

NOBODY ever heard of a dumb anarchist. Anarchism is to a very large extent a disease of the mouth.

In England a politician "stands" for office, but in this county he "runs", and he has to hump himself, too.

THE indications now are, and it should be a source of gratification to the judge as well as of satisfaction to the party, that Judge A. M. Post will be renominated by acclamation for member of the supreme court of the state. Such action will be a recognition of the merits of an able and industrious lawyer, a just and honorable judge, an upright and illustrious citizen.

GOVERNOR HOLCOMB gathered no political moss by his recent response to a question from a New-York city daily newspaper as to the paying off by the people of Nebraska of many millions of dollars mortgage indebtedness. But the governor did add to the growing popular conviction that the governor let demagogism get away with his better judgment.

THE attorney general has decided that under the new law county judges must appoint election boards for the fall election. The provisions of this "non-partisan" election boards law are: That the county judge of each county shall at least ten days prior to the first Tuesday in November of each year appoint three judges and two clerks of election in each election precinct in the county, to serve for the term of one year. They shall each be of good character, approved integrity, well informed, who can read, write and speak the English language and have resided in the precinct in which he is to serve for one year next preceding his appointment and be entitled to vote therein. Said judges and clerks shall during their term of office act at all general, special and municipal elections held in the county, precinct or city in which they reside forms a part. Provided that the county judge shall appoint as judges and clerks of election, at least ten days before election, three judges and two clerks nominated for such offices in precinct primaries. The county judge shall select for each precinct one judge of election from the party polling the highest number of votes at the last general election in the precinct and one judge from the party polling the next highest number of votes in the precinct, and one judge from the party polling the third highest number of votes cast in the precinct.

Can it be maintained that labor is not as much entitled to protection as capital? If American labor cannot hold its own against the influx of free labor, trained in a cheaper market, has it not as much claim on Congress to be protected as the manufacturer who cannot hold his own against the free goods produced abroad by the very cheap labor he now seeks to subdue domestic labor with? If not, then protection to home industry is a lop-sided humbug, and the sooner it is wiped out, and we have free trade all round, the better.

"In my judgment," says Judge M. L. Hayward of Nebraska City, "the best thing that can be done is to renominate Judge Post, which I think will be done by acclamation. Under no circumstances am I a candidate."

HON. WILLIAM E. ANDREWS.

The best criterion by which to judge the Ruler of the Nation, is the wisdom he displays in the selection of his appointees to public offices. President McKinley has manifested his ability and insight into the character of those he has rewarded with offices of trust and emolument.

His selection of Hon. William E. Andrews of Nebraska, as Auditor of the Treasury, meets the approval of the country, not only among those who knew him here as a faithful, conscientious, hard-working Representative in the 54th Congress, but among his people of the 5th Congressional district of Nebraska, where he is honored and beloved. Among the honest yeomanry of the 5th district of Nebraska, a district of farmers, he has made a name to be proud of, where, by his honest industry, he worked his way from an humble farm hand to a seat in the Halls of Congress. In every relation of life, he has acted "well his part", and after having faithfully discharged his duty as Auditor of the great Treasury of the Nation, the sturdy farmers of his state will greet him on his return to Nebraska with greater honors to come.—The National Mirror.

THE end of uncertainty regarding duties on imports gives greater confidence alike to those who have favored the change. The great strength in stocks, particularly in those of the Granger list, reflects assurance of heavy crops. The remarkable rise in wheat, notwithstanding that assurance, is based on heavy buying for export and belief that foreign demands will be large. To these must be added another element of confidence scarcely observed a week ago. The heavy increase in receipts of gold, whether from one side of the Alaska border or the other, swell deposits of the mints and in the banks of this country, and if the yield from new regions answers expectations, may have an influence akin to that of gold discoveries in California. The one retarding force, the strike of coal miners, has caused closing of a few manufacturing works for want of fuel, but negotiations for settlement are still pushed with hope.—"Duns," July 24, '97.

Now is the time to join in this movement which is about to sweep the country. Every one can help and share in the triumph of accomplishing a genuine reform. AUSTRALIA, which last year produced 643,000,000 pounds of wool, is likely to produce no more than half that in the coming season. Her sheep are dying by thousands from starvation on account of shortage, in pasturage, and the quality as well as quantity of her product in this line will be materially reduced, thus adding to the price that American farmers will probably get for theirs.

"WHEN Mr. McKinley sent a commission to Europe to plead again for international bimetalism, two classes of men confidently prophesied ignominious failure. Both must be somewhat discouraged by the results attained and promised. * * * The hope of international bimetalism is not dead. The time has not come when we must choose between making silver a base metal on the one hand, or making it in its depreciated state our only money metal on the other."—New York World.

I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, Henry Steinfarger, Allentown, Pa. Sold by L. W.
