

In Red Willow county, Nebraska, according to the American Newspaper Directory for 1894, now in press, the McCook TRIBUNE has a larger regular issue than any other paper.

GEO. P. ROWELL & Co.

ARGUED AND SUBMITTED.

On Tuesday the Red Willow county-set removal case was argued before the state supreme court and submitted for the decision of that honorable body. Just when the court will render a decision in this now somewhat famous case is yet a matter of conjecture.

RED WILLOW county is entitled to nine delegates in the Republican state convention, Omaha, August 22.

JACK MACCOLL of Dawson county becomes stronger each day as a candidate for governor. The people want a western man this time and Jack is just about the fellow that will get there.—Red Cloud Chief.

WITH Jack MacColl for governor and W. E. Andrews for congress, the Republicans will sweep the platter clean in southwestern Nebraska, this fall.—Cambridge Kaleidoscope.

STATE organization of the Republican legion was effected at Lincoln, Saturday, with about fifty charter members. The objects are to further Republican principles and doctrines. Lincoln is to be headquarters for the state.

IT will be best appreciated how many persons are publishing newspapers in this portion of Nebraska and adjacent parts of Kansas and Colorado, that ought to be in the penitentiary on bread and water, when we state that Hayes county is the only county of forty counties in which the rate provided by law is charged for legal printing.

THE Hastings Democrat suggests that Andrews and McKeighan might cut down campaign expenses by making the district on a tandem bicycle. But wouldn't McKeighan's predisposition to "rheumatism" bar him out of such an arrangement? It would certainly be a delightful arrangement for the professor, whose legs are as agile as his head is clear and his heart is clean.

A COLORADO divine said in a recent baccalaureate address: "Here stands the youth, a thing of energy, of potentiality. He is the highest product of creation; the heir of all ages. All that science, art, literature philosophy, civilization have achieved is his." The youth no doubt agrees. He will not really begin to doubt until he hits the ground with a heavy, jarring thud when he begins hunting for a job at $12 a week.—Journal.

THREE weeks more of the miners' strike will stop all but emergency trains on the railroads, close more than half the factories and give business almost as much of a jolt as the panic. The west would not be effected by this trouble if it were not for the interference of the walking delegates. In the west and the south the question of wages is in no sense an issue. The men strike in sympathy with the Ohio and Pennsylvania miners. This is the whole story.—Journal.

THE Iowa weather report shows that the month of May was the driest known in that state for more than sixteen years. The rainfall was but one-third of normal, while the heat was considerably in excess of the average. Considerable alarm is expressed over the condition of the crops. In view of the conditions prevailing over a very large area of this country farmers with grain on hand ought to hold it if possible for better prices. It does not seem possible for wheat, for example, to go lower. In fact the tendency of the markets ought to be upward from this time forward.
