AFTER a Very Thorough Test of the Credit System, I have concluded to change to CASH, or thirty days net to reliable parties. By this means I shall increase trade and give YOU ALL THE BENEFIT of what heretofore had to be charged for uncollectable accounts. This is no reflection on you, but a plain business statement. I can easily afford to sell at lower prices in this way.

THE decision of the governor not to call an extra session of the legislature and the announcement by the attorney-general that bonds may be issued legally by counties and townships for internal improvements, will probably result in the inauguration of a large number of projects for road improvement and ditch digging. Great as is the need for help in many localities, it will not do for the people to rush too hastily into the expenditure of public money. Good roads can only be secured by wisely directed effort, and useful irrigation ditches can only be had where there is water to feed them and experience to mark out the course and direct the digging. When this trouble is over we do not want to see western Nebraska lined with dry canals or poorly planned and badly constructed roads. While the work is being done it might as well be done well. Then the improvements will be permanent additions to the wealth of the people and not useless and expensive incumbrances.—State Journal.

THE Tribune urges the voters to support W. E. Andrews because it believes him to be the better qualified servant of the people, the abler representative, the more progressive citizen, the better representative of the morals and intelligence of this district, and the man with the better moral character. These things outweigh all party considerations, money questions or industrial matters in the selection of a member of congress. The Tribune urges his election on political, monetary and industrial grounds. If sent to congress he will favor such measures as will be possible of accomplishment and not use up his time in talking for impracticable things. He will favor the coinage of American silver, do what he can for international as well as national bimetallism, use his best efforts to protect American markets, American labor and American industries against those of foreign countries.—Hastings Tribune.
