SOUND DOCTRINE OF PROTEC-TION THE WAR CRY.

The Democrats Will Not Be Permitted to Donge the Issue That Is Engaging the Attention of the American Peo-

Englishmen appreciate the fact that the Gorman tariff's lease of life is limited. In the Manchester Courier and Lancashire General Advertiser of November 7, 1895, we find the following:

"A significant feature of the elections is that, not only do the Republican victories foreshadow a Republican President next year, but they render it probable that the Wilson tariff will, in the near future, give place to one of a more stringently protective character. This result is especially pointed to by the election in Ohio, the home of Mr. McKinley. The tariff question entered largely into the electioneering issues, the Democrats supporting the Wilson bill, the Republicans asking for further protection, and the candidate of the latter party was elected by a large majority. For the first time, Utah takes part as a state in the elections, and the tide of Republican victory has, apparently, reached as far as the Salt Lake City. The victory of Tammany Hall is not a matter upon which the United States can be complimented, and the prospect of an unfavorable revision of the Wilson tariff is one which is not satisfactory to ourselves."

London Views Our Wool Market.

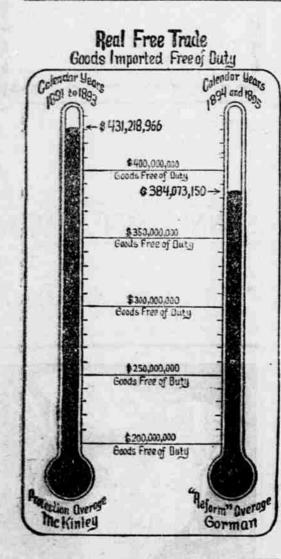

Messrs. Helmuth Schwartze & Co., of London, comment upon the fact so well known here, that the United States in 1895, in addition to the unprecedented imports of raw wool, also imported "manufactures of wool to the extent of over sixty million dollars ($60,000,000) as against less than seventeen million dollars ($17,000,000) for the preceding year."

This increase in the American imports of woolen goods is roughly calculated as equal to 130 million pounds of raw wool, which is exactly the amount of the increase in the world's supply of the year 1895. If American wool had been used to manufacture the increased amount of imported woolens. more than one half of the entire American clip would have been consumed in their production. The increase in the imports of wool, including that used in the manufacture of woolens imported in 1895, over the average of the previous four years was over 257 million pounds (a quantity within 37 million pounds of the American wool production for 1895), an increase of about 114 per cent. The effect of this extraordinary increase in imports upon American prices is now being very seriously felt.

The colony of New Zealand has imposed a tax on commercial travelers from other places. The apparent object of this new form of protection is to secure business for the local agent, and to prevent travelers from abroad selling direct to distributing houses. The truth is that this very question of rising wages is what makes a good many men free-traders. People with fixed incomes think that anything which raises wages is inimical to them. ## A Rolling Steamship.

The long talked of attempt to roll over instead of through the sea is apparently about to be made. In the yard of the St. Denis on the Seine a boat is being built for this purpose. It consits, briefly, of a deck supported by two parallel rows of gigantic trolley wheels, four in each row. These wheels are hollow and float in the water, thus supporting the deck as on a series of buoys. The vessel is propelled by a jet of water under pressure issuing from the stern and reaching the seawater.

The meeting Now there are twenty-nine schools was at Fairbank's request, and had discussion of the question of making a dramatic star of Mrs. Carter.

According to the witness, he told Fairbank the cost of that undertaking would be $40,000 to $50,000, which was no more than was paid for preparing Mary Anderson for her career. > Negotiations progressed so far that Belasco retired from his other business engagements to devote his entire time to the development of Mrs. Carter's talents. Fairbank had asked the witness several times not to come to him at his hotel, as, witness being a theatrical man, his coming was apt to excite gossip. A charge of managers for Mrs. Carter was effected at a cost of $500, which Fairbank paid. On one occasion, according to Belasco's testimony, Fairbank said to him: "Belasco, what is this I hear about your leaving Mrs. Carter after she makes her debut? I can't spare you; I want you to tour with her and write plays for her.

> To this Belasco says he replied: "Goodness me, I can't do that. I don't want to go on a tour and become a theatrical manager, as I have a wife and grown up daughters-and can't give up my business.

BFairbank asked how much Belasco made a year, and when he was told that it was between $25,000 and $30,-

Witness said he finally agreed to go on a tour and informed Fairbank it would cost $20,060 for a Broadway production, to which Fairbank replied: "Consider Mr. Allen a bank and draw on him for money." The witness asked to be excused from relating other conversation which took place at this interview, saying he wished to spare Fairbank as much as possible.
