REPUBLICAN TICKET.

STATE.

For Justice Supreme Court, T. O. C. HARRISON. For University Regents, C. W. KALEY. H. D. ESTABROOK. CHARLES WESTON.

COUNTY.

For Clerk, GEORGE W. ROPER. For Treasurer, A. H. BARNES. For Sheriff, E. R. BANKS. For Judge, C. W. BECK. For Superintendent, J. C. MOORE. For Coroner, C. W. HODGRIN. For Surveyor, W. P. GRIMES. For Commissioner, 1st district, W. F. EVERIST.

THE COUNTY TICKET.

It is with a feeling of pride and satisfaction that we point to the Republican county ticket which ornaments the head of our editorial columns for the first time, this issue. It is the custom of the Republican party of Red Willow county to put to the front as its standard bearers only competent candidates. This year they have not swerved from their time-honored and correct custom, but have been more diligent in view of the political prospect before them, in naming the candidates for the several offices to be filled at the coming November election.

Consequently, the ticket with which the Republican party goes before the voters of Red Willow county, this fall, is one of even more than usual excellence and merit. The nominees for each and all the offices are men of special fitness for the place, most of them men of experience in the offices which they seek to fill.

Hence, it is with pleasure and confidence that we ask and urge the suffrages of the voters of Red Willow county in their behalf, feeling the entire worthiness and fine capabilities of the men who compose the ticket.

THE TRIBUNE is tolerably near the front in this campaign, thank you.

F. BERT RISLEY has moved his paper, the Hitchcock County Republican, from Culbertson up to Trenton.

CONSIDERABLE regret is expressed over the fact that Church Howe is still out of politics. He was a delegate from Nemaha county.

WHEN Mr. Bryan picks up his effects and leaves the Democratic party of Lancaster county, we fear that Mr. Watkins and his four firm friends will feel lonesome.

THE Democrats in convention assembled, Wednesday, sat down on Congressman Bryan, nominated Frank Irvine, of Omaha, for supreme judge, Milton Doolittle of Atkinson, J. M. Pyle of Wayne, and Charles A. Kloman of Box Butte for regents, endorsed Cleveland, demanded the prompt and unconditional repeal of the Sherman act, cut up a little more irresponsible nonsense and went home.

Judge T. O. C. Harrison.

THE nomination of Judge T. O. C. Harrison, of Grand Island, by the republicans for judge of the supreme court is an admirable one. He comes from the great central part of the state, and is rightly located. He is a clean, honest, able lawyer and judge and will make an excellent official. He is at present district judge, with an unimpeachable record. He was elected to his present position in a district strongly alliance, which is the best evidence that the people at his home know of his integrity and worth. He was nominated today (Thursday) outside of any railroad or Rosewater interest. He was nominated by the rank and file of the republicans, and the same influence that nominated him will elect him. The next justice of the supreme court is T. O. C. Harrison, of Grand Island, and he is a republican.—Lincoln call.

THE house judiciary committee on which are six ex-rebels, in a recent report had to handle the civil war to some considerable extent and they did it with their gloves carefully adjusted. The report starts out with an allusion to the "late unpleasantness" as Nasby felicitously expressed it. It calls it the "war between the states," usually called the war of the rebellion" and further on it refers again to the same thing as "the so called rebellion." This is however only a transitional stage. The late confederates will not long be contented with so colorless a description of the civil war as that indicated in the phrase "The war between the states." They will in time describe it as "The armed invasion of the south" or "the war of unconstitutional coercion." Then after awhile if the grip of the ex-confeds on the country is retained through the repeal of the law on the election laws, it will be called "The armed insurrection of the mudsills against state sovereignty," or something of the kind.—Journal.

COLORADO's plan for establishing a state currency based on silver bullion looks beautiful on paper. But if Colorado goes wandering off across the zodiac by herself in this matter of currency and bases it on silver bullion, Boulder county, which doesn't "raise" much silver, may make alfalfa a basis for legal tender; Larimer county may set up bear skins, El Paso county may have a county depository for summer boarders at Manitou, on which to issue a somewhat flexible currency, and the county commissioners of Baca county may meet and resolve that sage brush and manslaughter, when duly registered and stored in the county sub-treasury, may be accepted as full legal tender for all debts, both public and private, including license for saloons and faro banks. Local currency is a good thing, but Colorado should make sure she can play with a limit.

IF PROMISES are to be taken in evidence the celebration of Chicago day at the World's fair, next Monday, will eclipse anything heretofore attempted in the way of the spectacular on the American continent. The spectacle of a half million people will of itself be a great attraction. The fair has been a great success in every way and it is eminently fitting that the day which is reserved for Chicago should be the most elaborately celebrated. Chicago has done a great deal to make the fair a success. Without her splendid energy it would doubtless have been a failure. Consequently the entire country will heartily unite in the congratulations that will be showered upon Chicago, next week.
