It is understood that the Chicago switchmen have made up their minds that they can not afford to strike this spring. They realize that they would stand little or no chance of winning, since all the roads, without a single exception, have announced unequivocally that they will accede to no demands for higher wages. Chicago switchmen are better paid than those at any other point. A peculiar feature of the situation is that the move for higher wages was started by non-union switchmen, and the union men came to their support.

It has been announced in authoritative manner that the Burlington road will expend considerable amount of money this season in the enlargement of the shops at Havelock. Among the buildings to be erected immediately will be a boiler shop 90x300 feet in size, and a five stall round house. The two will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000.—Lincoln Journal.
