

Godey's Magazine.
The New Year number of Godey's Magazine presents an unusually full table of contents, with many special features.
By a change in its make-up Godey's now gives its readers fourteen pages more reading matter than in the past.
The leading fiction piece is a new serial by Stanley Edwards Johnson, "The Wimpled Maid of Nantucket," which begins in this issue, and is a tale of intense interest, dealing with the loves, aversion and hidden treasures of characters drawn from history.
There are seven other new stories in this number.

There is a Class of People.
Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over 1/4 as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

Landed Proprietor (who has just celebrated an anniversary, to one of his tenants): "Here's a dollar for you, Joe, because you couldn't come to the celebration." Joe: "Thank you, sir; but I think if I'd been there I'd eaten and drank more than that!"—Fliegende Blätter.

Giles: "I wonder what causes Fuller to drink so much of late?" Miles: "He says he is trying to drown his troubles." Giles: "I believe not. It seems as though they can all swim."—Chicago News.

Beauty is Blood Deep.
Clean blood means a clean skin. No beauty without it. Cascarets, Candy Cathartic cleans your blood and keeps it clean, by stirring up the lazy liver and driving all impurities from the body. Begin to-day to banish pimples, boils, blotches, blackheads, and that sickly bilious complexion by taking Cascarets,—beauty for ten cents. All druggists, satisfaction guaranteed, 10c, 25c, 50c.

"My husband," said Mrs. Gadabout, "always calls me his 'duck.'" "Perhaps," suggested Mrs. Seldom-Holme, "he calls you that on account of your cold feet."—Chicago Tribune.

"I wish," muttered Rivers, shivering in his narrow little flat, "the janitor wasn't quite so abstemious, as it were, in the matter of heating this room!"—Chicago Tribune.

WERE ALL REMEMBERED.

A Kentucky Man Who Has Erected Monuments to His Kin and Animals.
In a well-appointed home in Mayfield, surrounded by all the comforts of life, lives Col. Henry Woolridge, one of the country's oldest citizens and the "last of his race," says the Louisville Post. When in the flush of young manhood he was reckoned the champion deer, bear and fox hunter in the Purchase, and many were the trophies he carried home from his numerous hunting expeditions. His room is a veritable hunter's paradise, filled with highly prized specimens of forest and stream. At the age of 81 he loves to call his friends about him and tell of his early prowess as exhibited in marsh, canebrake, river bottom and mountain fastness. Col. Woolridge is eccentric in one particular—his fondness for his brothers, kin, favorite dogs, horses and game in marble. In a little inclosure in the Mayfield cemetery, not over eighteen by thirty-six, he has had erected seventeen handsomely chiseled granite statues. Four are monuments erected to the memory of his brothers, John H., W. F., Alfred N. and William. Two are to perpetuate the memory of beloved nieces, two are representatives of the colonel's favorite foxhounds, Towhead and Bob. In front of these marble likenesses are a fox, a deer, a bear, a panther and near, with head thrown back, as if scenting the fox chase or bear-hunt afar, stands a life-size image in stone of the good old man's bluegrass hunting stallion, Dick. All these are life-size. There is also a large sarcophagus at the back of the burial lot, surmounted by a pedestal bust of the owner, and just in front of the vault is an equestrian statue of Col. Woolridge, made of Michigan granite. A perfect reproduction of the old woodsman's favorite rifle, in bas-relief, hangs over the door of the stone resting place for the dead. This work is the best that a lavish expenditure of money could secure. And now the owner of these has long been ready for the final summons. He has for several years had in his bedroom an elegant rosewood casket and a burial robe. He has always been a bachelor, has been successful in all of his business ventures and is a useful citizen. There will be many a tear shed when the respected old man is gathered to his fathers.

SHAKESPEARE IN LONDON.

He Was Known by Everybody—He Knew All the Notables.

Shakespeare's London was a small city of from 150,000 to 200,000 souls, or about the size of Providence or Minneapolis at the present time, says the Atlantic. In cities of such size everybody of the slightest eminence is known all over town, and such persons are sure to be more or less acquainted with one another; it is a very rare exception when it is not so. Before his thirtieth year Shakespeare was well known in London as an actor, a writer of plays and the manager of a prominent theater. In that year Spenser, in his "Colin Clout's Come Home Again," alluding to Shakespeare under the name of Aetion, or "eagle-like," paid him this compliment:

"And there, though last, not least, is Aetion, A gentler shepherd may nowhere be found; Whose muse full of high thoughts' invention Doth, like himself, heroically sound."

Four years after this, in 1598, Francis Meres published his book entitled "Palladis Tamia," a very interesting contribution to literary history. The author, who had been an instructor in rhetoric in the University of Oxford, was then living in London, near the Globe theater. In this book Meres tells his readers that "the sweet, witty soul of Ovid lives in mellifluous and honey-tongued Shakespeare; witness his Venus and Adonis, his Lucrece, his sugared sonnets among his private friends," etc. To suppose that such a man as this in a town the size of Minneapolis, connected with a principal theater, writer of the most popular plays of the day, a poet whom men were already coupling with Homer and Pindar—to suppose that such a man was not known to all the educated people of the town is simply absurd. There were probably few men, women or children in London, between 1595 and 1610, who did not know who Shakespeare was when he passed them in the street; and as for such wits as drank ale and sack at the Mermaid, as for Raleigh and Bacon and Seiden and the rest, to suppose that Shakespeare did not know them well—nay, to suppose that he was not the leading spirit and brightest wit of those ambrosial nights—is about as sensible as to suppose that he never saw a maypole.

Plucky Little Girl.

A burglar was half through the window of the room occupied by 13-year-old Dora Sarron of New York, the other night. Dora crept to the window and brought the sash down on his neck. And she held him there until the police came.

Trouble About a Book.

A Connecticut man who received a bill for a book that he had no recollection of having ordered sent the following answer: "I never ordered the book. If I did, you did not send it. If I got it, I paid for it. If I didn't, I won't."

Dog Discharged the Gun.

While "Doc" Davis of Nicholasville, Ky., was loading a muzzle-loading shotgun, his dog sat on the floor scratching his ear. The dog's foot hit the hammer and the gun went off. Davis was perhaps fatally shot.

A BOON FOR SUFFERERS.

A Remedy Which Has Cured More Than 1,000,000 People.

"5 Drops" is the name of a powerful remedy which is guaranteed to cure rheumatism, neuralgia, catarrh, asthma, a gripe and kindred ailments. The company is entirely safe in making the guarantee, because every month they receive thousands of grateful letters from those who were sufferers, but have never received one complaint. The effect of "5 Drops" is felt at once. James Williams of Legent, Ill., writes on November 12, 1897: "My wife has been suffering two years with rheumatism. She used about one bottle of '5 Drops,' and can now go without her crutches." To more extensively advertise the merits of this remedy the producers will for the next thirty days send out 100,000 of their sample bottles of this positive cure for 25 cents a bottle by mail prepaid. Large bottles, 300 doses, $1 (for thirty days 3 bottles $2.50). Those suffering should write to the Swanson Rheumatic Cure company, 167-169 Dearborn street, Chicago, Ill., and take advantage of this generous offer. This company is reliable and promptly fill every order.

A statute to Captain Esek Hopkins, the first commander-in-chief of the United States navy, has recently been placed in Providence, R. I., without ceremony and with but little notice from the people even of that place.

"But what do you mean by saying that the man was more or less intoxicated?" asked the lawyer. "Lemme see," said the witness, as he scratched his chin. "I guess I mean if he had been more intoxicated he would have been drunk, and if he had been less intoxicated he would have been sober. How'll that do?"—Indianapolis Journal.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. For Croup, asthma, bronchitis, or whooping cough, there is no remedy so sure and safe as Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. From the first dose its healing influence is manifest. The sufferer who has been kept awake by the cough falls into a restful sleep, and awakes strong and refreshed. Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is acknowledged to be a specific for all pulmonary complaints. Physicians praise and prescribe it.
It is now put up in half size bottles at half price, 50c.
"One of my children had croup. One night I was startled by the child's hard breathing, and on going to it found it strangling. It had nearly ceased to breathe. Having a part of a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house, I gave the child three doses at short intervals, and anxiously waited results. From the moment the Pectoral was given the child's breathing grew easier, and in a short time it was sleeping quietly and breathing naturally. The child is alive and well to-day. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved its life."—C. J. WOOLDRIDGE, Worthen, Texas.
