

Recently the following Notice appeared in the San Francisco Chronicle.

"Judge S— had been sick only about two weeks, and it was not until the last three or four days that the malady took a serious turn. At the beginning of his illness he suffered from diabetes and stomach disorder. Later the kidneys refused to perform their functions and he passed quietly away. Thus ended the life of one of the most prominent men in California." Like thousands of others his untimely death was the result of neglecting early symptoms of kidney disease.

- IF YOU are troubled with diabetes, gravel, or any de-rangement of the kidneys or urinary organs, don't delay proper treatment until you are forced to give up your daily duties; don't waste your money on worthless liniments and worse plasters, but strike at the seat of the disease at once by using the greatest of all known remedies, the celebrated Oregon Kid-ney Tea. It has saved the lives of thousands. Why should it not cure you? Try it. Purely vegetable and pleasant to take, $1.00 a pack-age, 6 for $5.00.

ST. PAUL, Minn., October, 1890. I recently had the opportunity of testing the selebrated Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic in a very severe case. A poor widow to whom I have frequently given aid and assistance in my capacity as City Missionary, sent her 12-year-old daughter to me one evening to procure necessary aid; while she was relating her destitution and stating that her mother was now nearly totally blind, the poor child suddenly fell into an epileptic fit. I gave her two bottles of your medicine, and the girl is now well and happy, and the support of her aged mother. The Lord be thanked! I think that such a case as this redounds to your honor and to the glory of Him above, who has given you the knowledge to prepare such a blessing for suffering humanity. E. R. IRMSCHER, Missionary, Needham had often been told that he would find his match in Tom Lincoln's boy Abe, but he would boast that he could "fling him three best out of four any day he lived." At last they met. It was a house-raising on the Ambraw River. "Raisin's" at that time brought "neighbors" from many miles around, and I am told at this one they came from as far the two stood face to face. Four times they wrestled, and each time Needham was thrown. At the close of the fourth round the combatants stood face to face, Abe flushed but smil ing, Dan trembled with anger. However, one glance at the honest, good-natured face of his opponent cooled his rage, and extending his rough palm, he said, "Well, I'll be ——!" Ever after this they were warm friends. Need-ham survived Lincoln many years, and though he was a strong democrat, he had nothing but good words for Abe. A Story That Cannot Be Equaled in the Records of the Ananias Club.

Adam Boek, a real estate man of St. Louis, has a son, Walter, who is a great story-teller. He had been up to the Northern lakes replenishing his fund. Here's one of the best stories he has been inflicting on his friends since his return: "One day when I was out rowing on Spirit lake, I saw a sight the like of which I never expect to see again. It was terribly hot; so hot, in fact, that the waves seemed to be getting tanned from the continual exposure to Old Sol. Why, really, even the fish seemed to be getting warm. Well, maybe they wern't, but anyhow I know that the water was running off them in regular wavelets. They rose to the surface in great numbers, but there was only one of them equal to the emergency. He came right up in full view of our boat and gently lifting his tail above the surface he playfully began to fan himself. Maybe you fancy we wern't surprised! We only wished we were as cool as that fish.

She Killed the Snake and Died.

A negro woman, who lived near Charleston, S. C., left her home to pick berries. While moving about in the berry patch she saw a large rattlesnake curled up ready to strike her. She started to run, but her dress caught in the bush, and in an instant the reptile struck her, his fangs penetrating her hand. He at once recoiled and again plunged at her, sinking his fangs in her hand a second time. He made a third strike, this time at her

The poor woman, with remarkable courage, caught the snake by the neck and beat its head against a stone until it was dead. Almost immediately she was overcome by the poison and fell unconscious a few steps away from the body of the rattlesnake. There she died soon after being taken home.

First Plano Made by Chickering.

The original first piano made by the late Jonas Chickering, of Boston, founder of the piano industry in the United States, has just been recovered by his son, George H. Chiekering, and is to be kept by the latter gentleman as a historic memento. The original bill of sale was made out to James II. Bingham, and the date. June 23, 1823, marks the time of the first sale made of a new piano at the factory, then consisting of two rooms in Tremont street, next to King's chapel graveyard, in a small building located where the probate court building now is. Mr. Bingham was a friend of Jonas Chickering, and he bought the piano for a Miss Thankful C. Hutchinson at Alstead, N. H., whence it was shipped. Mr. Bingham was engaged to be married to Miss Hutchinson, and subsequently did marry her. The piano sold for $275. Twice afterward the piano was sold, always remaining, however, at Alstead.

Spoiled the Sentiment.

Daniel Potter, an old resident of Gloncester, Mass., once called the attention of his guests to an old lock, a great favorite of his. He told his friends of his great attachment to this ancient timepiece, and said, in a voice full of emotion: "Gentlemen, I have wound up that clock every night for more than forty years." He had evidently made an impression on his visitors, when one guest, who had been carefully examining the clock, turned the tide of feeling evoked by the story by saying drily: "Well, I always did think you were something of an idiot! That's an eight-day clock!"
