

Brewers are interested in the claim that liquid air may be used instead of ice in the manufacture of beer and that one gallon of it, costing 1 cent, will do the work of eighty-five pounds of ice. Consumers of the beverage are concerned lest with such a process the froth will be greater than ever.

"The boys who fought at home," being members of the First Pennsylvania reserves, who were engaged on Little Roundtop during the battle of July, 1863, held a reunion at Gettysburg on Monday, September 11. The homes of many of these soldiers were in plain view from the spot where they fought.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

DEWEY RECEIVES AN OVATION.

The arrival of Dewey in New York Sept. 26, two days ahead of time, changed the reception program to a considerable extent.

Friday, parade of warships, with the Olympia at the head, up North river to Grant's tomb, to fire salute. Admiral Dewey taken ashore at 9 p. m. to spend the night.

Saturday—Admiral Dewey driven to the City Hall park, loving cup presented on behalf of the city. After luncheon the land parade and a smoker at the Waldorf-Astoria.

When the citizens' committee reached the Olympia Thursday, Flag Lieutenant Brumby stood at the head of the admiral's gangway. Capt. Lamberton was close by. Secretary Downes went up first, and as he was greeting the lieutenant, Admiral Dewey came down the ladder from the after-bridge and took position on the quarterdeck.

Secretary Downes, as representative of the mayor, was presented to him and to Capt. Lamberton by Lieut. Brumby, and then in turn came Mr. McKelway, Senator Depew, Richard Croker, William McAdoo, Gen. Howard Carroll, Warren W. Foster, Bernard J. Quinn and Chief Dewey.

"Come to my cabin, gentlemen," said Admiral Dewey, leading the way to his quarters, where the two six-inch guns will they get ashore? I've got 350 men here and they all want to go, and how will they get over from where we are anchored?"

Mr. McAdoo explained that the city would supply boats for the transfer. "That's all right," said the admiral with a smile. "That will be very satisfactory. The men can go ashore in the morning."

"I've arrived here a few days in advance of the time," continued the admiral, with a merry twinkle in his eye, "but I thought it would be better to be two days ahead than one day behind. You know the state I come from. We have to scratch gravel up in Vermont. I thought it would be better to spend the two or three days inside. If we were one day behind it might upset some of the arrangements."

"Yes," remarked Mr. McKelway, "and I might say that your habit of being two or three days ahead has confounded your friends as well as your enemies," at which the admiral laughed heartily.

"May I say," continued Mr. McKelway, "that as the people of New York are ready to embrace the opportunity of honoring you, your arrival two or three days in advance of the celebration might lead you to proceed to New York, where, I assure you, you would

"It almost saddens me," he continued reflectively, "to see what my people are doing for me. The pride and gratification is immense, and I cannot express the appreciation I feel. I didn't know, I didn't really perceive, until this morning the splendid welcome that my countrymen are giving me."

The admiral was then informed that during the time he is a guest of the city the private house of George C. Boldt of the Waldorf-Astoria would be at his disposal.

Dewey on Aguinaldo.
"There are people behind him, some of them lawyers and able fellows, who make a tool of Aguinaldo," said Dewey to a group of reporters. "Here, by the way, is a cane which he presented to me, and the admiral produced a thick black stick carved and resembling Irish bog oak more than anything else. 'I thought,' said the admiral, 'that this thing in the Philippines would be over long before this, as it should have been. I can't imagine how they have stood out until now. Of course there was the rainy season, and I suppose little was done.'"

"One great trouble out there has been that Gen. Otis has tried to do too much. I told him so. He wants to that were so successful at Manila are the principal features. Arrived there, the party sat down and the admiral plunged into a discussion as between the navy of years ago and now.

"You remember, Mr. McAdoo," he said, "how hard it used to be to get anything. All that is changed now. We had quite a struggle in our day, though."

Then Mr. McKelway began his work as spokesman for the committee. The admiral seemed nervous at first as the extent of the city's plans was revealed to him, but he soon had himself well in hand.

"Would it be agreeable to you to come to New York in your own launch or in one of the city's boats?" asked Gen. Carroll.

"My launches are slow," was the reply. "Besides, it might be a bad day, and, anyway, the launch would be awash from the craft in the harbor. Now," turning to Lieut. Brumby, "you know all about these arrangements, Brumby."

"Not so much," replied the lieutenant. "I've had lots of programs and newspapers, but haven't had time to read them closely yet."

The admiral leaned over and put a hand affectionately on the shoulder of his flag officer.

"Gentlemen," he said, proudly, "this is the man, Lieut. Brumby, who hauled down the Spanish flag at Manila and put the stars and stripes in its place."

"How about the crew of this ship?" then inquired Admiral Dewey. "How be most warmly received, but if you anticipate the celebration—"

Admiral Dewey fairly shook with laughter.

"Oh, no," he said, "you needn't be afraid. You can depend on me. I shall remain on board and right here until the mayor calls Friday morning."

Then Admiral Dewey spoke at some length of the reasons which operated to bring him home ahead of time.

"The Olympia has been steaming at the uniform rate of nine knots an hour since we left Gibraltar," he said. "Several days ago we knew that we would arrive before Thursday unless we modified our speed or went somewhere out of our course."

"Capt. Lamberton, Lieut. Brumby and I thereupon held a consultation. The propriety of running into Hampton Roads or some other port in the south was spoken of, but we concluded that we ought not to touch land first anywhere except at New York."

"It was suggested that we cruise some distance outside New York harbor until Thursday, but we knew that if we did that we would be discovered and reported."

"The weather looked a little squally, moreover, and it seemed better to be inside the Hook than outside. But the consideration that really decided us to come into port was to give Capt. Lamberton a chance to clean up the ship before our voyage up the harbor. Capt. Lamberton and I are very proud of the Olympia and we wanted enough time at her anchorage to rub her down and make her look spick and span."

be general, governor, judge, and everything else—to have hold of all the irons. No man can do this. This is the great trouble. It is enough for a man to do one thing, to be one thing, but when a man tries to do everything and to be everything it is easy to imagine the result.

"The fight in the Philippines should be easily ended. The people had been so badly treated for such a length of time by the Spaniards that they are distrustful. This is the great difficulty in dealing with them. Where we have met them and they have been in such contact with us as to learn that we mean to treat them well; where they have seen that we mean what we say, there is no trouble. They stand by us all the time.

"All of them will learn this in time. They will get from under the influence of Aguinaldo, or rather those people who are behind Aguinaldo, who, as I said before, is a mere tool."

"Do I think the Filipinos are fit for self-government? Well, no; not just now. They probably will be in a little time. They are a very queer people—a very queer mixture. Many of them are quite civilized and good people, but I do not think they are fit for self-government just yet. But when I say that, I must add at the same time that it is my candid opinion that they are more fitted for it than the Cubans, that they are a better people than the Cubans in every way."

Self-admiration is ample proof that there is no accounting for tastes.

Colored waiters are to take the place of the undergraduate students of Yale, about thirty in number, who have been helping to pay their way through college by acting as waiters in the Yale commons. This is in accordance with a decision of the faculty, which holds that such work interferes with study.

The question has frequently been asked: Who was Bronx, whose name was given to the Bronx river and to one of the five boroughs of the Greater New York? It appears that the river derives its name from Jonts Bronck, who settled in that region in 1639.

Married people live longer than the unmarried, the temperate and industrious longer than the gluttonous and idle, and civilized nations longer than the uncivilized.

The New England Education League is laboring for a cheap book post by which books from public libraries may be conveyed as second-class matter at 1 cent per pound. Some librarians who have been consulted estimate that if that rate could not be made general it might be applied for a short carriage, as fifty of one hundred miles, and prove profitable to the government, or at least cover the cost of transmission.

THE very word "operation" strikes terror to a woman's soul. Nearly always these operations become necessary through neglect. If the menses are very painful, or too frequent and excessive, get the right advice at once and stop taking chances. It will cost you nothing for advice if you write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for it, and if you let the trouble run along it will surely cost you a great deal of pain and may mean an operation.

by prompt attention to it. Don't be satisfied without Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

MISS SARAH J. GRAHAM, Sheridanville, Pa., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I had suffered for several years with female troubles and doctored until I was discouraged. I felt wretched and tired of living. I had disease of kidneys, bladder trouble, dropsy and bloating, had womb trouble and a large tumor had formed; in fact all my organs were out of fix.

"Seeing a woman's letter praising your remedies, I wrote to her and she begged of me to try it, telling me all that it had done for her. I bought six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now cannot express my gratitude to you. The tumor began to come away in pieces and I got better all the time. I believe now that I am entirely cured.

"My doctors could not believe it at first, as they all had told me that my case was a hopeless one, and no human power could do me any good. They were astounded. If I can say anything that can help other women, I shall be glad to."

It is not safe to wait until the last moment. Head off trouble by prompt attention to it. Don't be satisfied without Mrs. Pinkham's advice.
