EIGHTEENTH YEAR.

McCOOK, RED WILLOW COUNTY, NEBRASKA, FRIDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 1, 1899.

NUMBER 16

Gone to His Reward.

Walter, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sly, who live on the Robert Barr ranch about fifteen miles southwest of this city, passed away, last Friday, after an illness of about two weeks with typhoid fever. The announcement of his death was quite a shock to many of his friends, who thought he was progressing satisfactorily with his fever; but a heart complication quickly brought the young life to a close.

The funeral services were held in the Congregational church of McCook, Sunday afternoon, August 27th at two o'clock, Rev. L. A. Turner of Indianola preaching the sermon, and Rev. W. J. Turner of McCook assisting. The church was filled with sympathetic friends from the Redwillow, where the deceased formerly resided, as well as from the city, and the neighborhood in which his young life went out. Interment was made in Riverview cemetery. The hearts of many go out to the bereaved parents and family in their sorrow and loss.

[WALTER SLY was born in Tazewell county, Illinois, July 6th, 1876, and died on the Robert Barr ranch southwest of McCook, Nebraska, August 25th, 1899, aged 23 years, 1 month, and 15 days. One brother and one sister have preceded him; father, mother and two sisters remain. The departed was a noble young man, well beloved by all who knew him. His life was full of smiles and hearty greetings for all, and his death is deeply and truly mourned by all who knew him.]

A CARD.

We here express our heart's gratitude to the many kind friends who assisted us and to all whose sympathy and prayers were extended to us in our late sickness and bereavement, and especially to those who remembered us with beautiful flowers at our home. To all it is our prayer that your homes may never feel the great sorrow that has the third time come to us in the death of beloved Walter.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN SLY AND FAMILY.

Three Score and More.

Three score and more—to be accurate, just 77—young people of the city drove out to L. A. Colter's farm, close of last week, and indulged in the luscious delights of melon eating not a few; having a high old time, as all agree. The drive of the young people through the city was accompanied by the usual musical demonstration. The slight memento left the host and hostess has called forth the following word of acknowledgement from them:

To the young people of McCook: Please accept our sincere thanks for the very nice present. This kind remembrance will ever remain fresh in our memory. May God bless and ever keep you as the wishes of your friends.

MR. AND MRS. L. A. COLTER.

McCook, Nebr., August 26th, 1899.

Had a Big Time.

Rev. W. J. Turner chaperoned a party of youths of the city, early in the week, in a camping-out experience up on the Redwillow creek. The party went out on Monday and returned on Wednesday. They were well equipped for the purpose with tent and cooking utensils and enjoyed the outing immensely—all the boys. They fished, did their own cooking and had a fine time generally. There was a small rebellion against the way the chaperone cooked the fish, but this matter was easily compromised and the boys cooked them just as crisp as they wanted them after that. There were nine boys in the party: Bruce Campbell, Harold and Robert Sutton, Horace Cole, Lloyd Wood, Fay Brewer, Coy Burnett, Charles Kelley and W. J. Turner.

Death Ends Her Sufferings.

Long a sufferer with consumption, Mrs. William Francisco passed from earth on Wednesday morning, aged 30 years. Her husband, Engineer Francisco, and one child, a daughter, about six years old, survive her. Her parents and two or three sisters have gone the way of all flesh with the same fell disease. Other sisters survive her—some of them similarly afflicted. The funeral services will be held in St. Patrick's church, tomorrow morning at ten o'clock. Interment in Calvary. All sympathy and consolation to the bereaved.

Will Receive the Boys.

The Knights of Pythias are having plans for a big reception to their brother knight, Stephen Bolles, recently returned from the Philippines. It is proposed to have a banquet at the Commercial house and to invite in all the soldier boys in this county who were with the gallant boys in the island campaign. The affair will be a rouser and a fit tribute to the soldier boys we all delight to honor.

Last Night's Entertainment.

The entertainment by the pupils and friends of Misses Mima Richardson and Helen Groff in the opera house, last evening, was but fairly well patronized, suffering somewhat by its nearness to the school entertainment tonight. Most of the entertainment was unique, but as a whole the affair is well spoken of by those present. The Philippine curios shown and described were interesting.

The Committee Meets.

The members of the Republican county central committee met in Indianola, Tuesday, and issued a call for the county convention, which will be held in Indianola, Saturday, September 16th, at one o'clock. The full text of the call will be found at the head of our editorial column.

MR. AND MRS. WALLACE THOMPSON of Trenton were city visitors, last Friday evening.

MRS. J. W. SPIKER and the family spent the day, Sunday, in Cambridge-on-the-Medicine.

MRS. F. M. KIMMELL, Master Schell and Miss Mokko returned from Lincoln, Wednesday night.

MRS. C. H. MEEKER returned home, Saturday night, from her visit in the eastern part of the state.

MISS MILLIE SLABY departed, this morning, for Peru, where she will enter the state normal school.

MISS KITTIE STANGLAND departed, today, for Bartley, where she will teach during the coming term.

MRS. DENNIS CULLEN and the younger children arrived home, early in the week, from their Hastings visit.

SENATOR THURSTON was on the special carrying the boys home from the Philippines. He met the boys at Denver.

WALT RATCLIFF, the Stratton base ball magnate, was in the city, Wednesday night. The "fans" all took to the woods.

MR. AND MRS. WM. MCCALLUM came up from Indianola, Sunday evening on 5, to enable Mrs. McCallum to take No. 6 to Omaha.

MISS IDA BRINTON departed for Des Moines, Iowa, mid-week, after a visit of a week or two with her parents and the family here.

MRS. A. PROBST and the younger children departed, last Saturday, for Independence, Mo., where her parents and a married sister live.

COUNTESS CLARK C. L. ALLEN and T. J. Floyd of the Trenton Register were in the city, last Friday evening, on their way to Omaha, to take in the "midway."

ADJUTANT GENERAL BARRY of Lincoln and Inspector General Lundeau of York, of the Governor's staff, were here to meet and greet the First on their way home.

MR. AND MRS. W. W. McMILLEN and daughter Bertha departed, Tuesday, for the east, to visit relatives in Pennsylvania and elsewhere during their absence.

C. F. COLLINS of the Bennet Union was among those who came to this point to greet the boys of the Fighting First on their way home. We acknowledge a fraternal visit of pleasure.

W. E. WEST and family will depart, Tuesday night, for New Whatcom, Wash., to make his home there—where he formerly resided. They will go via Lincoln to Billings on the Burlington.

DR. A. P. WELLES and Thomas Bennett departed, this morning, for Philadelphia on the G. A. R. excursion. The doctor will remain in the City of Brotherly Love about three weeks, taking a special course in his profession.

G. W. HENKLE and daughter of Beatrice were city visitors, Tuesday, on their way home from spending a week in the mountains of Colorado. He has some real estate interests in our city, which engaged his attention in part while here.

CAPTAIN ADAMS of Superior, Judge Reese of Broken Bow, and Senator Graham of Beatrice, who is also postmaster at that city, were the official representatives of the G. A. R. of the state here to assist in the welcome extended to the First Nebraska.

BENJ. BAKER has arrangements made to make a visit in the state of Washington. He will leave for that state, next Monday a week, and expects to make a pretty thorough investigation of its resources. He has some property and a married son living there.

SHERIFF NELSON, Attorney A. H. Kid and S. S. Peters of the Express, all of Beatrice, formed the delegation that came from the pride of the Blue to greet the boys of the First. The sheriff had a son in the regiment, and his eagerness and anxiety to see the special pull into this station was something great.

MISS MAUD CORDEAL and Selma Noren and Messrs. O. B. Thorgrimson and L. C. Dole indulged in a select picnic in the park at Redwillow, Sunday. The band met them at the depot and escorted them to the park. They went down on 12 and returned home on 5, having had a delightfully warm day.

PRIVATE PATTERSON of company "J,"—better known as the Thurston rifles of Omaha—made this office a brief visit during his short stay in this city. He was formerly of the News-Reporter, Getra, and expects to resume the newspaper work in the Papillon Times—Judge Howard's great unwashed paper.

MRS. A. L. CAVINIS arrived home, Tuesday noon on 1, from her vacation in Michigan. The superintendent was detained a few hours in Chicago, and did not return until 3, the same night. The superintendent at once adjusted his harness and set to work on his preparations for the opening of the fall term of school, next Monday morning, September 4th.

Welcome the Fighting First.

The people of McCook are enthusiastically patriotic and wide-awake was again demonstrated, Tuesday morning of this week, in the reception accorded the Fighting First Nebraska boys upon their first stop in their native or adopted state. After vexatious and repeated delays, until the special was turned over to the old reliable Burlington route, the first section of the special pulled into this station shortly before eleven o'clock, Tuesday morning. Due and full notice had been given of the approach of the train, by sounding whistles and ringing bells, about an hour before the train arrived, so that the people of the city, surrounding country, and visiting delegations from various towns and cities of the state were on hand at the depot in force, all eager to catch a first glance at a familiar form and feature. The entrance of the train into the west end of the yard was the signal for a tremendously noisy ovation and welcome to the gallant boys. Every available whistle and bell in the city was drafted into the service of making a noise. The mosquito battery belched forth its loud welcome, from thousands of throats went forth the same gladsome refrain, and the city's pride—the Nebraska Brigade band—entered the lists with harmonious enthusiasm, and it was a wild moment—a touchingly pathetic moment in some instances—and ever and always enthusiastic and genuine.

At the depot the boys were met and welcomed by a delegation of old soldiers and ladies of the relief corps, who escorted them to the tables nearby where the hungry heroes were given generous lunch and breakfast. This performance was repeated with the second and third sections until all were fed, and still there was food to spare after all the brave lads had taken their departure for their respective homes over the state amidst heartiest cheering, "tigers" and good-byes.

It was a privilege and a pleasure for the people of McCook to give this welcome and reception, and this pleasure was greatly heightened by the evident appreciation of the soldier boys, whose martial spirits were fired anew by the sound of the cannon, the music and the patriotic decorations everywhere in bright tri-color evidence.

Business was practically suspended during the reception, everyone adding his mite to the heartiness and joy of the occasion, which has never been excelled in this part of Nebraska for spirit and enthusiasm. Lower Main avenue, as it leads away from the depot was gaily decorated with flags and bunting; in fact the colors were everywhere in evidence, even the tables being covered in part by patriotic bunting. The scene, as it came to the eye of ex-Commander of the Nebraska G. A. R., Captain Claire Adams, was one of the most inspiring he had ever witnessed, and the affair was, in his estimation, a high tribute to the people of McCook, who never fail when such matters are placed in their hands.

The soliciting of the refreshments and their serving at the large tables specially erected in lower Main avenue for the event, was in the hands of the ladies of the Vesta club, and the ladies—with their assistants—acquitted themselves of that great undertaking most creditably indeed. And the rapid work was most trying in the hot sun of that torrid day.

The Nebraska Brigade band came in for its full need of praise for the delightful music rendered by them during the stay of each section in the city—and handling instruments in that broiling sun was no mere pastime, either.

Bert Colter has a fine display of curiosities from the Philippines.

The Mosquito battery, Captain John Roxby in command, was in evidence as usual, and saluted without incident.

The Baptist brethren indulged in the pleasure of a picnic in a little grove on the Filiter-Filcox ranch, Tuesday.

His comrades in arms say that when Steve Bolles drew a bead on one of the little brown fellows there was always one more good Filipino.

There were two Spaniards with the regiment, one of them having a record as a fighter for the American cause. Neither were enlisted men, however.

All the engines and cars carrying the First were appropriately decorated—some of them very tastefully—with designs, words of welcome and words setting forth their accomplishments.

Red Willow county's representatives in the regiment all stopped off at this point. They were: Harry C. Steers, Bert Colter, Stephen D. Bolles, Jr., Bert Crabtree, Fred Kinghorn, Fred Frey and Frank Traver.

The round-house men and their families are entitled to much credit for their part in the success of the reception. Besides donating the coffee for 315 gallons of the amber fluid, about $40 in cash, they willingly donated their labor in building the long string of tables put up on Main avenue at which the boys were fed. When it comes to generosity and willingness, the round-house boys and their wives never take a back seat.

The officers and men of the First were unanimous and loud in their praise of the manner in which the people of McCook received them and fed them. As the regiment proceeded eastward the boys frequently referred to the enthusiastic and generous reception accorded them here—a personal letter from Lincoln says that the first thing the boys remarked about when they got off the train there was concerning the delightful, warm-hearted and enthusiastic welcome given to them out in McCook. And they meant it.
