muscles underneath retain their pliability. In addition there is an illustration of the customs house native force, and Bacoor church at Paranaque, near which we were encamped when we first landed upon the island.

OBITUARY.

CORA, the infant daughter of I. D. and Katie Long, died of lagrippe, January 18, at 6 p. m., aged five months and twentytwo days. Services were conducted by the writer at the home, after which the remains were interred in Longview cemetery, McCook.

May the Lord comfort the hearts of the bereaved parents and family. A word in verse to the parents and family:

Of the little life you cherished here Six months had scarce gone 'round,

When you were called to yield it up And lay it 'neath the ground.

Your hearts are sad and lonely now. Your eyes with tears are oft filled, But we have prayed that you might say: Be it as God willed.

For some day on the heavenly shore, If you are faithful here, You'll meet the one that's gone before

And no more parting fear. We hope, dear friends, that God you'll love And closely cling to Him,

Into heaven above, thro' His great love, He'll let you enter in.

It recorded the great events of your childhood, when you were lost as a wandering baby, when you had the measles and scarlet fever, when you fell into the washtub and nearly drowned, when you fell from the cherry tree and broke your collar bone, when you first started to school and when you earned your first prize.

Later on it told how you had completed the studies of the district school and how eloquently you recited your graduating oration.

It told of your entering high school or academy. It told of your contests in baseball and tennis. It told of your departure for college or your first venture in business.

It told of your various visits back to the old home neighborhood, and it always wished you well in your greatest undertakings.

It hinted modestly about the first time you went a courting and gave timely warning to "her folks" that the neighbors knew that matters were growing interesting over their way.

It announced the time of your expected wedding, and it published the notice of the marriage license and gave you a nice puff concerning the wedding ceremony.

It told of your extended honeymoon tour and of your settling down to house-
