Will Kinyon, late of McCook, has established a home among us again. He succeeds Mr. Lafferty as fireman of the switch engine.—Oxford Standard.

It is reported that on the first of December one of the passenger trains on this branch will be abandoned and that the other will make the round trip from Orleans to St. Francis each day going west early in the morning and east in the evening.—Beaver City Tribune.

H. L. Pitzer, late manager of the B. & M. hotel at McCook, has been with his family here since Saturday last. His presence with us here is only temporary, however, as he expects to leave within a few days to accept a position in the eating-house at Akron.—Oxford Standard.

The jury in the case of Mrs. Martin vs the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy R. R. Co., brought in a verdict for the full amount of damages claimed, amounting to $5,000, the trial coming of Tuesday and Wednesday this week. The plaintiff's husband was killed in a collision between the B. & M. and the St. Joe & G. I. R. R. a few years ago. Batty, Casco & Dungan were attorneys for the plaintiff, and the attorneys for the R. R. were Gen. Dilworth and Mr. Morlan of McCook.—Hastings Tribune.

Near Wauneta on the Culbertson extension of the B. & M. a fine gravel bed has been discovered. The country is quite rolling on the Frenchman, which the railway follows for many miles, in one of these bluffs. The upper soil is being cleared off and a large number of hands are now engaged in getting out gravel. Some six or eight cars are taken out daily. This makes a cheap and excellent ballast and the main track is receiving the benefit.—Lincoln Journal.

General Manager Holdrege and Superintendent Calvert have been in the western part of the state. They report everything in flourishing condition. In answer to a question Mr. Holdrege said it was not likely that the extension from Imperial to Holyoke would be finished for some time. He expressed the belief however, that within five or six years there would be several millions more of acres put into cultivation in the western part of the state. He felt sure there was an era of prosperity just before Nebraska.—Lincoln Journal.

Train No. 6, the Denver day train, arriving here at 10:10 p. m., is evidently regarded as an important one. Superintendent Calvert came in on it from McCook, the other night. For some cause there had been a slight delay and it was a few minutes late. This train runs very rapidly through Colorado and western Nebraska. Even between Oxford and Lincoln the time is not slow, being an hour and forty minutes less than that of the flyer, which arrives here at 2 p. m. The time on this train is so close that even the loss of a minute is felt, and every employe has orders to expedite the service at every point.—Lincoln Journal.
