

THE American flag has been raised over Porto Rican soil, with Commander Wainwright of the Gloucester doing the honors, and remembering the Maine.

THE indications are increasing that the haughty Dons are getting their "honor" fully satisfied and that overtures are being made for peace. Nothing satisfies "Spanish honor" like a thorough whipping.

THE many Hayes county friends of Capt. R. P. High will be pleased to learn that he is being pushed for the republican nomination for commissioner of public lands and buildings, with good chances for receiving the nomination. The republicans of Nebraska would do themselves proud by placing R. P. High on the state ticket. No squarer man ever received the votes of the party.

John McClung had the misfortune to run over a "Mephitic Americana" Saturday evening, while out exercising his bicycle. The pretty thing evidently foully imagined it was the object of a Spanish attack and used its ordinary, and at the same time extraordinary, means of defense, with telling effect. John has buried his clothes, put his wheel out to pasture and sleeps in the barn for the nonce.

It is being more and more recognized as a fact that to get the news of Red Willow county, to get that information in reliable shape and promptly, it is necessary to be a reader of THE McCOOK TRIBUNE, and if you are a reader you ought to be a cash-in-advance, paid-up subscriber. Don't borrow when you can get the paper for yourself for only two cents a week.

After a long and adventuresome voyage the Klondykers, Levy Clay and Ned Rowley returned home, bringing home with them sufficient amount of experience to last them the rest of their days. They seem to think that is all there is up there, and one going in there, Clay says, should be well supplied with money and necessaries of life in order to come out alive. Dell Annis, who was one of the party, stopped at Portland to visit a brother.
