Under the British financial system that country through the bank of England can impose an export tax on gold whenever there appears to be a movement of enough of the yellow metal from the United Kingdom to embarrass the capitalists of the country. This is "protection." It might not be amiss to borrow the idea for use in the United States and make it cost something to take gold across the Atlantic for speculative purposes. Why not raise the rate of discounts from time to time on our own behalf?

THE TRIBUNE learns that W. H. Davis of our city and J. L. Gray of Chicago have engaged in the grocery business in that city and that Dell Lafin is clerking for them. The boys ought to make a strong and successful combination.

Tuesday morning I. F. Newcomb of Hayes Centre was awakened by the howling of coyotes. Taking his shot gun he sallied forth to disperse the pack of peace disturbers. He was found some time later, dead, having accidentally or purposely as some think, shot himself through the heart. The coyotes escaped.

A telegram, on Monday morning, announced the death of Archie Altschuler at Holdrege, whither he went a week or so ago to undergo treatment for dropsy. The remains were taken on 2, Tuesday morning, to Omaha, for burial. He leaves a wife and two small children to mourn his taking off. They have much sympathy in their sorrow.

The police arrested a colored man, Harry Patterson, Saturday evening, on information from Sheriff Burchinell of Denver. The fellow was wanted for selling another man's hay and using the money. A deputy sheriff came down from Denver on the first train and returned home with his prisoner, who will be made to answer for his forgetfulness.

A promising sample of broom corn was left at this office, this week, by J. H. Henderson. It comes from school section 16 north of the city, owned by President Hocknell of the First National, who has about 400 acres of broom corn. Of this acreage, Mr. Henderson who has been farming the section, states that the prospects for a fair crop are good on 300 acres although the conditions have not been at all favorable this season.

It is pretty perceptible to the naked eye that monometallists of either color are not in the majority at Washington, and that the probable outcome will be bimetalism on the actual parity of gold and silver in accordance with the declaration of the Minneapolis platform. This will be a decided victory for the republicans in the face of the defeat of last November that will augur well for the success of the party at the next election. The gold bugs and the silver bugs will be buried in the same sand pile before the adjournment of the called session.

Every locality has its liar, its balking team and its smart alec. Every locality has its rich man, dog ordinance, women that tattle, Jacksonian democrat, men who see every dog fight, boy who creates havoc in church, candidates for office, meddlesome women, champion horse shoe thrower, livery stable and billy goat, drug store with a wet end to it; widower too gay for his weeds, a major unfit for anything else, salt barrel philosopher and town pump, hens that scratch in the neighbors' gardens, a man that knows all about the silver question, a girl who goes to the postoffice every time a mail comes in, a bully that any sixteen-year-old boy could lick if he only knew it, score of men with the caboose of their trousers worn threadbare, a man who believes that meat will shrink if butchered in the dark of the moon. Each locality has all of the above and yet the people are not happy; they want more. This proves that the millennium is away off in afar.—Grand Island Times.

Coleman Precinct.

Now is the time to make hay, and all should be cut that is worth anything. Get ready for a cold winter.

Three frame school houses to go up in this precinct this fall; and then three school marms will be needed.

John Wanamaker and J. J. Baugh of Marengo, Iowa, were viewing this section on Thursday with the intent of owning some land in this locality.

H. B. Wales purchased a fine half section, and erected a neat frame residence thereon. It is 16x26 feet in size, with 14 foot posts. He built a barn 20x30 feet, 12-foot posts. Has fenced about 40 acres for pasture. Had a well sunk and a windmill erected. Has broken out 60 acres, and planted to crop. Thus improvements are going on up this way.

WITH APPROPRIATE CEREMONIES The Corner Stone of McCook's A. O. U. W. Temple is Laid.

There was quite a large gathering from adjoining towns, surrounding country, and of our home folks, at the laying of the corner stone of the A. O. U. W. temple of our city, Monday afternoon.

Promptly at 2:30 the procession of Workmen, headed by their excellent band, marched from their hall to the corner of Main and Dennison streets, where the temple which will be a source of pride to our city, is now under way, and where the ceremonies were held.

Foreman A. F. Moore opened the exercises with a paper containing a concise but complete history of McCook lodge No. 61, and of the inception and progress of the splendid temple project. It is a history of which its members as well as all our citizens may well feel proud; and is an earnest of the final and gratifying success of this magnificent enterprise.

At the conclusion of Mr. Moore's remarks occurred the formal laying of the corner stone under the direction of Grand Master Workman Tate. The corner stone contains the constitution and laws of the grand lodge, the by-laws of McCook lodge, various badges and blanks of the order, the history of the local lodge, copies of the several city newspaper, etc.

This interesting ceremony completed, the assembly had the distinct pleasure of listening to one of Grand Master Workman Tate's addresses. It was in his most felicitous vein, and called forth repeated evidences of appreciation; touching upon the history and aim of the noble order he so nobly represents, with occasional local observations and congratulations concerning the McCook lodge and her temple. This terminated the exercises of the day, and the people dispersed to meet several hours later in the opera hall in enthusiastic numbers to participate in the closing feature of the happy event, the grand ball given under the auspices of lodge 61. This was in every essential a marked success and a source of much unalloyed pleasure.

The music of the day and evening was furnished by the splendid band and orchestra of the order.

It was indeed a red letter day for the Workmen of Southwestern Nebraska. A day which will only be excelled in point of rejoicing and satisfaction when the temple is completed and the dedication services are duly celebrated. To this day all loyal Workmen look forward with pleasant anticipations.

(October 27th will be celebrated the 25th anniversary of the founding of the order, and the building committee hope to have the temple ready for dedication at that time, which will be celebrated throughout the land with all possible eclat.)

Better Sunday School Methods.

The question of Sunday-school methods is being agitated this year in a way so determined and aggressive that it is extremely probable the International Convention which meets in St. Louis, this fall, will materially change the system.

The opposition to the International Lessons is one which has been growing irrespective of denomination, for several years past, and among many of the schools these lessons have been entirely discarded as being unsuited to their needs.

The cause of this revolt upon the part of the more enterprising schools is not far to seek. In the first place, it is wrong in theory. The real difficulty lies in the principle upon which the lessons are selected; it is not educational, but hortatory. The lessons are selected almost invariably with reference to their "practical applications" rather than with reference to the general course of history or general statements of doctrine, with which they are connected. This method it must be admitted, while perhaps it applies with excellent advantage to mission schools, is not one that satisfies the educational needs of our regular established Sunday-schools and herein lies the reason why more interest is not taken in the schools by the older folks.

In the second place it has to divorce the Bible from the schools. We must not forget, that the principal thing in Bible study is to study the Bible, and that the Sunday-school is the place for this study. Whatever tends to substitute anything else for that, becomes a hindrance rather than a help and that the scholar now studies, not the Bible itself, but the many opinions of the commentators, as expressed in the Lesson helps. They rarely look at their Bible with a view to having light thrown upon the lesson. Some system is needed then that corrects these obvious evils, and which recognizes this fact, viz., that a comprehensive general acquaintance with the Bible as a whole, especially in relation to the person and work of Christ, should precede a study of its minute and individual parts. This better method has been found in the Blaklee Graded Lessons on the Life of Christ.

Sunday morning, Aug. 20th, this method will be introduced in the Baptist Sunday School in the Lutheran Church and a cordial invitation is extended all, who, being dissatisfied with present methods, desire something better.

Handsome souvenirs will be distributed to all in attendance that day.

Be on your Guard.

If some grocers urge another baking powder upon you in place of the "Royal," it is because of the greater profit upon it. This of itself is evidence of the superiority of the "Royal." To give greater profit the other must be a lower cost powder, and to cost less it must be made with cheaper and inferior materials, and thus, though selling for the same, give less value to the consumer.

To insure the finest cake, the most wholesome food, be sure that no substitute for Royal Baking Powder is accepted by you.

Nothing can be substituted for the Royal Baking Powder and give as good results.

We can save you money by selling for cash, as well as protect ourselves.
