

A Perfect Success. VII The Rev. A. Antoine of Refugio, Tex., writes: As far as I am able to judge, I think Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic is a perfect success for any one who has suffered from a most painful nervousness as I did. I feel like myself again after taking the Tonic.

WEST BEND, IOWA, Oct. 4, 1890. I was suffering from nervousness, brought on by overwork, for about three years. I could not sleep nights, I could not work, and my memory got impaired. I commenced using Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, and, after giving it a trial, I feel much better, my sleep has returned, and I am every way well pleased with its effect on me.

ORGANIC WEAKNESS AND PREMATURE DEATH BY MIDDLE AGE. The best flowers for a sickroom are growing flowers, but cut flowers are more often obtainable. As to these latter they should first of all be fresh.

Some one has noted the fact that July has been a fatal month to presidents. Jefferson, Monroe, Taylor, Van Buren, Johnson and Grant died in that month, and Garfield was shot in that month.

Robinson Crusoe's island, Juan Fernandez, is inhabited by about sixty persons, who attend to the herds of cattle that graze there.

LOVE AND WEATHER.

When, in the budding of the year, To her of love I chanced to sigh, "Tis spring," she whisper'd in my ear, "You'll feel much better by and by."

And when, in summer's golden hours, I said my heart was all aglow, And I rehearsed my heartfelt tale, She smiled as sweetly as the flowers, And murmured, "Summer, don't you know."

And later, when the leaves fell down, And I rehearsed my heartfelt tale, She said, but with a little frown, "The day is dull, and you are pale."

I sadly waited. Christmas came, And with the bells my love I told, Said she, "This wintry night's to blame; I'm sure you're suffering from the cold."

Oh, grant me, powers of destiny, That she and I may meet together, In some strange land that's fair to see, But wholly destitute of weather! —A. C. Gahan in New York Sun.

Absence of Real Children in Literature.

The wise mentors in conventional literature virtually tell you that child literature wants no real children in it; that the real child's example of defective grammar and lack of elegant deportment would furnish to its little patrician patrons suggestions very hurtful indeed to their higher morals, tendencies and ambitions. Then, although the general public couldn't for the life of it see why or how, and might even be reminded that it was just such a rowdying child itself, and that its father—the father of Abraham Lincoln—was just such a child, that Abraham Lincoln was just such a lovable, lawless child, all—all of this argument would avail not in the least, since the elegantly minded purveyors of child literature cannot possibly tolerate the presence of any but the refined children—the very proper children—the studiously thoughtful, poetic children—and these must be kept safe from the contaminating touch of our rough and tumble little fellows in "hodge-podge" with frowzy heads, begrimed but laughing faces, and such awful, awful vulgarities of naturalness, and crimes of simplicity, and brazen faith and trust, and love of life and everybody in it.—James W. Riley in Forum.

Two Kinds of Pears.

It is remarkable that although new fruits come to the front every year there is not a pear yet that has been able to take the place of the Bartlett or the Seckel. The Bartlett is a European sort, originating in England and named there William's Bon Curetien. It was introduced into this country, and its name getting lost it was named Bartlett, after the man in whose garden it was when its excellent qualities were discovered. The Seckel is a native, a chance seedling, found growing near the Schuylkill river, Philadelphia, and the original tree still stands and bears fruit.

The Bartlett is in season throughout September, the Seckel from the close of September and through October. These two kinds are no exception to the rule that the quality of all pears increases in value as the trees get older. The fruit from a full grown Seckel pear tree, for instance, is far superior to that from a tree fruiting for the first time.—Practical Farmer.

A Small Legal Fee.

The smallest fee ever taken by an English counsel was sixpence, that fee having on one occasion been taken by the late Sir John Holker. Barristers' fees were in olden times much less than those now paid. An entry occurs in the church wardens' accounts of St. Margaret's, Westminster, for 1476, showing that a fee of three shillings and eightpence, with fourpence for his dinner, was paid to Robert Fylpott, counsel, learned in the law, for his advice.

In Nare's "Glossary," a barrister's fee was stated to be an angel, or ten shillings. These are somewhat different figures to the 600 guineas paid to Sir Charles Russell three or four years ago at the Leeds assizes for less than three hours' work, or at the rate of over three guineas a minute.—London Tit-Bits.

Remarkable Unanimity.

The remarkable unanimity that is so pleasant to observe between man and wife is nicely illustrated by the following two letters of the same date:

COUNTRY, Aug. 20. DEAR JOHN—I am going to stay another week. Am having a splendid time. Affectionately, JULIA. CITY, Aug. 20. DEAR JULIA—You can stay another week. Am having a splendid time. Affectionately, JOHN.

Best Flowers for a Sickroom.

The best flowers for a sickroom are growing flowers, but cut flowers are more often obtainable. As to these latter they should first of all be fresh. They quickly decay, and then they communicate to the water in which they are placed vegetable juices which undergo putrefactive fermentation and render the air impure. Bright colored flowers are desirable.—Boston Globe.

Raphael's Theological Virtue.

It is vain to accuse Raphael, as did certain of his contemporaries, of not having sufficient theological virtue, inasmuch as he painted virgins that were too humanly adorable. Raphael conformed his painting to his ideas and his sentiments. He expressed his soul, just as Lippo Lippi, Botticelli, Mantegna, Bellini and Perugino expressed their souls, each one differently, and in a manner characteristic of his more or less complex personality; and, as regards each one of them, the degree of our admiration and sympathy depends upon the temperament and culture of our own souls.—Theodore Child in Harper's.

A Father's Suggestion.

Jack—I hope you'll consent to a marriage between myself and your daughter Alice. Quiverfull—Can't do it, young man—weddings are too confoundingly expensive. No, sir, I refuse my consent, but of course—if you and Alice should take it into your heads to elope.—Kate Field's Washington.

Didn't Like the Weapons.

"I came very near having a duel once," said the congressman to a group of auditors. "Tell us about it," said they as one man.

"When I was about thirty," he continued, "I hung out my shingle in a small town in a southern state, and being from the north I did not receive at first the agreeable recognition I expected. In fact there was one blatherskite of a fellow who made himself so obnoxious that one day I slapped his jaws. This brought all the respectable people of the community over to my side, and I was feeling pretty good for three or four days, when the bottom was knocked out of it all by my receiving a challenge from Mr. Blatherskite. If there was anything more than another that I didn't want to do it was to fight a duel, and I tried to get out of it some way, but couldn't, and finally accepted his challenge and those doubled barreled shot-guns at ten paces. I didn't hear anything from my man for twenty-four hours, and then I had a personal call from him.

"I have come in," he said after a few preliminary remarks, "to make a statement about this duel. What I've got to say is that shot-guns are too doggoned mortuary for me, and if you have no objections I'll apologize and call it square."

"Then I became very brave and blustered some, but I accepted the situation very gracefully at last, and ever after Mr. Blatherskite was most respectful, and stood about as well in the town as he ever did."—Detroit Free Press.

Why Milk Differs in Quality.

Milk is more susceptible to changes from the normal condition than any other food product. The first class of changes has been brought about by the action of breeders. By many years of attention to breeding for fat production, it is now possible to get milk which may be twice as rich as the normal. On the other hand, other breeders have paid especial attention to production of large quantity, even at the expense of quality, until pure milk is sometimes produced having as low as 10 per cent. of solids, when the normal is 13 per cent.

A second set of causes which influence the quality of milk grows out of the ignorance or carelessness of the producer or seller. Where the persons held the exploded idea of the value of one cow's milk for children anything in the treatment of the cow which affects its nervous temperament may unfit it for food for very young children. Uncleanliness or neglect is often a grave source of trouble in the handling of milk, not only on account of the possibilities of the addition of visible filth, but because milk is peculiarly susceptible to odor, various kinds of bacteria and disease germs. Epidemics of scarlet fever and typhoid fever have been traceable to the milk supply, unclean cans and other utensils, and particularly to propagating bacteria.—Boston Transcript.

The Vanishing Couple.

A fashion safe to stamp a young girl in general society as ill equipped with knowledge of good form is that of "vanishing" in company with her attendant after a dance and remaining in unfrequented corners until remark is thereby created. Such is the young woman whose chaperon is in continual speculation as to her whereabouts or else in active exercise to find her. She is no doubt often innocent of intention to offend, but at large and mixed entertainments the better part of wisdom in a woman is to keep in view of her fellows.

A witty Frenchwoman, Mme. de Girardin, once wrote: "Amuse yourself, O young beauties, but flutter your wings in the broad light of day. Avoid shadows in which suspicion hides." The "vanishing woman" act should be limited in performance to a platform in full view of the audience. The prompt return of a young woman to the side or vicinity of her chaperon after dancing is not only a graceful and well bred action, but affords an opportunity to the man, who too often is embarrassed in this respect, to withdraw and fulfill some other engagement.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Monday and Friday.

Those of us who like Friday for various reasons, but chiefly because it leads up to Saturday, upon which day schools are closed, will be pleased to hear that it is not half so unlucky a day as Monday, the day school opens again. A German statistician, feeling that Friday had been a much maligned day, determined to make a scientific investigation of the matter, and found that it is not Friday but Monday that is the most unfortunate of the week days.

According to his investigations 16.74 per cent. of all accidents occur on Monday, 15.51 per cent. on Tuesday, 16.31 per cent. on Wednesday, 15.47 per cent. on Thursday, 16.38 per cent. on Friday, 16.38 per cent. on Saturday and only 2.69 per cent. on Sunday. So you see Friday isn't so bad a day after all.—Harper's Young People.

The Rag Doll.

The rag doll, dearer to the heart of childhood than any other sort of doll, is quite the fashionable doll par excellence at the present moment. Unlike the one our grandmothers made for their little ones, the one cherished by the little folks of today is of flesh colored silk jersey cloth or of cotton ballbrigan of the same color. Its body is filled with cotton, and its hair is in many rings of yellow single zephyr stitched on in loops. The face is painted, and when it is necessary to clean it this face can be repainted after the rest has been washed, as it can be without injury.—Detroit Free Press.

An Important Appeal.

Advertisements, especially of the personal kind, will frequently reward the searcher for unexpected antilimaxes. The following appeared in a New York paper not long ago: "Willie, return to your distracted wife and frantic children! Do you want to hear of your old mother's suicide? You will if you do not let us know where you are at once. Anyway, send back your father's colored meerschaum!"—New York Tribune.

Indian Blood is Prominent.

People of Indian blood predominate in Para, Brazil, and are found in all classes, from servants and peddlers to capitalists and high government officials. There are very few Portuguese or Africans, and the descendants of both these races show a large admixture of Indian blood.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Wonderful Insect Illuminations.

The secretary of the Smithsonian institution, Professor Langley, has been experimenting with Cuban fireflies with a view to discovering the manner in which the illumination they emit is generated. He says that the light they give is the "cheapest" in the world—produced, that is to say, with the least heat and the smallest expenditure of energy—and he believes that a successful imitation of it would prove a most profitable substitute for gas or electricity. The insects are beetles two inches long and belong to the family of "snapping bugs," so called because when one of them is laid on its back it snaps itself into the air with a clicking sound. The secret of the light this firefly gives is as yet undiscovered.

Apparently it is connected in some way with the mysterious phenomena of life, and chemists and physicists have sought in vain to explain its origin. On each side of the animal's thorax is a luminous membranous spot, and these flash at intervals, so that the Cubans put a dozen of the insects in a cage together and obtain a continuous illumination bright enough to read by. This light is accompanied by no perceptible heat, and is seemingly produced with no expenditure of energy. How great an improvement it represents upon all known artificial lights can be imagined when it is stated that in candle light, lamp light or gas light the waste is more than 99 per cent.—American Analyst.

A Chronic Case.

Known, chiefly by correspondence, to many persons is a certain invalid who spends her days in studying her "case" and writing about it. Her letters are long, full of unpleasant details and so burdened with inquiries and requests that they have to be answered at almost equal length, and most of them are addressed to men and women to whom time is precious.

Sometimes the invalid asserts that the use of a typewriter would relieve unfavorable symptoms, and asks a hundred questions about the different machines. Again, she finds it necessary to divert her mind, and turns to literature, relying on an author to tell her what and how to write. Then she resolves to make an experiment in treatment, and canvasses by letter for a worthless subscription book that she may gain the money to do so.

On Collecting Autographs.

The most elementary form of the stranger's letter is of course the application for an autograph. This application is now reduced to such a system that it causes little inconvenience and should not be refused. There is usually sent with the request a blank card on which the name is to be written, with an envelope stamped and addressed for its return. Nothing can be more unobtrusive or mechanical, though the line of propriety is at once passed, we may say, where two cards are sent, the second one being obviously for exchange purposes or perhaps for sale.

The wary author never, I suspect, writes on both cards, since he does not aim to help out a mere business transaction. Where any applicant goes farther and asks an original letter or copied passage, the affair becomes more serious, and some authors and public men ignore such requests altogether, as being much more serious consumers of time.—T. W. Higginson in Harper's Bazar.

Aunt Scinda's Four Hundred.

"An old negro woman has established a new theocracy at Grenada, Miss.," said J. H. B. Miller, of Coffeyville. "Her name is Scinda, and her followers are called 'Scinda Band.' They number about 400. Scinda is their queen, and rules her flock with an iron rod. They use no Bibles at their meetings, for each member is supposed to know it by heart. If Scinda asks them a Biblical question they are supposed to have an answer at once. They have their meetings every Sunday evening and they are interesting to observe. The congregation—men and women—are decked out in costly ribbons and beads. Their chants are as weird as the sobs and sighs of graveyard trees. They dance to the music of the banjo and tambourine until they are nearly exhausted, and then they go home."—St. Louis Republic.

First day of Publication January 13. Notice of Administrator's Sale of Real Estate.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a license to sell real estate, granted by F. B. Healy, Judge of the District Court of Adams county, Nebraska, bearing date December 31, 1892, in an action then pending wherein Albert W. Cox, administrator of the estate of Abraham Yeazel, deceased, is plaintiff and Albert Test and Mary Yeazel, minor heirs of Abraham Yeazel, deceased, are defendants, wherein Albert W. Cox, administrator, prays for a license to sell real estate, said order being in words and figures following, viz: This cause coming on to be heard before me, F. B. Healy, Judge of the District Court of Adams county, and also Judge of the District Court of Harlan county, on the 31st day of December, 1892, sitting at chambers in Alma, Harlan county, Nebraska, at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M. of said day, in pursuance of the order to show cause herein, signed by me the 30th day of November, 1892. And upon proof of the due service of the order to show cause heretofore signed by me, I have this day proceeded to the hearing of the petition filed in this case, and have heard and examined the allegations and proofs of the petition, and no person appearing to oppose the application, and it appears to me that it is proper to grant the whole of said real estate, described in plain 11's petition, and being satisfied after a full hearing upon the petition, and an examination of the legal allegations and contents thereof, that a sale of the whole of the real estate mentioned in plaintiff's petition, to-wit: lot 17 in block 27 in the town of McCook, Red Willow county, Nebraska; beginning at a point 41 feet and 3 inches north of the southwest corner of block 25, original town of Hastings, Adams county, Nebraska, running thence east across lots 13, 14, 15 and 16, in said block 25, 88 feet, thence north 20 feet and 3 inches, thence west 88 feet, thence south to the place of beginning; also a one-half interest in that part of the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 12, township 7, north, range 4, west of the 6th P. M., Adams county, Nebraska, described as follows: beginning at a point on the south line of Second street, in the town of Hastings, Nebraska, 70 feet south of the southwest corner of block 5, in McIntyre's Addition to Hastings, Nebraska, running thence west on the south line of said Second street, 132 feet to a corner monument point, running thence west 88 feet, thence north 132 feet to the place of beginning, is necessary for the payment of the valid claims against the deceased, Abraham Yeazel, and charges of administration.

It is therefore ordered and decreed by me that Albert W. Cox, administrator, proceed to advertise and sell the whole, and he is hereby authorized and empowered to advertise, advertise and sell within one year from the making of this order, but not after that period, according to law, the whole of the real estate described in plaintiff's petition, for the payment of the valid claims against the estate of the deceased, Abraham Yeazel, and charges of administration.

F. B. HEALY, Judge Dist. Ct. of Adams & Harlan Cos., Neb. I will on Saturday, the 11th day of February, 1893, between the hours of 9 o'clock in the morning and the setting of the sun on the same day, sell the following described real estate at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash: lot 17 in block 27, in the town of McCook, Red Willow county, Nebraska. Said sale shall be held at the west front door of the store building situated on said lot in the town of McCook, Red Willow county, Nebraska, and said sale shall be held open for one hour between the hours of 2 o'clock and 3 o'clock P. M. of said day, when and where due attendance will be given by the undersigned.

Dated this 10th day of January, A. D. 1893. ALBERT W. COX, Administrator.

DO YOU WANT TO ADOPT A BABY?

Maybe you think this is a new business, sending out babies on application; it has been done before, however, but never have these babies been so near the original samples as this one. Everyone will exclaim, "Well! that's the sweetest baby I ever saw!" This little black-and-white engraving can place you but a faint idea of the exquisite original.

"I'M A DAISY." which we propose to send to you, transportation paid. This darling resting against a pillow, and is in the act of drawing off its pink sock, the mate of which has been pulled off and hung aside with a triumphant coo. The flesh tints are perfect, and the eyes follow you, no matter where you stand. The exquisite reproductions of this greatest painting of the world (the most celebrated of modern painters of baby life) are to be given to those who subscribe to Demorest's Family Magazine for 1893. The reproductions cannot be told from the original, which cost $400, and are the same size (11x2 1/2 inches). The baby is life-size, and absolutely lifelike. We are also in preparation, to present to our subscribers during 1893, other great pictures by such artists as Percy Moran, Maud Humphrey, Louis Deschamps, and others of world-wide renown. Take only two examples of what we did during the past year. "A Yard of Panics" and "A White House Orchid" by the wife of President Harrison, and you will see what our promises mean.

Those who subscribe for Demorest's Family Magazine for 1893 will possess a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides a magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and interesting matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion magazine, its fashion pages are perfect, and we give you, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and also a size you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $1.00, and you will really get over $25 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send 10 cents for a specimen copy.

WONDERFUL!

The cures which are being effected by Drs. Starkey & Paalen, 1529 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa., in Consumption, Catarrh, Neuritis, Bronchitis, Rheumatism, and all chronic diseases, by their compound Oxygen Treatment, are indeed marvelous.

If you are a sufferer from any disease which your physician has failed to cure, write for information about this treatment, and their book of two hundred pages, giving a history of Compound Oxygen, its nature and effects with numerous testimonials from patients, to whom you may refer for still further information, will be promptly sent, without charge.

This book aside from its great merit as a medical work, giving, as it does, the result of years of study and experience, you will find a very interesting one.
