NUMBER 21.

McCook Picnic at Long Beach, Cal.

FOURTEENTH YEAR.

A delegation of the McCook people of Los Angeles left the city, last Sunday, September 22d, for a day at the ocean. Leaving Los Angeles at 9 a. m., a pleas-ant half-hour's ride through orange groves, fruit and alfalfa farms landed us at the popular seaside resort, Long Beach. The first two hours were spent in walking through the parks and over the city. A charming retreat was found under the cypress and magnolias, and all did justice to a bountiful repast prepared for the oc-casion. The sound of the waves dashing on the shore hurried us to don our bath- transferred from Inavale to Axtell as ing suits and solve the problem of "What agent. are the wild waves saying". All enjoyed the dip except Doctor Odell, who being afraid of the water could not be coaxed in. Al. Bump being the lion of the occasion dared not let go of the life line consequently came out with a bloody nose.

After all had quenched their thirst with the briny water we decided to gather shells, the beach affording ex- ding trip. cellent opportunities, being six miles in and watching the sun set over the placid | Pythias business. waters of the Pacific, the train whistle reminded us that the day's outing was over, a tired crowd boarded the cars, wishing | Westland on 234. that the rest of the McCook people could, have shared the day's pleasure. The following families were present: C. W. Paine and family, E.B.Odell and family, Alex. Weaver and family, F. S. Granger and family, Hiram Thrailkill and family, H.G.Terrill and family, A .G.
