The attendance was rather small, Monday evening, at the first grand annual ball of the Railroad Employees' Club, held in the A. O. U. W. hall, on account of the extremely unpleasant weather—the high wind and dust making a combination of disagreeableness which only the stout-hearted would brave. The music was excellent, and those who braved the elements were rewarded with a good time just the same. But for the weather the affair would have been notable for attendance as well as enjoyment.

Among the passengers on No. 3, Sunday night, bound for Denver, were Congressman Sibley of Pennsylvania and General Warner of New York, two famous free silver champions, who were accorded an ovation in Denver, Monday evening. Charles Miller, a business partner of Sibley, was a member of the party. Senator Jones, who was expected to be one of the party, missed connection in Chicago somehow. Sibley is a wealthy possibility as a candidate for president on the free silver party's ticket. He is a very forceful logical debater of unusual information. He has already become famous for the expression of some of his views.

The remains of Miss Walker, who was recently murdered by her lover Jacob Lapp, at Alger, Wyoming, were on Friday last buried in the city cemetery at this place. Miss Walker, we are informed, was a sister of the man who runs a section on the Burlington at Alger. The brother opposed the marriage of the sister with Lapp who worked on his section force. In disappointment and rage the desperate fellow murdered his sweetheart and then killed himself. His body occupies a suicide's grave along the track near Alger, while his victim rests in Longview cemetery of this city. We understand that all parties to the tragedy were former residents of the Russian settlement here.

A Few Words from Dr. Hathorn.

To the Editor of THE TRIBUNE, McCook, Nebraska:—I noticed in your paper of April 5th a slanderous reply to Mrs. Hathorn's report, published in the Bartley Inter-Ocean, concerning relief distributed by her and myself. It appears to us like a malicious personal attack. They styling themselves "Many members of James Laird Post," assume that we should report to them. They make assertions that are untruthful and misleading. They furnish no facts to sustain their position. I claim we are under no obligations to the Post or Corps for the supplies we have received, or the disposition we have made of them, and I base my claim upon the following facts. Last December Mrs. Hathorn read in the Christian Herald an article asking for a volunteer distributor in each district of the drouth stricken west. Knowing of a few families that were very destitute, she answered the article offering her services with my assistance. In her letter she did not mention that we were officers and members of a Post and Corps. She did not use the words G. A. R. or W. R. C. She did not use her influence in any way as an officer or member of any society. Her only thought was to furnish relief to the needy and destitute. As a result of her appeal the following article appeared in the Christian Herald of December 26th, 1894:

"In this vicinity, writes Mrs. J. E. Hathorn, Bartley, Nebraska, there are many in need of clothing and bedding, especially among the old soldiers, and we would be glad to distribute any clothing sent us."

The words "we" and "us" have reference to Mrs. Hathorn and myself. Her name again appears in the same paper in a list of names headed, "Volunteer Distributors. The following have consented to act as distributors of all gifts of clothing and supplies, which should be sent express charges prepaid."

Mrs. Hathorn and I belong to several societies in town, and each have an equal right to our support. Special mention of old soldiers was prompted from a kind feeling toward them, without a thought of soliciting supplies for the exclusive use of Post and Corps. The general distress and want led her to appeal for the needy regardless of society. Who are we responsible to for our distribution? I claim to the Christian Herald and the donors. I base my claim upon the following:

New York, March 7th, 1895.
Dr. J. E. Hathorn, Bartley, Neb.

Dear Sir:—Your favor of the 26th ult. received. All supplies sent to our volunteer distributors were to be distributed by them either personally or by some responsible individual whom they choose to associate with them for that purpose. The distributor alone being responsible and being expected to account for the work. We understand, of course, that this applies not only to the goods sent from the Christian Herald direct, but all received from other quarters as the result of its appeal. The volunteer distributors are responsible to no one for their work in this matter outside of the Christian Herald. Very Truly Yours,
THE CHRISTIAN HERALD.

A letter from the Home and Employment Committee of the W. R. C., Lancaster, Mass., reads: "Mrs. J. E. Hathorn, Dear Sister:—The intention of the committee was to send them to you for distribution to the old soldiers or their families who most needed them. We had no knowledge that there was a Post at your place or a Relief Corps. I saw your name in the Christian Herald and then suggested your name. A. BUCHNER."

Now then would it not follow that if Mrs. Hathorn must turn over supplies to our Relief Corps because they came from Relief Corps, they should be turned over to a special Relief Corps committee. I claim her decision was wrong. Every society sending supplies to Mrs. Hathorn through the influence of the Christian Herald understood her position and accepted her to distribute their supplies, and so expressed themselves in their letters. But she consented to turn over supplies coming from Relief Corps. She also, through correspondence, received supplies sent to the Corps through her, and these supplies have always been turned over. I have always given a report of everything sent to the Post through me, and the Post has always had the privilege of disposing of it as they thought proper. My action in regard to the coal was approved of without a dissenting vote. I have never refused the Post the right to dispose of their own supplies as they saw fit, and they have always done so. The statement that I ignored any committee that approached me on Post matters is not true. I have stated frankly that we have no secrets connected with our work and I have been anxious to learn upon what facts they base their complaint.

We believe the history of our Post and Corps will show that we have taken as much interest and have done as much for their benefit and their members at least as those who have worked up the present state of affairs.
