

A WOMAN'S NERVES.

THE STORY OF A WOMAN TO WHOM NOISE WAS TORTURE.

Frustrated By the Least Excitement—Physicians Baffled By Her Case.

[From the Gate City, Keokuk, Iowa.]

Mrs. Helen Meyers, whose home is at 3515 Sherman avenue, Chicago, and whose visit to Keokuk, Ia., will long be remembered, was at one time afflicted with a nervous malady which at times drove her nearly to distraction. "Those terrible headaches are a thing of the past," she said the other day to a Gate City representative, "and there is quite a story in connection with it, too. My nervous system sustained a great shock some fifteen years ago, brought on, I believe, through too much worrying over family matters and then allowing my love for my books to get the better of my discretion where my health was concerned. Why, whenever my affairs at home did not go along just as I expected, I would invariably become prostrate and unable to do my work. I would consider myself fortunate indeed if the effects of the attack would not remain for a week. I was obliged to give up my pleasant home near the Lake Shore drive, because I could not stand the noise in that locality. I could find no place in the city which I deemed suitable to one whose nervous system was always on the point of explosion. To add to my misfortunes my complexion underwent a change and I looked so yellow and sallow that I was ashamed to venture from the house at all.

"Madam," said my doctor to me soon after an unusually severe attack of the malady, "unless you leave the city and seek some place of quiet, you will never recover." So I concluded I would visit my uncle, who lives in Dallas county, Iowa, and whose farm would surely be a good place for one in my pitiable condition. I picked up the Gate City one day and happened to come across an interesting recital of the recovery of some woman in New York state who was afflicted as I had been. This woman had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I thought that if Pink Pills cured that woman they might do the same for me. I began to take the pills according to directions and I began to feel better from the start. After I had taken several boxes of them I was ready to go back to Chicago. My nervousness was gone and my complexion was as fresh as that of any 16-year-old girl in Iowa, and Pink Pills is what put the color in my cheeks. No longer am I in such high spirits and feel like a prize fighter. And no wonder I like to come to Keokuk, for if it had not been for Pink Pills bought from a Keokuk firm I would not be alive now," laughingly concluded the lady.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

A Delightful Change.

"Well, Jennie," said one actress to another, "how do you like your new part?" "Oh, for goodness' sake," exclaimed Jennie, "don't let us talk shop." "All right," said the other, "let us talk shopping."—New York Press.

A Pertinent Paragraph.

"Our country, if right, should be kept right; if wrong should be put right," is a political maxim which paraphrased applies to other conditions of life, thus: our health, if right, should be kept right; if wrong should be put right, especially in bodily ailments, such as pains and aches, which St. Jacob's Oil promptly cures. Many out of work should heed to give it a chance to cure and it will give them a chance to go to work cured. Another adage is: "The doeth best who doeth well." Well, of course, you want to be well from all sorts of aches, and the best thing to do is to use the great remedy. He who doeth so is doing well indeed.

For Purpose of Comparison.

"Early rising is a great thing," said the enthusiastic man; "a great thing." "Yes," responded the sluggard. "It makes you appreciate the chance for a nap in the morning when you get it."

One of the New York street car lines now runs smoking cars.

Worms in Horses.

The only sure cure for pin worms in horses known is Steketee's Hog Cholera Cure. Never fails to destroy worms in horses, hogs, sheep, dogs or cats; an excellent remedy for sick foals. Send sixty cents in United States postage stamps and I will send by mail. Cut this out, take it to druggist and pay him fifty cents. Three packages for $1.50 express paid. G. G. STEKETEE, Grand Rapids, Mich. Mention name of paper.

Has tastes medicinally, in keeping with other luxuries. A remedy must be pleasantly acceptable in form, purely wholesome in composition, truly beneficial in effect and entirely free from every objectionable quality. If really ill, he consults a physician; if constipated he uses the gentle family laxative Syrup of Figs.

262 BUS DANVERS YELLOW ONIONS Were grown by John L. Rath, East Saginaw, from one pound of seed. This tremendous yield, at the rate of 1,048 bushels per acre, Mr. Rath says was only possible because he used Salzer's seeds. We understand that Mr. Salzer's seeds are the earliest in the world, especially his beets, carrots, cabbage, cucumbers, onions, peas, corn, radishes, tomatoes, etc., and that he sells to market gardeners and farmers at lowest wholesale prices.

If You Will Cut This Out and Send It with $1 money order to the John A. Salzer Seed company, La Crosse, Wis., you will get free thirty-five packages earliest vegetable seeds and their wonderful catalogue, or for 13 cents in stamps a package above Prize Danvers onions and their catalogue free. wnu

A Hint of Colors.

French color cards are just appearing for the spring and inform us that the pale shades will continue in favor. The cherry or Mag in preference, the palest shade known is reine, more of a strong reddish, pink, will prevail, writes Emma Hooper in February Ladies' Home Journal. Black in trimming and dress goods, as well as millinery, promises to be worn as much in the spring as it has been during the winter. Turquoise blue is one of the spring colors, also golden yellow, pale stem green, all medium and light browns, and, of course, the never-failing navy blue.

ETHICS OF TRAVELING.

Have Passengers Certain Rights Which Should Be Respected?

"I should very much like to know," said a plain citizen to a New York Sun reporter, "whether there are any ethics of traveling. I mean of railroad traveling in this country. Now, I went out on the 9:40 train on the New York Central the other morning and as I got on the train a little late, I found some difficulty in getting a seat. Not because the cars were crowded, for they were just about half filled. That is the twelve or fifteen seats on each side held each one person instead of the two that should find accommodation. The other halves of the seats were occupied by coats or valises, children or other impediments of the preceptors.

"I walked up and down three coaches all filled in the same way, and not one person offered to make room for me. Finally, and after the train had started, I asked permission to take the place of a hand-satchel and luncheon bag, and was sourly allowed to do so. Other desperate people crowded in, and the coach was pretty well filled by the time we got to Poughkeepsie, but I failed to see a single instance in which half of the seat was voluntarily left open, or in which it was graciously given up.

"Right across from where I sat was an aggravated case of this usurpation. In one seat the furthest from me, sat a lady with a milliner's box, taking up the space between her and the window. In the next seat behind was a gentleman who I found was the husband, and who had half of the seat littered with a dozen parcels. Behind him sat a young lady, the daughter, guarding the aisle half of the seat with a rampart of canvas traveling bag. All three stolidly held their own against every comer, and kept the six seats until they got off at Hudson.

"The point I wish to make is that while every passenger has the right to all the comforts and conveniences for which he has paid and which are therefore his by right of purchase, he has no right whatever to occupy, or even attempt to occupy, that part of a seat for which he has not paid. I know this preemption of the double seat is an offense of such everyday commission that it is accepted as one of the commonplaces of railroad travel nowadays, but it seems to me to merit a little official attention, not with a view of limiting the comforts of travel, but of preserving the rights of all travelers.

FUNERALS AT NIGHT.

They Are Increasing in Cities—Few Funerals With Pallbearers Nowadays.

The custom of holding funeral services at night is, according to an undertaker, growing steadily in this city, says the New York Sun. Its growth dates from about five years ago. There were night funerals in New York before that, but they were comparatively few. The growth of the custom is due to several causes: The night funeral is less expensive and it meets the convenience of a much greater number of friends of the dead. With the increase of societies and their growth of membership the loss of a day or half a day in attendance at the funeral of a member has come to be a serious tax, and in this respect the night funeral makes a saving of time. In line with this ceremony of time is a decided change, within five or six years, in the custom with regard to pallbearers. There are now perhaps twenty funerals without pallbearers to one with them. Some of the night funerals are held at home, some at church. If at church, the body is taken after the services to the undertakers, and there kept until the burial. If at the house the body may be taken to the undertaker's or it may remain in the house over night. The morning service, a prayer by the clergyman, would be attended by only the immediate members of the family, who would take leave of the dead alone. The interment would be without further service at the cemetery.

The number of funeral services held at the undertakers' is also increasing. No charge is made for the use of the shop for this purpose. It is in some respects more economical than a funeral at home or church, and with larger space than in a house it brings all attending together instead of separating them in various rooms.

Gambling in Europe.

There is much more of public gambling in Europe than is commonly supposed. Besides Monte Carlo, which still does a big business, the following list of gambling places with their winnings last year is given: Ostend Kursaal and clubs, 8,000,000 francs; Dunkirk Casino, 300,000 francs; Boulogne Casino, 800,000; Trouville, 450,000 in the Casino, and at the Hotel Eden, 150,000; Dieppe, 200,000; Coburg, 380,000; Havre, Fragsate, 150,000; La Trepot, 50,000; Biarritz, 1,000,000; Aix les Bains, 1,000,000; Besancon, 120,000; Vichy, 1,000,000.

The Kinetoscope.

Numerous correspondents have recently been writing to the London Times, pointing out that no originality should be claimed for the kinetoscope, as it is only an improved zoetrope, and one writes to say that he saw a similar toy seventy years ago. Edison's representative in London has finished the discussion by acknowledging that the fundamental principle is the same.

Feminine Amenities.

"How does it feel to have a man all to yourself for fifteen minutes?" asked Miss Rosamund, bitterly, as she approached her deadly rival in a corner of the ballroom.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. It is now a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. Whippoorwill Cowpeas.

From Oklahoma comes a report of the analyses of whippoorwill cowpeas at five different stages and of prairie grass, "composed almost wholly of blue stem and joint grass," at three different cuttings. With reference to the cowpeas, results indicate that for a good hay the peas, including vines, leaves and pods, should be harvested as the peas have matured in the pods. Should the crop be late it is better to cut before complete maturity than to delay the harvesting until a heavy frost has killed the vines and leaves.

For Fattening Hogs.

Professor J. H. Sheppard is accredited with saying:

From all published data I regard wheat about equal in value to corn. Barley seems to be worth about 8 per cent less than corn. The real value of wheat as a feed can be learned only by comparing its price with that of other grains. If barley, corn and shorts are cheap enough to produce 100 pounds of pork at less cost than wheat, it is folly to feed wheat. However, with wheat at its present low price and other grains high, it will in very many cases pay to feed wheat, and especially that which is "off" in grade. The value at the farm of wheat, corn or other foods should determine which to use.

Snow Registers Wanted.

Up in the cold north a weather observer wants to find a man who will invent an instrument to measure the depth of snow correctly. All sorts of mechanical devices have been devised to measure rain and fog and sunshine, but nothing smaller than a level ten acre lot has been produced to show the correct depth of snow, and even that device, if the wind happens to be out of "time" isn't of much use for scientific purposes. If any one has an idea for a machine of this kind he will receive the grateful thanks of the observer by communicating with him. He wants to issue a snowdrift bulletin that will average up the depth of snow in fence corners and open fields.

Just Like Any Other Woman.

Mrs. Mary Livermore, who, it was announced a few days ago, will retire to private life after a public career of thirty years as lecturer, temperance advocate and woman suffragist, will go down to posterity as a pioneer of woman's progress who did not wear blue goggles, and one of the most picturesque figures in the world of women workers for the public good. Mrs. Livermore is a fine-looking old lady, tall, stately, with noble features and silver hair rippling in the now fashionable manner, over a broad, high forehead. She was an orator of no mean ability, and her lecture tours were always productive of much rebellion among the men and great results in the way of independence among the women. Mrs. Livermore was interested in charitable institutions and prison reform, as well as suffrage. She never, during her thirty years' career, lost any of the small vanities which strong-minded women are supposed to be without. On one occasion, when Mrs. Livermore was lost in New York, during the constitutional convention furor, a newspaper woman interviewed her, and was about to leave, carrying a portrait of the suffragist with her, when Mrs. Livermore ran after her to the door, and blushing like a school-girl, said in a faltering way: "I wish you would tell the artist that that picture is not very good, and—and to make it a little prettier, won't you?" That was the chief interest in the interview.

"I recall the story of a sultan," said Dean Hole, "who had a very pompous vizier, and desiring to rid himself of the vizier, sold him in the open market for a slave. The market was not brisk that day, and the vizier brought only eightpence. The sultan bought him in at this price, and thereafter whenever the vizier became pompous the sultan had only to mention 'eightpence,' or draw a figure '8' in the air, when the pompous minister immediately subsided."

A Terrible Visitant.

Pain is always a terrible visitant, and often domiciles itself with one for life. This affliction is preventable, in cases of rheumatism, by a timely resort to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which checks the encroachments of this obstinate and dangerous malady at the outset. The term "dangerous" is used advisedly, for rheumatism is always liable to attack the vital organs and terminate life. No testimony is more conclusive and concurrent than that of physicians who testify to the excellent effect of the Bitters in this disease. Persons incur a wetting in rainy or snowy weather, and who are exposed to draughts, should use the Bitters as a preventive of ill effects. Malaria, dyspepsia, liver and kidney trouble, nervousness and debility are also among the ailments to which this popular medicine is adapted. For the infirmities, soreness and stiffness of the aged it is highly beneficial.

The best way for a man to get out of a lowly position is to be conspicuously effective in it.

to recovery, the young woman who is taking Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. In maidenhood, womanhood, widowhood and motherhood the "Prescription" is a supporting tonic and nerve tonic that's peculiarly adapted to her needs, regulating, strengthening and curing the derangements of the sex. Why is it so many women owe their beauty to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription? Because beauty of form and face radiate from the common center—health. The best bodily condition results from good food, fresh air and exercise coupled with the judicious use of the "Prescription." If there be headache, pain in the back, bearing-down sensations, or general debility, or if there be nervous disturbance, nervous prostration, and sleeplessness, the "Prescription" reaches the origin of the trouble and corrects it. It dispels aches and pains, corrects displacements and cures catarrhal inflammation of the lining membranes, falling of the womb, ulceration, irregularities and kindred maladies.

"FALLING OF WOMB."

Mrs. FRANK CAMPFIELD, of East Dickinson, Franklin Co., N. Y., writes: "I deem it my duty to express my deep, heart-felt gratitude to you for having been the means, under Providence, of restoring me to health, for I have been by spells unable to walk. My troubles were of the womb—inflammation and bearing-down sensations and the doctors all said they could not cure me. Twelve bottles of Dr. Pierce's wonderful Favorite Prescription has cured me."

Mrs. CAMPFIELD has cured me.

Speaking from her Experience,

After years of practical use and a trial of many brands of baking powder (some of which she recommended before becoming acquainted with the great qualities of the Royal), Marion Harland finds the Royal Baking Powder to be greatly superior to all similar preparations, and states that she uses it exclusively, and deems it an act of justice and a pleasure to recommend it unqualifiedly to American Housewives.

The testimony of this gifted authority upon Household Economy coincides with that of millions of housekeepers, many of whom speak from knowledge obtained from a continuous use of Royal Baking Powder for a third of a century.
