Said McKeighan in his acceptance speech at Holdrege: "I mean no disrespect to the defenseless dead when I tell you that I am no democrat."

RED WILLOW county can take perfectly excusable pride in remembering John C. Allen with a handsome, robust majority at the approaching election. Local pride should do that. But there is the additional incentive that he has made the state an obliging and efficient secretary.

HON. W. E. ANDREWS should receive a loyal support at the hands of Red Willow county Republicans, and a neat majority should be rolled up for him in November. Able and clean he is worthy of your franchise, and would represent this district in congress with energy, fidelity and efficiency.

F. H. SELBY, in speaking of John C. Gammill's chances for election, said: "At first the outlook was dark enough, but as the campaign progresses it becomes brighter, until now I firmly believe that Mr. Gammill will be elected. Six of the eight counties will give Gammill a majority, and there is fighting chance in the other two."

THIS may be a quiet campaign but there is no testimony yet been offered to show that the states will not vote just as they did four years ago. The new states since admitted are solidly Republican and they will simply increase Harrison's electoral majority. If there is anything substantial our democratic friends have to offer on that assertion we would like to hear it.

It is reported that a corporation composed in part of eastern capitalists has been formed under the name of the United States Beet Sugar company to establish a large number of sugar factories in this state. As the beet sugar industry promises to become very important in Nebraska, which offers the best advantages for it of any state in the union, there should have been no lack of local enterprise and capital to carry it on. But if the factories are built as contemplated they will give a great stimulus to beet growing and will largely increase the volume of business in this state. The idea of distributing a number of factories about the state will doubtless produce good results by encouraging the culture of beets in many localities where they are not now produced. The sugar factories do not employ a great number of men and do not run throughout the year, but every new one added will increase the number of wage earners. It begins to look as if Nebraska were destined to become famous as a sugar producing state.—Bee.

A PHILADELPHIAN has presented to the museum of Independence hall the magnificent gold brocade vest or waistcoat that his ancestor wore once in that city in 1698. He didn't wear it again because he was arrested and heavily fined for daring to import Boston fashions into the Quaker city, and it was by the skin of his teeth that he escaped having his head shaved in the good old Quaker fashion. The public executioner was ordered by the court to burn the vest but the owner had so successfully buried it under his cellar floor that they had to make a return of "non comatibus" on the writ. This relic is principally interesting as it accounts for and fixes the date of the democratic plank that has from time immemorial adorned the party platforms, denouncing and deploring all "sumptuary laws." The modern democrat thinks this plank to be in defense on free whiskey, but liquor regulation laws are not "sumptuary." But that was the hallucination with which Grover Cleveland was possessed, when he gravely repeated his warning against "sumptuary legislation" in his justly celebrated letter of acceptance. It stands out in bold relief in that document as the only attempt in it to launch a great principle without a string to it. On the question of sumptuary legislation doubtless Grover thanks God that his party was not divided and he could venture to speak out.—State Journal.

THE cost of the Homestead strike to the state of Pennsylvania was about $600,000 in wages paid the militiamen. The loss to the laboring men and to the business interests of the town of Homestead was much in excess of that sum. When the deplorable affair is under consideration it must not be forgotten that the contest was not over wages so much as over the manner in which the business of the mills should be conducted. The strike has been declared lost, but the men who go into those big mills in the future will receive almost identically as much money per day as the workers who were employed there before the disturbance began.—State Journal.

NO MAN who loves his land and honors his state can afford not to vote for Andrews.

THE record of Senator Paddock's two terms of six years each in congress collated by Mr. Perry Heath for the Omaha Bee was spread before the readers of The Journal in yesterday morning's issue and is worth the perusal of every Nebraska farmer and business man. Senator Paddock's labors have been abundant and what is still more to the point, eminently successful. It is not a record of a lot of bills flung in and felt to shift for themselves as best they could in the rush of business, but the senator has staid with his great measures, has followed them through the senate and into the house, and the consequence of his diligence is that no man in the senate has accomplished more in the interest of the west and of the farmers of the entire country than the senator has been able to bring about as the chairman of the committee on agriculture and as a member of other very important committees. The Journal hopes that every man in the state will see the record and read it carefully. It is a record of good work that any statesman in the land might well be proud of.—Journal.

"CONFRONTED, as we are, by a condition of affairs so appalling in the south that it appeals to the patriotism of every American citizen, the election of Cleveland would, all these facts being known, be a matter of astonishment, as it would be a practical indorsement of these things, and as such would be at once the shame and danger of the republic."—Mary Lease, Populist Lecturer.

D. H. WOOLEY, a prominent alliance man of Kansas, has come out for the republican ticket. He says: "When I read that Georgia went democratic by 70,000, I at once went republican by a large majority." And many alliance men in this state are going the same way.

LET us see to it that JOHN C. ALLEN is handsomely remembered in southwestern Nebraska.
