COMBINATION FENCE

AS A
PORTABLE, TEMPORARY CORNGRIB

IS UNRIVALLED BY ITS MARVELOUS
 CHEAPNESS.

No Farmer can afford to be without it

Made from No. 1 Yellow Pine 3/8 in. thick and 1 1/2 in. wide, 4 ft. long, all being bound together by machinery, by 5 double strands of No. 12 1/2 galvanized steel wire, and put up in rolls of five rods each. After filling up a crib 4 ft. high, place another length of 4 ft. on top of same, as shown in cut above. Thus we will have 10 cables of No. 12 1/2 galvanized steel wire holding together solidly our crib.

Capacity, 500 bushels; diameter, 12 feet; height, 8 feet; price, $3.75. Temporary corncribs do not necessarily require a board floor, except a little hay, straw or fodder, just sufficient to keep the corn from coming into actual contact with Mother Earth, and high enough to prevent flooding in case of rain. Select a patch of high, level ground on which to place the crib, and wire the end slats together. When filled, place another length on top of this as shown in cut above. When the crib is filled we advise to cover the top with hay or straw, shaped the same as a hay stack. Lots of people erect the crib right in the cornfield, filling them as fast as corn is gathered, where it may remain until the less busy season of the winter months, when it can be shelled right at the crib and hauled to the granary or market as desired.

 Conductor and Mrs. Frank Kendlen witnessed the Wild West show, Tuesday. Miss Lizzie Stevens, who has been their guest, accompanied them home to Hastings.
 We learn with regret from Los Angeles, California, that E. B. Odell, who was formerly a Burlington conductor here, is lying in the Santa Fe hospital there very ill with an attack of typhoid fever.
 Harry Dixon, who some weeks ago traded off with Frank Worden, this week moved his household goods down from Denver. He is occupying the house recently vacated by Mrs. C. M. Wilson on Monmouth and Dearborn.
 C. A. Stultz of McCook will arrive in this city the 15th inst. Mr. Stultz accompanied the Mandolin club on their trip through the hills in the spring. He is a very fine guitar player and plays well on other instruments. He will organize a class in music and is certainly deserving of a liberal patronage.—Alliance Grip.
 The new B. & M. dining hall has about received its finishing touches, and Landlord Phelps is busy arranging things preparatory to opening the new house. The kitchen is a model of convenience, and the new range seems ample for a house twice as large. While the new building is not so spacious as the old one, it is large enough, as many of the superfluous appendages have been dispensed with. Mr. Phelps will run the house in connection with the Beavor house, which is close by, serving the meals at the dining hall and using the Beavor for lodging his guests.—Akron Pioneer-Press.

Glimpses of the Monroe Doctrine.

In eighteen hundred twenty three, some seventy years ago,
 The president of this nation great, was noble James Monroe:
 The fifth in line from Washington, his rule was wise and just.
 His doctrine of that type and kind, the people well might trust;
 His platform made of solid boards—not one a worthless plank,
 He had no use for boodle hordes, much less for our time crank.
 His heart was very large and kind, with sense of justice full;
 He said my friends we'll stay at home, but shake hands with John Bull.
 Then Johnny he will take the hint, if we do not go hence,
 That while we're friends and stay at home, he must keep off our fence.
 Thus all our presidents in the line, clear down to little Grover,
 Have had the precepts of Monroe to bridge all troubles over.
 Now Johnny Bull in his own home is bright and always calm,
 But still his fingers seem to itch to pick at Uncle Sam.
 When Venezuela, near our shores, lay basking in the sun,
 It dawned on Johnny all at once to take her for his own.
 And now the doctrine of Monroe, of years forever gone,
 Spoke through our congress halls and said, Let Venzy quite alone.
 Now Johnny dare not drop his toys to shake his little fist,
 While Uncle Sam five men sent out, the lion's narrative, to twist.
 With due respect for England's Queen, and all her noble host,
 Monroe draws straight the boundary line along our nation's coast.
 America should hold her own, some wrongs should lightly pass,
 But crowded to the wall, she'll say, You must keep off the grass.

NORTH COLEMAN.
 McCook is a famous resort for visitors from Coleman.

The roads are being repaired in good shape in our precinct.

Potatoes are a miserable slim crop and some patches are miserable quality.

Henry Carruthers' lines came up missing after the Monday night rally at McCook.

Joe Saunders has been building a new sod dwelling. His mother will reside with him.

We hear that some across the line in Frontier county have raised a large crop of turnips.

Rev. D. S. Morris preached an interesting sermon to attentive listeners at Coleman school house, last Sunday. He preaches there Sunday the 25th.

N. D. please let THE TRIBUNE have all the blossoms it can get, not that the out door ones are destroyed we will need them these long winter evenings.

Wilber McClain, John Traphagan and Mr. Pate, Jr., started on an eastern trip overland, on Wednesday. Wilber goes to Iowa, the others probably stop in eastern Nebraska.

In writing up that surprise party of September 19th, we made mistakes. We said that all voters at said party were for McKinley. It should have read all voters but one. We said that Mr. S. received many presents. Those presents belonged to the bride of the next day of which we gave an account. It was purely a mistake on our part.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

Necessity for Adopting the Amendment Enlarging the Supreme Court.

Of these there are twelve in number. Provision has been made by statute so that a vote may be cast upon these amendments as a whole or with reference to each separately. The first amendment on the official ballot is to increase the number of supreme judges of this state from three, its present number, to five. The necessity for this increase becomes clear when we reflect that in the supreme court there are now undisposed of 1,675 cases and that the very highest average rate at which cases have heretofore been disposed of is 660 per annum. To clear the docket of pending cases would require the court as at present constituted, to work more than two years. The cases being commenced in the supreme court are at the rate of 740 annually, so that with a clear docket to commence with it would be impossible to dispose of cases as fast as they are filed.

There is no danger that a majority of those voters who vote upon this amendment will vote against it. An amendment to prevail must receive a majority of all votes cast at the election at which it is submitted. For example let it be assumed that at the coming election there will be cast the highest number of votes for governor. If the aggregate number of votes cast for all the candidates for governor equals 300,000 a constitutional amendment to be adopted must receive 150,001 votes, for the requirement is that the amendment MUST RECEIVE A MAJORITY OF ALL THE VOTES CAST AT THE ELECTION at which it is submitted. From the figures as to the condition of the business of the supreme court above given, it would seem that this particular amendment will meet with no opposition. But this is not enough. A majority of the entire number of electors who vote in Nebraska on November third next must express themselves in favor of this amendment or it will not be adopted.
