Said McKeighan in his acceptance speech at Holdrege: "I mean no disrespect to the defenseless dead when I tell you that I am no democrat."

ONE must make allowances for the democratic organs when they give up their space to rejoicings over the Maine elections and promises of carrying four or five western states. They must have something to say, and the tariff, reciprocity, honest money and a stable national bank currency are all taboed subjects.

JUDGE CROUNSE is making a quiet but exceedingly effective canvass among the people of Nebraska. Wherever he goes he spreads confidence in his strength, admiration for his ability and a feeling that he will fill the office to which he will be elected in November with ability and discretion. Judge Crouse is not a sky rocket candidate, but a conservative man of ideas and convictions. He will make an ideal governor for the state of Nebraska.—Journal.

MAJOR GAMMILL is going to be the next senator from this district. And he will do more and accomplish more for his constituents in a week than the ordinary member of the legislature would do in a whole session. Gammill is a worker and has no use for the dress parade in business affairs. Even those politically opposed to him will concede that he is an irrepresible, indomitable worker, has good hard sense to combine with it, and is honest as the day is long.—Stockville Republican.

THE political cyclone from Kansas, Mrs. Lease, is progressing rapidly in the art of campaign speaking. In Georgia the other day she characterized an Atlanta newspaper as a lying sheet and its representative as a liar. The newspaper man referred to was at a disadvantage. He could not chastise a woman, but he offered to whip any man who would come forward as her representative. Mr. Lease is saving himself a good deal of bodily injury by not traveling with the combination.—Bee.

WHITTIER left an estate aggregating about $60,000. The Quaker bard was not amply endowed with the financial instinct. That gift is very rarely found in combination with the poetic temperament. But he was a man of unaffected taste, and in his method of life conformed to the quiet simplicity which is one of the cardinal doctrines of the religious society to which WHITTIER belonged. The substantial competence which he accumulated represents sobriety and a wholesome contempt for ostentation and not an undue love of the goods of this world.

THAT $6,000,000 a year which the workmen of New York have gained since the McKinley tariff went into operation is an argument in favor of republican policy which will be fatal to democratic chances in that state.

THE New York Recorder of the 22d inst., gives more than five pages of solid nonpareil tabulated statistics, obtained from the office of Commissioner Peck, and sworn to by him and his clerks individually, to be accurate copies of the returns in their office, from the six thousand odd manufacturers in the figures upon which the commissioner based his report. These tables were made in the commissioner's office, the individual reports being embodied each by itself, with a number in place of the name of the manufacturer, who furnished the statistics of his establishment on condition that his name should not be published. The extent of the table shows what a vast amount of figure work was done in the office of the commissioner to enable him to make out the summaries that formed the main part of his report that has kicked up such a disturbance in the democratic ranks. The Recorder gives the space necessary to this instructive table of wages, actually paid in 1890 and 1891 by the six thousand and odd employers of 285,000 workmen to show just how the report was prepared and also to show that the democratic committee which has procured the indictment of Commissioner Peck for destroying these papers, are barking up the wrong tree.—State Journal.

THE Journal candidly believes that the republican central committee could do the party no better service than to advertise Colonel Van Wyck's meeting and get all the people in the state to hear him before the day of election. One hour of his antics will cure the average individual of a desire to vote the independent ticket, and two hours ought to cure the most chronic case.

Just The Thing.
Maiden, I am sorely tried
What to do this Christmas-tide.
Costly gifts I would bestow,
At your feet my fond heart throw,
But—

Valued gifts you'll not accept.
"For," you say, "mamma'll object."
Said the maid—the cunning elf—
"Why not offer them—yourself?"

Fall Styles.

The world of fashion has been astir of late in consequence of the revival of what is called the Directoire styles, for which much popularity is predicted this autumn. The Directoire being that period of French history which preceded the coronation of Napoleon I, and of his wife, Josephine, leads naturally to the empire and Josephine styles, concerning which there is also a great deal of interest manifested. Another favorite variation will be the Recamier costume, taking its appellation from the famous lady of that name, who is doubtly celebrated for her beauty and her friendship with Mme. de Stael. The old-time balloon sleeve, another reminiscence of that epoch, will be much in vogue this fall. Many people use the expressions Directoire, Empire, Recamier without fully realizing what these terms signify, and are consequently apt to err in their endeavor to adopt the latest novelties. A careful perusal of a first-class fashion magazine like La Mode de Paris, Paris Album of Fashion or La Couturiere will furnish a satisfactory explanation of the differences between these historical customs. These Journals not only illustrate all modifications of these sundry styles; but also give full length descriptions of the materials to be used with appropriate trimmings, and reproduce as well the latest novelties in millinery and hat ornaments. The most practical way of obtaining this information is to subscribe for these journals. La Mode de Paris and Paris Album of Fashion are $3.50 per year each. They are the most artistic fashion magazines published. La Couturiere is a fine home journal for $3.00 and La Mode is only $1.50 per year. Another important fact to remember is that the three former publications contain each month a lesson on some popular garment with valuable practical suggestions. You can generally get single copies from your newsdealer, but do not allow him to give you some other journal for one of these. You can get them if you write to the publishers, Messrs. A. McDowell & Co., 4 West 14th Street, New York.
