$1.50 A YEAR IN ADVANCE.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

- For Congressman—Fifth District, W. E. ANDREWS, of Adams County. For Representative, JOHN J. LAMBORN, of Indianola. For Treasurer, HENRY H. BERRY, of McCook. For Attorney, HARLOW W. KEYES, of Indianola. For Coroner, DR. A. W. HOYT, of Bartley. For Surveyor, EDGAR S. HILL, of Indianola.

Coming Events.

- Republican State convention, Omaha, August 22d. Independent State convention, Grand Island, August 24th. Independent Congressional convention, Holdrege, August 14th. Republican Senatorial convention, Cambridge, August 17th. Independent Senatorial convention, Culbertson, August 16th.

THAT acceptance speech of W. E. Andrews at Holdrege, last week, was an inspiration.

JAMES MCNENY of Red Cloud, will undoubtedly be the next republican candidate from this district.—Hastings Republican.

It is not absolutely certain that Colonel Cruzen ascertained upon his visit here, this week, just who fouled William Patterson. Even the doctors disagree.

PROF. CORBETT of York, is making an energetic canvass for the nomination for State Superintendent of Public Instruction. He is well qualified and deserving.

THOSE interested in irrigation in southwestern Nebraska must not lose sight of that prime requisite for its success—reservoirs. These storage places must be provided if irrigation shall grow into a large success. Impound the water. It is of vital importance.

The action of the Holdrege convention which nominated Mr. Andrews for congress, will be ratified at the polls in November by the ballots of the people. The western half of Nebraska has been misrepresented long enough in congress and the change is near at hand.—Hastings Nebraskan.

THE TRIBUNE has been an enthusiastic supporter of W. E. Andrews for the congressional nomination. We cannot repress expressing our enthusiasm when men like W. E. Andrews seek political advancement. Now that he has been made the unanimous nominee of the republicans of the Fifth district, we want to be known as entertaining the same feeling toward the gentleman as to his election. Energetic, able, indefatigable, clean, manly, well furnished in mind and body and morals to make the race, W. E. Andrews is entitled to the unanimous and enthusiastic support of the republicans of the Fifth congressional district. He will make a vigorous and fearless campaign. A loyal support by his party will elect him.

THE republicans of the Fifth congressional district have renominated Prof. W. E. Andrews of Adams as their candidate for representative in congress. The fact that Mr. Andrews was nominated by acclamation attests his deserved popularity with republicans and may be regarded as a vote of confidence in his ability to redeem the district. Mr. Andrews made a splendid canvass two years ago in the face of great odds, and no doubt would have been elected had he received the loyal and enthusiastic support to which he was justly entitled. Mr. Andrews has the courage of his convictions and is well equipped for discussing every issue in the coming campaign, and if he is properly seconded all along the line his election over McKelighan or any other candidate the opposition may place in the field is assured beyond doubt. It will not do, however, for republicans to be over-confident and take it for granted that they are sure to win because they have a capable and clean candidate. It will require unremitting work from now until election and perfect organization in every voting precinct to secure the ratification of the choice of the congressional convention by a majority of the people of the district.—Omaha Bee.

WHERE HEALING WATERS FLOW.

Hot Springs, South Dakota, is a place that everyone should visit. It's a health resort; the best in the west. It's a charming place where pure air and healing waters put sickness to flight and make anything but perfect health well-nigh an impossibility. Invalids, no matter what their ailment, should give Hot Springs a trial. It's sure to benefit them, more than likely to cure. How to get there? Why, by the Burlington Route, of course. It's the line. Ask the local agent for full information or write to the undersigned for a beautifully illustrated pamphlet. G. P. & T. A., Omaha, Neb.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of an order of sale directed to me from the district court of Red Willow county, Nebraska, on a judgment obtained before Hon. D. T. Welty, judge of the district court of Red Willow county, Nebraska, on the 18th day of September, 1893, in favor of Randolph L. Bullard as plaintiff, and against Charles Nolhuagen et al. as defendants, for the sum of seven hundred eighty-four ($784) dollars and thirty-one (31) cents, and costs taxed at $25.42, and accruing costs, and co-defendants Burton & Harvey on their cross petition obtained a decree for the sum of $63.75, I have levied upon the following real estate taken as the property of said defendants to satisfy said judgments, to-wit: the east half of the north-west quarter, and the east half of the south-west quarter of section 24, township 2, north, range 23, west of the 6th P. M., in Red Willow county, Nebraska. And will offer the same for sale to the highest bidder, for cash in hand, on the 20th day of August, A. TO GAIN POPULATION.

SUCCESSFUL PRACTICES PUT FORWARD IN GROWING TOWNS.

Boards of Trade and the Spirit That Must Actuate a Community in an Endeavor to Build Up Manufacturing Interests—Line of Work to Be Followed.

No city is so large or town so small that its growth cannot be materially and advantageously advanced by the united effort of its citizens. Notable instances are on every hand. The west doubtless has acquired the palm for distinctive booming, but there is not a factory town of the hundreds in New England that does not owe its prosperity in a measure to the mission work of its own people.

Boards of trade, associations of business men, committees of improvement and kindred organizations are efficient in directing a campaign for the acquirement of capital and increased business for any community. There are between 600 and 700 of these throughout the United States, and though many are inactive their position is such that, does occasion demand, they are quickly in the field and ready for concerted duty. Individual effort in town advancement is practically unavailing. Few men undertake it, and if they do their acts are usually handicapped by a selfish desire to locate a prospective manufacturer upon lands of their own, thus limiting the town's possibilities in the case if not entirely destroying them.

A successful board of trade should be cosmopolitan in character, embracing in its membership the butcher, the baker, the minister, the banker, the merchant, the manufacturer, the house owner, the workman and as many others as can be induced to declare themselves unreservedly for the public good. If a church feud exists or a school quarrel is on at the time of organization, the principals in the premises should not only be studiously avoided, but absolutely debarred from taking part. Almost every town some time in its history has experienced one or the other of these cancerous maladies. Hearty and unreserved co-operation of every distinctive element is primarily essential to the success of any undertaking having for its object the growth of a town. There may always be found many public spirited citizens possessed of the correct idea, but there are, too, those who must be convinced that they necessarily form an important factor in the movement which should eventually become universal. A liberal minded and generous policy must needs be assumed, and those who have not tried it in public affairs will be happily surprised to see how quickly a leaven of this sort properly prepared will lead to philanthropic acts and kindly purposes upon the part of actual croakers, who by grace of polite practices are often impudently styled conservatives. All trade jealousies must be buried under a broad expanse of good fellowship, and prejudices must die of their own volition.

Once organized upon correct principles, the possible indulgence of personal selfishness will be precluded by rendering positively unpopular those acts which have a tinge inimical to the public welfare. Enterprising citizens will grasp the idea of progress and come forward with helpful suggestion, lending aid as one man to the accomplishment of the high purposes undertaken. An association should have a regular income sufficient to meet incidental expenses and for liberal and judicious advertising. Ordinarily from $5 to $10 membership fees and a like amount in annual dues will aggregate enough for these requirements. The affairs of a society may safely be intrusted to an executive committee of five of the right kind of men. They should represent wealth, liberality and progress and be possessed of an abiding confidence in the advantages of their own town over all others. Other committees should be formed to look after subscriptions for new enterprises, membership, sites for factories, municipal improvements and the many and varied departments that may properly and naturally be consigned to the care and championship of a board of trade.

Cities do not happen. The fact that any town larger than a mere country hamlet exists is because there are adequate causes for such existence. These form advantages, and to determine and publish them should be an association's first duty. To create new forces and develop and direct them should ever after mark the line of work to be followed. Energy should characterize every move.

If a letter of inquiry is received from an outside manufacturer, a telegram should be sent in response, one asking when he can visit the town and accept its hospitality. He should be met at the station by two or three representative citizens and received as a distinguished guest. His wants should be anticipated and every means afforded him for gathering the information he desires. Impressed with the commercial importance of the town and with the wide awake methods of its citizens, a man would naturally be predisposed to avail himself of the agreeable surroundings, so that if the advantages are such as are available and his propositions are met in a spirit of fairness and liberality negotiations can quickly be consummated looking to the location of his factory and the acquisition of his capital.

Variety of Industries Desirable.

Diversity of interests is desirable for any community. If the boy carries all his eggs in one basket and the bottom drops out, the calamity is appalling, whereas if by reason of two baskets a setting were saved, though business might be restricted, it would go on nevertheless and perhaps in as joyful a spirit as if the basket and its bottom had remained intact. So it is with towns that are favored with a variety of industries. Dull trade may overtake one, but it is seldom that it becomes so general as to paralyze all.

GANADO, TEXAS, Is now the favorite place for homeseekers. Almost everybody that sees the land buys more or less of it, and all say that here is the best and finest land in Southern Texas. See what those say who visited the country during the last excursion. GANADO, TEXAS, July 16th, 1894. By request the undersigned hereby express their satisfaction with the land north of Ganado, Jackson county, Texas. That land is as fine as you can find anywhere, and finer than most of the land we saw during our travels. It is better drained, which is of great importance in Southern Texas, where the land is mostly flat. The land is surrounded by timber and water, and besides this land is from $2 to $4 cheaper per acre than other land in the neighborhood. Crops are looking well, especially along the coast. The climate is very healthy, a fine breeze coming from the gulf almost every day. Signed, N. P. PATTON, Muchakinoek, Iowa. ANDREW ANDERSON, Ceresco, Neb. JOHN SPAIN, Holyoke, Colorado. This land costs only $7 per acre. Six years time given with seven per cent interest, and no taxes on the land till 1900. Title to the land is perfect, coming from the state to the company owning the land. Remember that in Southern Texas they know nothing of drought, crop failure or the excessive heat. Go and see for yourself and you will find these facts true. For information concerning the next excursion see Over F. & M. Bank. A. KALLSTEDT, THE TAILOR. McCOOK, NEB.
