The various Nebraska roads have been providing the box cars with grain doors in anticipation of big shipments of grain. These doors are necessary in the box cars to prevent the grain from spilling out. This is the first time in three years when it has been necessary to provide these doors, and is a straw which shows which way the wind is blowing. It means that the roads realize that the box cars are going to be at a premium, and that every car will be loaded to its full capacity. The roads are also calling in the scattered cars and are getting them home for use when the shipment of grain begins.
