Trainmen running out of North Platte are becoming alarmed at the frequent accidents and trouble occurring to them while on duty on the Third district. The shooting of brakemen Gilfoyle and Norval recently, and many fights with tramps and coal heavers between North Platte and Sidney make trainmen feel a little ticklish over the situation.

SENATOR THURSTON and wife have gone to Washington to live at the Arlington until the holiday recess when they return to Omaha. Whether they will keep open their residence in the latter city after New Year's or remove to Washington with their children for the six years' term of the senator is not determined and will likely not be until the latter part of next month.

Acquitted of Murder.

Neligh dispatch: The Eichler murder trial closed Saturday night of last week. The case was given to the jury at 10 o'clock and after an hour's deliberation a verdict of acquittal was reached. Judge N. D. Jackson of Neligh and Berryman of Creighton conducted the defense. County Attorney Freeze was assisted by Judge Gurney. The defense showed that Black had come to Eichler's armed and evidently intended to continue the trouble concerning cattle that were running at large. When Black came Eichler was in the bed getting ready to drive to Creighton. Hearing Black and Mrs. Eichler talking loudly he took his revolver and went out to meet Black who threatened but did not shoot at all. The three shots of Eichler's were sent at intervals as Black retreated.

SOME PENSION REFORMS.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY REYNOLDS MAKES SUGGESTIONS.

NECESSARY LEGISLATION.

Pensionable Rights of Minor Children—Should Be More Clearly Defined—Proper Punishment for Embezzlement of Pension Money—Abuses in the Pension Fund Management.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Judge Reynolds, assistant secretary of the interior, in his annual report recommends legislation which will define with more certainty the pensionable rights of minor children under the act of June 27, 1890, in those cases where the soldier dies leaving no widow surviving, the construction of the act on this point now being in much doubt and the title of such children being sustained only by implication. The suggestion of a year ago for a more uniform rule for proof of marriage in pension cases is renewed. Stress is again laid upon the recommendation of the previous year for legislation which will secure for their maintenance, to wives and children of pensioners who unlawfully abandon those dependent upon them, a portion of the bounty paid to such pensioner, and also for legislation which will remedy the evils arising from the manner of making the quarterly payments by checks direct to the agencies to certain weak and incompetent persons, who on such occasions are subject to schemes of the dissolute and induced to squander their pension money. It is also suggested that while the statutes provide a proper punishment for embezzlement of pension money by guardians, yet there should be lodged, if possible, in the Federal courts the rights of anyone on behalf of the government to intervene for the purpose of securing greater protection to the fund and a speedier process for its recovery. It having been brought to the attention of the department that many and flagrant abuses exist in the management of pension funds which are not properly and effectively remedied by application to the local courts by those entitled to institute the proceedings. During the year the assistant secretary has brought practically up to date the work of his office in reviewing pension cases appealed from the decision of the commissioner of pensions.

HELPING IRRIGATION.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION IS HANDED DOWN.

The Irrigation Law Declared Constitutional by the State Supreme Court—Private Property May be Taken for the Purpose of Constructing Canals—An Enthusiast on the Subject.

The Irrigation Cases.

LINCOLN, Nov. 20.—The supreme court has handed down the most important decision in any of the irrigation cases before that body. The verdict of the lower court in the case of the board of Alfalfa Irrigation district, appellees, against M. S. Collins et al. appellants, was affirmed. The decision is by Justice Post. A portion of the syllabus holds:

"The act approved March 26, 1895, known as the district irrigation law, provides that when bonds are authorized by a vote of any irrigation district application may be made to the district court of the county in which such district or part thereof is situated for an order confirming and approving the same. At the time set for hearing, and after notice by publication to all concerned, any person interested in said district may appear and resist such application, and the court may examine into and determine all questions pertaining to the organization of the district, as well as the regularity of the voting and issuing of such bonds. Held: Not to contemplate the taking of property without due process of law, by means of taxation, within the prohibition of the state or federal constitution. Irrigation districts organized under our laws are public rather than municipal corporations, and their officers are public agents of the state. The district irrigation law does not conflict with the constitution by authorizing the taking of property for private use only. The district irrigation law is not unconstitutional on the ground that the power thereby conferred upon districts to levy taxes is without limitation."

This case has been watched with great interest by all the prominent exploiters of irrigation works in the state. Section Akers of the State Board of Irrigation and Matt Daugherty, in particular, are greatly elated over the decision. It was feared that recent California decisions, which, in many respects, are exactly opposite to this, especially so that of Judge Ross, might be followed as authority, to the great detriment of the irrigation interests of Nebraska. Five states are now in regard to the fundamental principles of the constitution in California, Washington, Colorado, Nevada and Nebraska.

Matt Daugherty arrived in town today in anticipation of the decision. He is very much elated, as he is prominently identified with the Alfalfa company. He said: "This decision is one of the most important ever handed down by the supreme court. There are a great many people in the eastern part of the state who do not fully appreciate its full significance. It means immediate work for a large number of men at a time when there is nothing else to work at, and when they need it. Between now and the time when the earth is too solidly frozen for profitable labor a great deal can be accomplished. I shall put quite a number at work at once. Others will do the same in Keith county and other parts of the northwest."

"There is another thing about artificial irrigation which has not been observed by everybody. The more irrigation the more rainfall. If you noticed the fact during the past season those portions of Nebraska where irrigation is most forwardly received the greatest percentage of precipitation. The eastern and southeastern portions of the state received less rainfall this season than the northwestern portion. I have also noticed a peculiarity in the watersheds of Nebraska. Streams and lakes will go down, some of them go dry entirely, then without a drop of rain they will again fill and swell to their normal condition. It is also known that water can be taken from streams and without any effort to detect the water in the irrigation ditch back to the streams it will find its own way, so that no perceptible deficiency will be noticed in the streams below the point from which the water was taken. Nebraska is the grandest state for irrigation purposes in the union."

IRRIGATION INTERESTS.

Those Desiring to Promote the Enterprise Invited to Nebraska.

LINCOLN, Nov. 20.—The secretary of the Nebraska State Irrigation association, A. G. Wolfentarter, has issued the following: "To All Friends of Irrigation in Nebraska: The third annual convention of the Nebraska State Irrigation association will be held in Sidney, Neb., on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, December 17, 18 and 19, 1900. The ablest experts and speakers of national and state reputation on this highly important question of irrigation will be in attendance and will deliver addresses and read papers upon the various phases of this agricultural science. The representation in said convention will be as follows: The governor of the state is requested to appoint twenty delegates from the state at large. The state board of agriculture, the State labor commissioner, the State university and the university agricultural department, ten delegates each. All farmers' institutes, granges, county or local agricultural or horticultural societies connected with the development of agricultural interests in Nebraska not herein otherwise provided for, ten delegates to each organization, to be chosen or appointed as the officers of the respective societies or organizations named shall decide. Each irrigation association larger than a county will be entitled to a delegation of all its officers and fifteen additional delegates. Each local irrigation association will be entitled to a delegation of all officers and ten members."

Majorors of cities are requested to appoint delegates each, villages five delegates, presidents of boards of trade and commercial clubs five delegates each, private and denominational colleges three delegates each, and every labor organization, local or state, shall be entitled to three delegates.

Every regularly organized irrigation ditch company shall be entitled to one delegate. Editors of agricultural and irrigation publications in Nebraska showing their present position or occupation, be entitled to seats in the convention. A general invitation is extended to all past and present members of congress from this state, all past and present state officials, the present members of the Nebraska state legislature and all county officials now holding office to attend as delegates. Reduced railroad rates will be obtained on all railroad lines. For further information see the daily and the weekly press or write to the secretary.

FOUR HEADS CUT OPEN.

David Henderson Wins a Hatchet With Terrible Effect.

EMPORIA, Kan., Nov. 20.—Dunlap, a little village thirty miles north of here, is wild, and most of its inhabitants are out on a man hunt. David Henderson, a colored school teacher, attempted an assault on Dora Ray, a 14-year-old colored girl. This, it is claimed, is his second attempt. The school board met last night to investigate the first case. With the assistance of a lawyer the matter was settled and Henderson virtually exonerated. The girl's father, Samuel Ray, however, was not satisfied, and wanted Henderson held for trial. A quarrel ensued, and Henderson grabbed a hatchet and split Ray's head open. He then made a rush for the door and was met by Mrs. Ray in the aisle. He struck her in the head with the hatchet and Mrs. McFall, a sister of Dora Ray, also had her head cut open. Just as he was going through the door Henderson split Thomas Starkey's head with another blow.

He then fled and has not as yet been captured, although nearly the entire town is out hunting him, and telegrams have been sent to all surrounding towns informing them of the terrible affair. None of his victims are as yet dead.
