. "I'll clear the track or die in the attempt," he said, while the guns were cracking at him from the woods. Did anyone do or say anything nobler or more knightly?

In a recent interview Judge Gresham made a statement worth memorizing when he said, that, "as an American citizen, he considered it his duty to vote according to his convictions, and that he owed no slavish obedience to any party." This was well said. A man will vote as he chooses and will not be a slave to any party. These days it is not so much a question of blind devotion to party as of maintaining great principles, and every man ought to have clear convictions on the political issues now before us. The principles of the Republican party will ever be found worthy of support.

The linen mills recently established in Sioux Falls are now in successful operation and turning out excellent goods. This promising enterprise never would have been thought of but for the encouragement offered by the McKinley tariff law.—Bee.
