

The McCook Tribune.

By F. M. KIMMELL.

$1.50 A YEAR IN ADVANCE.

GENERAL BADEAN, historian of General Grant, is dead.

THE depository law will stand for two years more at least, and doubtless much longer.

ABOUT all that state board of irrigation will afford is a place for a few more useless place hunters.

THE next Nebraska editor that refers to himself as "ye editor" should be expatriated or decapitated—preferably the latter.

COLONEL HOWARD of the Papillon Times is the chrysanthemum of the house of representatives. It never gets so frigid in the lower house but that the darling Edgar rises high above his chilly environment and bursts forth in bloom resplendent and full of charm.

ANOTHER brutal and disgraceful murder is reported from the bloody Niobrara country. This time it is a woman who is said to have known too much about certain lawless stock rustlers who infest that section. The Niobrara country is fast acquiring a reputation that for darkness can discount hell itself.

MANY people and some editors pride themselves on saying what they think at all times and upon all subjects, under the impression that they are doing the manly, independent, wise thing. But the wise man and the prudent publisher hears much and says little, and that in moderation and in due season.

CHAPLAIN MACAYEAL of the senate has received a letter from an Iowa lady who thinks the effort to raise the age of consent for girls to eighteen years is a praiseworthy one, but thinks the age at which a man should be adjudged guilty should be twenty-one years. The effect of this more than liberal sentiment toward innocent and unprotected young men of nineteen and twenty is lost in the addition of the cheerful suggestion that when a man has committed this offense he should have his ears cut off, so that he would be marked and women would be warned of his character.—Lincoln Journal.

It was clearly meant that all men as well as women should marry; and those who, for whatever reason, miss this obvious destiny are, from nature's point of view, failures. It is not a question of felicity (which in eight cases out of ten may be more than problematic) but of race responsibility. The unmarried man is a skulker, who, in order to secure his own ease, dooms some woman, who has a rightful claim on him, to celibacy. And in so doing he defrauds himself of the opportunities for mental and moral development which only the normal experience can provide. He very deliberately stunts the stature of his manhood, impoverishes his heart and brain, and chokes up all the sweetest potentialities of his soul. To himself he is apt to appear like the wise fox that detects the trap, though it be ever so cunningly baited, and refuses to surrender his liberty for the sake of an appetizing chicken or rabbit which after all may be a decoy, stuffed with sawdust; while as a matter of fact his case is that of the cowardly servant in the parable, who, for fear of losing his talent hid it in a napkin, and in the end was deemed unworthy of his stewardship.—North American Review.
