THE success of the Republican county ticket, this fall, will be made sure by concerted action. Work for the entire ticket.

PEOPLE must learn to give and take. The best results are almost always attained by compromise. The truth lies between extremes.

WHEN Judge Cooley said "if the majority cannot force a vote a revolution has been effected," he was speaking as a constitutional lawyer.

If the British yachtmen want to see the American's cup, they will have to continue to cross the Atlantic, as they have done during the past forty-one years.

BROTHER SMITH of the Bartley Inter-Ocean is being everywhere complimented upon his efforts to straighten out the complicated and troublesome money question.

PILOT ROSEWATER would like to know whether Nebraska is a free state or not? Don't know how it is in the state of Douglas, Rosey, but its reasonably free out here.

M. V. GANNON has resigned as president of the Irish National league. If he had resigned before making the mistakes that he did, it would have been much better for the league.

SENATOR ALLEN's anti-rapeal speech was a record breaker—almost fifteen hours long. By the way, the average Nebraskan is made of that sort of stuff which is not a respecter of records.

WATCH for the men who take off their coats and work for party success when their names are not on the ticket. They are the men who ought to be remembered and honored in the future. The party is not for any one man.

THE Fremont Tribune finds that the country papers of Nebraska are giving the state ticket enthusiastic support with the exception of the Norfolk Journal and the Fullerton Journal: "two papers which were never heard of until they became cockle burrs in the tail of the Bee dog."

THE democrats have heard some cheering (?) news from Indianapolis. It was to the effect that the republican city ticket had been elected from top to bottom by some three thousand majority. This is the first time that city has gone republican in a good many years and is a straw which shows the trend of political events over the country generally.

THE hundred million dollar gold bond proposition attached to the Harris compromise measure is not meeting with the favor its banker sponsors hoped for. As a matter of fact a big bond issue has been what the Wall street bankers have been anxious to bring about for months; it was the agitation begun by them to secure this bond issue that started the panic, which soon got beyond their control, and the street has been exercising its political pull ever since by endeavoring to get an issue. They tried force first, but have fallen back on persuasion. There is no call for such an issue, even on the shallow pretense that it is necessary to hold up the credit of continued silver coinage, and most certainly it should be defeated.

Reports from all the financial centers of the country say that money is accumulating in the banks. At the close of last week the New York banks held nearly $35,000,000 in excess of their legal reserve, and a like condition existed in Philadelphia and Boston. Indeed, at every point where money can accumulate it has been piling up and the present indications are that this process is likely to be continued for some time. Such a situation may very reasonably be cited as evidence that there is an ample supply of money in the country, but the fact which it just now illustrates most forcibly is the prevalence of business stagnation.

THE editor of the Omaha Bee says he purchased over thirty railroad tickets for Maxwell delegates to the state convention "who did not feel able to stand the expense" with money out of his own pocket, and yet he talks about corporation cappers packing conventions in the interest of certain candidates. Consistency is a bright and shining jewel but is not to be found in the Bee man's diadem.

CONGRESSMEN who hope to get the senate rules changed by constitutional amendments so that a majority can secure a vote after the lapse of a reasonable time devoted to debate, are doomed to disappointment. It requires the consent of two-thirds of the members of the senate to even propose a constitutional amendment in the ordinary manner.

A MAN out in Oregon has invented a "skycycle" and promises to ride on it from Portland to the midwinter fair at San Francisco. The motion of the feet of the operator revolves the fans of the machine. It is claimed that a speed of forty miles an hour can be readily attained.

THE Guarantee Investment company, whose officers have just been indicted by the federal grand jury in Chicago, managed to secure no less than 50,000 dupes. In the language of the late P. T. Barnum, "the people want to be humbugged."

THE death of Marshal McMahon removes from the long list another of the Irish names which have adorned the army rolls of every nation on earth. It is strongly believed that Irishmen were engaged in the first pitched battle fought under heaven. Going into any capital of any country one sees the equestrian statue of a general officer bearing an Irish name; here it is McMahon, and there O'Donnell, and in another Sheridan, and in still another O'Higgins; but everywhere unmistakably Irish, and never by any chance converted into anything else. The McMahons went to France from Ireland in the seventeenth century, but remained always soldiers and always McMahons—always fighters of the same type. This last McMahon fought for France in every vicissitude of victory and defeat. He was called at one time to the head of the civil government of France; he strove to restore the rule of his youth, but finding the people did not want the old rule, concluded they did not want him, and resigned. After that year of resignation, 1870, he lived, as has died, in peace.

HON. TOBIAS CASTOR of Crete, envoy extraordinary and office provider plenipotentiary to the democrats of Nebraska, was in the city last night. Mr. Castor and his political pull will leave for Washington on the night of October 31, and within an hour after his arrival at the nation's capital there will be a sound as of a broadax being whirled viciously through the circumambient atmosphere.—Lincoln News, Wednesday.

Don't scratch a name on the Republican ticket. Vote her straight from supreme judge to road overseer. They are all worthy men.

The candidates composing the republican county ticket are a thoroughly competent and well qualified set of men, and have without exception the full confidence of the people. An Iowa newspaper man has just been soaked for a $1,200 fine for libeling a politician. As the supreme court passed upon the case it may be considered as settled that an Iowa politician can be libeled.

The ticket at the head of this page is the one that you should vote this fall. No man need be ashamed to vote it. It is composed of clean, honest, upright men—men who are competent to fill the respective places to which they aspire.

It is announced that Judge Dundy will not pass upon the maximum rate law injunction until some time in January. An injunction to restrain Judge Dundy from passing upon it will probably be next in order. Any man with two dollars and a half and the confidence of an able lawyer can get most any kind of an injunction he prays for these days.
