SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of an order of sale directed to me from the district court of Red Willow county, Nebraska, on a judgment obtained before Hon. D. T. Welby, judge of the district court of Red Willow county, Nebraska, on the 15th day of January, 1895, in favor of George Hocknell as plaintiff, and against George M. Chenery et al. as defendants, for the sum of three hundred thirty-eight ($338) dollars and forty (40) cents, and costs taxed at $25.18 and accruing costs, I have levied upon the following real estate taken as the property of said defendant to satisfy said judgment to-wit: The undivided one-half interest in lot thirteen (13) in block two, n. w. 22 (22) in the original town (now city) of McCook, Red Willow county, Nebraska. And will offer the same for sale to the highest bidder, for cash in hand, on the 13th day of May, A. D., 1895, in front of the south door of the court house in Indianola, Nebraska, that being the building wherein the last term of court was held, at the hour of one o'clock, p. m. of said day, when and where due attendance will be given by the undersigned. Dated April 12th, 1895.
E. R. BANKS, Sheriff of said county.
W. S. MORLAN, Attorney. 4-12-95.

Tuesday was the day called pay day.

Conductor Tom Mundy is now able to go out on his run.

Mrs. S. W. Gildner arrived home, first of the week, from the visit to Beloit, Kansas.

Conductor W. G. Reddin is still in a serious condition with an attack of pneumonia.

The Burlington's earnings for February show a reduction of over three hundred thousand dollars.

John Carter, a railroad man from McCook, bought a farm north of here, Monday.—Hollbrook Herald.

J. R. Roxby went down to the farm near Arapahoe, last Friday night, to spend Sunday. Mrs. Roxby is expected up tonight.

It just took a certain railroad man a few brief hours, Tuesday afternoon, in a friendly card game, to lose his entire pay check, the labor, hard labor perhaps, of a whole month. Does it pay?

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wilkinson have gone to housekeeping in the George Leming residence on north Marshall street. Mrs. Wilkinson arrived in the city, Tuesday night, from her extended visit home.

Cards are out for the wedding of Will D. Beyrer and Miss Cora M. Thompson, Wednesday, April 17th. They are among McCook's most highly esteemed young people, and THE TRIBUNE wishes them an advance a running-over measure of conjugal bliss.

Don't forget the first annual ball of the Railroad Employes' Club in A. O. U. W. hall, next Monday evening, April 15th. Tickets are only 50 cents. The Pythian orchestra will provide the music. It will be one of the terechorean events of the season. Dig up two quarters and go, if you enjoy a good dance.

A young man named Ed. O'Conner, who has been in the company's employ, left the city, Monday night, forgetting to make it square with Charley Leach for a watch which he took with him. The marshal at Oxford took the young man in hock pursuant to a telegram from this place. O'Conner gave up the ticker and he was allowed to continue on his way.

The Burlington Route will, until April 15th, haul seed grain free of charge from all points on their lines east of the Missouri river to points in Gosper, Furnas, Frontier, Red Willow, Hayes, Hitchcock, Chase and Dundy counties, in cases only where the grain is to be given to the farmers without charge; in cases where grain is to be placed on shares, or where it is to be paid for by the farmers in cash or otherwise, the emergency rates in effect will be collected.

C. E. MAGNER, Agent.

Some time ago Mr. Charles S. Fee, the general passenger agent of the Northern Pacific, advertised for competitive styles of railroad advertising in the first-class magazines of the country. These specimen ads. were to be either full page or half page. In response to his liberal offers of prizes several thousand railroad men and other enterprising competitors sent in their ideas of the best form of railroad advertising in the magazines. The Journal takes pleasure in announcing that a well-known Lincoln man, A. C. Zeimer, ticket agent of the Burlington, drew the first prize in the great competition.—Lincoln Journal.

Hon. C. F. Manderson, general solicitor of the B. & M. railroad in Nebraska, will, as soon as some changes are made, take up his headquarters in the general offices of the Burlington company at Tenth and Farnam streets. It is proposed to give Mr. Manderson two rooms on the east of the building, en suite, with the offices of the general manager, moving the telegraph and claim account offices farther to the north. Until these changes are made Mr. Manderson will continue to occupy his former office over the Omaha Savings bank. Under the terms of his contract with the Burlington Mr. Manderson will devote his whole time to the law business of the Burlington, and will be assisted whenever necessary, by C. J. Greene, who has been connected with the B. & M. for some years in a legal capacity.—Bee.

FREAKS OF NATURE.

Some Curious Things That Amuse and Astonish Men of Science.

Nature's freaks of fancy afford a strange study. People are constantly sending to the National museum supposed fossil animals and other oddities which are in reality mere accidental forms carved by water. A pebble in a stream gathers about itself grains of sand until an odd shaped lump is made. A favorite shape for such lumps is that of a turtle with four legs, a head and tail, even the lines of the shell being sometimes distinct. Similar concretions of carbonate of iron and clay assume the appearance of petrified peanuts. Break one, and you will always find inside a small spiral wrinkle shell, which has served as the nucleus. A queer counterfeit of this kind, forwarded to Washington not long ago, was an alleged fossil foot of a child, with a little stocking on, the latter showing signs of wear on the ball of the foot and on the heel. It was only a concretion, as was likewise what appeared to be a petrified oyster on the shell.

One eminent scientist has been amusing himself of late by making imitation spider webs out of quartz fibers. It is well known that copper wire can be drawn to a fineness much less than the thickness of a hair—in fact, to the diameter of the one-thousandth part of an inch. But glass may be spun finer than copper, while even the finest spun glass is not so fine as silk fiber. The latter, however, is coarse compared with the threads that can be obtained by melting quartz under a blowpipe and pulling it out. Such threads may be reduced to a thinness of one-millionth of an inch. Drawn to such tenacity, they are invisible under a microscope of the highest power. Yet they are stronger in proportion to their thickness than the best quality of bar steel. Enough thread like this could be made from a single cubic inch of quartz to go around the world 658 times. A grain of sand barely large enough to be visible to the naked eye would yield 1,000 miles of thread.

Obviously no practical use can be made of threads so extremely fine. Comparatively coarse ones were woven into cobwebs by the scientist aforesaid. They would not catch flies because they were too slippery, having no gluten on them, like real cobwebs. This difficulty was got over by moistening a straw in castor oil and gently stroking the threads with it; then the webs captured flies fairly well. But a cobweb is incomplete without a spider, so it occurred to the experimenter to attract an arachnid to his web by the buzzing of a fly. It was difficult to make a fly buzz to order, but a satisfactory imitation was produced by permitting a tuning fork to vibrate against the quartz fibers. This fetched the spider right away. The scientist also amused himself with blowing bubbles of quartz, which looked exactly like the most beautiful soap bubbles.—Washington Star.

Sponge Fishing.

The Greeks are considered the principal sponge fishers, and it takes much experience, skill and hardihood to qualify a man for a first class place among sponge divers. Many of the most valuable specimens are found at a depth varying from 10 to 35 fathoms. To aid in the descent, the divers make use of a triangular stone, with a hole in one corner, through which a rope is spliced. On reaching the deep sea gardens, where the rock ledges are clothed with marine growths, the diver, retaining a hold on his rope, dexterously breaks away the holdfast of the sponges and places them under his arm until a sufficient load has been gleaned, when a pull on the rope signals his companions above that he is ready to ascend, and he is then hauled to the surface, bearing his ocean treasures.—Exchange.

Manuscript of "The School For Scandal."

No printed version of "The School For Scandal" was prepared for publication by Sheridan. He always alleged that he could not supply one with which he was perfectly satisfied. Yet he made the attempt, and Mr. Fraser Rae has discovered the copy containing his final corrections of passages in many scenes, which Moore must have overlooked, the documents at his disposal having recently been put into Mr. Fraser Rae's hands by Sheridan's descendants for the purpose of writing a complete biography of the great dramatist and orator. The manuscript is imperfect, yet enough is extant to show how effectually Sheridan could add a fresh charm to his polished phrases.—London Athenaeum.

Rulers of Horses and Men.

It is instructive to compare the visage of the ruler of horses with that of the ruler of men. The horseman's face shows command in the mouth; the drill sergeant's in the mouth and the eye. The last is undoubtedly the most effective instrument in exacting obedience from our own species. Here we get a hint of the cause of that want of docility, that element of coarseness, which is discernable in the countenances of some men and women who have much to do with horses. The higher and nobler method of expressing authority it outweighed by the lower and more animal one.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Are Men Getting More Vain?

A local philosopher, who makes a practice of observing other people's manners and commenting upon their habits, states that nearly every man now carries a pocket mirror. According to him, this habit has grown immensely of late, and nearly every man can be observed at frequent intervals pulling a glass out of his pocket and looking at the set of his necktie or the appearance of his whiskers.—Philadelphia Call.
